GOOD FELLOWS CARRY BASKETS TO 2,100 HOMES

Warmth of Welcome Is Their Reward.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

More than 2,100 families of Chicago's poor heard the tramp of the army of Tribune Good Fellows yesterday as they started on their thirtieth annual campaign. They marched under unseen banners, carrying huge baskets of food and toys into homes where the pantry was nearly empty and where the stockings of 11,000 children might otherwise have gone unvisited by Santa Claus.

Each year the Good Fellow movement, begun by THE TRIBUNE in 1909, grows and spreads. Other cities have taken it up, and it has become an institution in such organizations as the Traffic club of Chicago, the Chicago Rotary Sunshine committee, the Aviation Good Fellows, and the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Take Part in Distribution.

Many smaller groups and hundreds of individuals also participated in the distribution yesterday. These received the names of families in need and did the rest themselves. No publicity attaches to the giver or those who receive. It is all in the spirit of Him who said—"Unto the Least of These."

Several hundred members of the aviation industry gathered at Chicago airport yesterday morning. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal church spoke to them before they started delivering baskets to the 241 families they had adopted for the day.

What the Good Fellow arrival meant to the children waiting before empty trees and stockings can easily be imagined, but what it means to those who bring the gifts is one of the blessed secrets of life. Something of this is expressed in a letter from a man who might belong to that brave brotherhood of whom Edward Arlington Robinson wrote:

He took a frayed hat from his head
And "Peace on Earth" was what he said.

Sends in a Poem.

This man writes:

"In each past year I have enjoyed the privilege of participating in the work of the Good Fellows, but this year I am unemployed and broke myself and cannot contribute in the usual way."

He contributed, however, the following lines dedicated to Edward Churchill Fitch, the first Good Fellow, who passed from this scene 10 years ago, but whose thought lives on:

"O, Heavenly Father, I thank Thee
For all the good things I possess;
Thankful to have and be able to share
With those that I find in distress.
I want to feel I've been a man
When called upon to be;
To think a bit of others too,
And not alone of me."

With money contributed to the Good Fellow fund by those not able to make personal visits, reporters for The Tribune, took baskets to 315 additional families. Turkey, potatoes, fruit, candies, and toys for each child, brightly packed and labeled ready for the tree, were left at each home. . . .

A Rich Reward for $5.

Here is a sample family of seven, father and mother and five children. They are from Alabama and have been forced to go on relief. The father is a mechanic but is handicapped by having artificial legs. One of the girls, 10 years old, has had tuberculosis and is a shut in. The 2 year old has whooping cough. A friend had sent them a tree left over from a school ceremony, but there was nothing under it when the Good Fellows arrived. Father was out in a shed repairing some old toys with which to surprise them. So whoever sent the $5 that paid for that visit may know he was richly rewarded. Just the faces of the children was enough. Such scenes were multiplied hundreds of times.

Late Good Fellows can still get the names of worthy families who will be cheered by baskets. The Good Fellow office at 1 south Dearborn street will be open today from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and tomorrow and Monday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. The phone number is Superior 0100.

WALLACE ASKED TO SET HEARING ON PRICE FIXING

Deal in Anti-Trust Case Denied.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The Pure Milk association, one of the defendants in the milk anti-trust indictment pending in local federal court, yesterday petitioned Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for a hearing on a milk marketing agreement and license in the Chicago area.

Such an agreement would permit, under Wallace's dictation, substantially the same price fixing practices that are charged as criminal acts against the PMA, marketing coöperative for some 12,000 farmers, and other defendants in the anti-trust case.

Admits Price Fixing Parallel.

The existence of this parallel was admitted by Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk association. He said that the association hopes to avoid expenditure of between $50,000 and $100,000 of its members' money in defending the criminal case. It hopes that the petition will cause Secretary Wallace to intercede with department of justice officials in behalf of the association.

"A marketing agreement and license, if granted, would permit substantially the same acts for which the association was indicted, wouldn't it?" Lauterbach was asked.

"That's right," he replied.

"Has the department of justice given any PMA officials who were indicted assurances that charges against them will be dropped if Secretary Wallace grants a license?" he was next asked.

"Absolutely not," he replied.

Consult Justice Officials.

At Washington, F. R. Wilcox, director of the division of marketing and marketing agreements under the 1937 agricultural adjustment act, said the agriculture department will take no action on the Chicago petition until it has consulted the department of justice. Leo J. Tierney, special assistant attorney general who conducted the year long investigation leading to the indictment, is now in California.

"We have written to Secretary Wallace hoping that he will intercede for us," said Lauterbach. "We don't know, in view of the indictment, whether he will take jurisdiction.

"But since the 1937 agricultural adjustment act provides machinery for the stabilization of markets, we hope that our petition will bring the two departments [justice and agriculture] together and determine where we stand."

May Aid Other Members.

Lauterbach said that provisions of the act for establishing fair trade practices in the milk industry might make it possible for a marketing agreement and license to legalize action by other members of the milk industry under indictment—milk distributors and union labor.

Because of the pending indictment the letter to Secretary Wallace departed somewhat from established procedure for setting up a milk agreement and license such as had made the government the dictator of prices and practices in other marketing areas. The Chicago letter did not contain a draft order for establishment of the agreement, but merely suggested its general terms.

It asserted that more than a year will elapse probably before the anti-trust case is disposed of in court. In that period, it was asserted, the entire Chicago milk market will become increasingly chaotic, endangering a regular supply of pure milk.

Ask for Public Hearing.

The letter asked the secretary to order a public hearing, which, it suggested, should involve consideration of a constructive marketing plan covering three points:

1. Classification of milk according to use and the fixing, or provision of methods for fixing, prices that handlers shall pay producers for milk.

2. The method to be used in prorating to producers proceeds of sales of various classes of milk to handlers.

3. Fair trade practice rules for producer-coöperative associations [the PMA], handlers, organized labor, and

GEORGE (HE'S ONLY 5) PUTS OVER A FAST ONE ON OLD MISTER CLAUS

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Harry Eib took his nephew, George, 5 years old, to see Santa Claus today so the boy could tell Santa what he wanted for Christmas. "Much obliged, Santa," said little George smugly, "for that football I found in Uncle Harry's clothes closet."

CAN'T GET JOB, ON RELIEF, BUT HE SEEKS VOTES

Pana, Ill., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—J. T. Slater has sent out this appeal to voters of Ramsey township in his campaign for the office of supervisor.

"I can't get a job anywhere so I can make enough to get off relief. I believe I would make a good supervisor for Ramsey township. When one has made a failure in everything else he has tried he ought to make good at something. I have never been tried as supervisor. Now, if you want to vote for some one that has made a failure in most every walk of life except telling the truth, vote for me. I have made a failure on WPA and also relief."

YOUTHS WHO CUT DOWN TREE MUST MEMORIZE POEM

Elkhart, Ind., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—After pleading guilty in City court here today to cutting down a tree that interfered with play at a Nappanee tennis court, two Nappanee youths Robert Mitchell, 18 years old, and Gerald Banghart, 17, were instructed by Judge Frank Treckelo to learn Joyce Kilmer's poem, "Trees." If they recite the poem in court here next Friday fines of $13 each will be suspended.

Santas Enjoy Good Year; Get $3 for Party Services

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Santa Clauses, who do it for a price, have had a pretty good year, the state employment office reported today. Sponsors of many parties have turned to the office for Santas. The chief requirement, Supt. George Harding said, was that they be "big and happy." The pay: Three dollars for a single appearance.

G-Men Trap Extortioner in $10,000 Plot

Federal agents yesterday trapped a young man soon after he had attempted to extort $10,000 from Morris B. Sachs, clothing merchant and philanthropist. The prisoner, who was seized by a cordon of G-men in Ogden park, had threatened a horrible death for Sachs' daughter and grandchild.

The prisoner is John W. Scherp Jr., 24 years old. He has served three enrollments in the Civilian Conservation corps. Daniel M. Ladd, chief of the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation, who announced the capture, said Scherp confessed mailing a threatening letter to Sachs.

Held in $5,000 Bond.

Scherp was arraigned late in the day before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, who held him to the grand jury under $5,000 bond.

Martin Ward, assistant United States district attorney, said Scherp, who lives at 6940 South Racine avenue, faces a maximum penalty of twenty years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Sachs, who lives at 4950 Chicago Beach drive, received the letter on Tuesday in his clothing store at 6638 South Halsted street. Printed in pencil, the letter said:

"We want $10,000 or your daughter and grandchild will meet horrible deaths. Do not call the police or mark the bills or you will be sorry. Get half in $5 bills and half in $10 bills. Put this letter and envelope in the package."

Instructions to Deliver Money.

Then followed instructions for Sachs to drive down 67th street to Loomis boulevard. He was to keep driving around Ogden park, a three block square tract, until he saw some one wave a white handkerchief from the bushes. Then he was to toss the money over the iron picket fence and drive rapidly away. The delivery was to be made at 11:30 p. m. Thursday.

Sachs notified Ladd. Twenty agents surrounded the park or took up stations inside. Another agent, dressed as Sachs' chauffeur, drove his car, with the merchant in the seat beside him. Two other agents lay in the rear of the car.

Promptly at 11:30 p. m. the car circled the park, whose gates are closed at 11 o'clock. At midnight Sachs saw a handkerchief, attached to the end of a pole, wave from the bushes at the southwest corner of the park. He stepped out, tossed a dummy package over the fence, and drove away.

Drops Bundle and Runs.

In the next instant G-men saw Scherp burst out of the bushes, clutching the package. As they closed in, Scherp dropped the bundle and began to run. He ran straight into the arms of one of the agents.

"What's the idea?" said Scherp. "I'm just on my way home."

Later in the morning, at the federal agents' headquarters in the Bankers building, Scherp confessed that he had written the extortion letter. He said he needed the money.

Scherp has two brothers and a sister. He attended the Perkins Bass elementary school. He served one CCC enlistment at La Grange and two at Fort Sheridan, being released from the last in February. The paper on which the threat was written, Ladd said, appeared to be a sales slip from the Sachs clothing store.

SHE GOES 450 MILES FOR A VISIT AT HOME JUST 42 MILES AWAY

Rand, Colo., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Miss Dorothy Mason, who teaches at the Muddy Pass school just forty-two miles from here, traveled 450 miles around the mountains to spend Christmas with her parents in Rand. There are no direct roads, and friends dissuaded Miss Mason from attempting the straightaway trip on skis.

Contempt? Lawyers Just Can't Be Bothered by It!

West Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 23.—(AP)—County Judge R. P. Robbins was angry because six lawyers failed to appear for a hearing. He waited half an hour, then stepped into an adjoining office, where he found the attorneys. Contempt of court clouds were quickly dispelled by seasonal spirit—the lawyers were sitting on the floor playing with mechanical toys collected for one of the judge's favorite charities.

Widow Dies Trying to Save Mate's Photo from Blaze

Army Bomber Crashes; Eight Reported Dead

Uniontown, Ala., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—An army bombing plane reported to be carrying eight men crashed into a field near here during a rainstorm and burst into flames tonight.

Four bodies were found and a search was being made for the four others. One of the bodies, hurled clear of the wreckage, was 250 feet away. It was believed that the others might have been thrown clear or that some of those on board might have attempted to bail out with parachutes and were killed some distance from the point of the crash.

The accident occurred as the bomber, of the B-18 type, was flying to Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., from March field, Riverside, Cal.

Craft Flying Low in Rain.

Frank Glass, a witness, said that the ship was flying low in a heavy rain and that the pilot apparently was searching for a suitable landing place.

Glass said that an explosion ripped the ship apart as it fell. Three of those aboard were trapped in the blazing cabin and had no chance to get out had they survived the crash.

An official list of those aboard the ill fated plane was given out at Hamilton field, army flying base at San Rafael, Cal. This list showed five members in the crew and three passengers.

In the crew were: First Lieutenant James D. Underhill, pilot, 28 years old, of Stockton, Cal., graduated from West Point in 1933; Second Lieutenant John Winston Pollard, co-pilot, 23, of Westo, Cal., and First Class Privates Ben L. Jones, 34, of Asheville, N. C.; Humbert D. Narro, 27, of Los Angeles, and Sheldon S. Johnson, 26, of Northville, N. Y.

Here Is Passenger List.

Two of the pasesngers were named as Capt. Fred Rueb Jr., army medical corps, in charge of surgical service at Letterman hospital, San Francisco, and Lieut. John H. Hydle, 24, a West Point graduate in 1937 and attached to the 30th infantry, the Presidio. The third passenger was tentatively identified as Warren Wunderlich, service connection unknown. Three of the dead tentatively were identified as Lieuts. Underhill and Hydle and Wunderlich.

The bomber, part of the 9th bombardment squadron, left March field yesterday for Mitchel field, N. Y. The ship stopped at Hensley field, Dallas, Tex., this afternoon.

Passes Over Shreveport.

The plane passed over Shreveport, La., without stopping and was approximately 75 miles from its overnight destination at the time of the crash.

The B-18 type bomber is a new model ship, similar to the twenty-three passenger transport planes in operation on the country's major air lines. It is powered by two motors.

Rockford's Folding Pants Surplus Now a Shortage

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The WPA diaper project has Supervisor Melvin Smith in a dither. Recently he found an oversupply of the folding pants and called a shutdown. But today Smith rescinded his order after a survey of the relief rolls, and production was resumed.

GOVERNOR HITS OFFICIALDOM AS ALLIES OF VICE

Attorney General to Direct Inquiry.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 23.—[Special]—A general house cleaning of Kansas City, which has acquired the reputation in recent years of one of the most politically corrupt cities in the country, was ordered today by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri.

Gov. L. C. Stark.

In a letter to Attorney General Roy McKittrick, the governor ordered ouster proceedings filed against any officials who refuse coöperation in the cleanup. This move, authorized by the state constitution, may have a potent effect in launching an inquiry that will get something done, it was said.

Includes St. Louis

The governor included a cleanup of St. Louis in his order, but he centered his fire on Jackson county and particularly Kansas City, the stronghold of his political foe, Democratic Boss T. J. Pendergast.

Stark charged that there is a definite breakdown of law enforcement in Kansas City. He directed the attorney general to send his assistants into Jackson county to aid in the investigation and prosecution of law violations.

Kansas City is under the city manager form of government. "I don't care to get into an endurance contest with a polecat," Henry F. McElroy, city manager said, when he heard the governor's statement. Pendergast refused to say anything.

"In Kansas City it is charged that such serious crimes as homicide go unsolved and the perpetrators go unpunished," the governor wrote McKittrick, "that rackets of various types flourish openly in defiance of law and order, that open and notorious gambling dens and vice brothels exist, and that the state's liquor laws are violated openly with impunity.

Officials Do Nothing.

"Information from reliable sources shows that the gambling racket is carried on openly in defiance of law and without protest from any official heads of the city's government, that houses of prostitution flourish within the very shadow of the courthouse and city hall and the inmates solicit openly, unashamed, and unafraid of official authority.

"Gangsters and racketeers, unmolested by officials, ply their trade and prey, through violence and intimidation, upon citizens and business men. Our citizens living outstate and in other states are an especial prey of petty thieves and other criminals of this city."

The governor's strongly worded letter comes closely after his denunciation of W. W. Graves Jr., Jackson county prosecutor. Graves dismissed long pending assault charges against Charles Gargotta, Kansas City political figure. Stark said the dismissal, after twenty-seven continuances, was an example of the combination of politics and crime now operating in Kansas City.

Captured at Murder Scene.

The notoriously delayed Gargotta case began soon after the defendant was captured at the scene of a gang murder five years ago. Sherif Thomas B. Nash accidentally arrived just after Ferris J. Anthon, a night club operator, had been killed. Anthon was then a fugitive from a Chicago indictment naming him as a member of a liquor syndicate there.

The sherif, who happened to have his riot gun along, shot two of the executioners. Gargotta, it was charged in the assault case, fired a shot at the sherif. But when the riot gun was turned in his direction Gargotta begged for mercy and was spared.

Beats Murder Charge.

The charges against Gargotta then dragged through twenty-seven terms of court, with Prosecutor Graves asking for one continuance after another. Last Monday the case was officially buried when Graves recommended that the charge be dropped.

He gave as his reason for the dismissal that Gargotta had been acquitted by a jury of a murder charge in the same case—the killing of Anthon—and that the state had no evidence against him other than that which had failed to win a conviction.

"You have let this case become synonymous with the lack of law enforcement in Kansas City," Judge Brown Harris told Prosecutor Graves at the time of the dismissal. "Your activities in this case have put everybody connected with law enforcement in a bad light."

Gargotta was formerly an associate of John Lazia, powerful Kansas City political leader who was slain by gangsters in July, 1934.

Election Fraud Expose.

The governor's efforts to clean up Kansas City, which the Democratic machine of Pendergast and his henchmen has controled since 1926, recalled other exposures of the corruption there and the wholesale indictment and conviction of hundreds of persons involved in election frauds and terrorism.

In 1937 the federal government indicted nearly 200 persons for vote frauds in the 1936 election. Last September a grand jury indicted fifty persons, half of them in the laundry industry, for smashing more than 500 windows and bombing numerous places in business rackets.

During one of the many election fraud trials it was asserted that William J. McMahon, Democratic precinct captain and head of the city's building inspection department, told Republican judges of election:

"We don't care anything about the law. We've run things in this precinct for sixteen years and we'll run them today as we always have."

Efficient Vote Getters.

It has been charged that this is the general attitude of every one connected with the Pendergast organization, which is reputed to be one of the most effective vote getting machines in the country.

In ordering a federal grand jury to resume its investigation of election frauds Federal District Judge Albert L. Reeves charged last February that a reign of terrorism caused by political oppression was frightening business men into silence and was reaching even into the homes of judges.

The judge declared the situation here compares with the lives of terror led by people in Russia, Germany, and Italy. He said business men do not dare oppose conditions here because of a political espionage system.

9 "SWEET FACED" BANDITS ADMIT 100 ROBBERIES

Nine young men, sitting in cells in the North avenue station, moaned last night that it's pretty tough to be locked up over Christmas. The nine were neatly dressed, and looked innocent enough, but Capt. Harry O'Connell called them the "sweet faced bandits."

The nine, he said, have confessed more than 100 robberies. He said they specialized in robbing spooners in Humboldt park, and drug store and tavern owners on the northwest side and along the north shore. The gang was rounded up by Sergt. Fred Suseback and his squad.

The prisoners are Louis Glob, 18 years old, 2639 Haddon avenue; Frank Pawlowski, 18, of 1353 North Oakley boulevard; Walter Krasnow, 18, of 2132 Division street; Frank Popek, 19, of 2743 Division street; Fred Bura, 22, of 1223 North Damen avenue; Charles Vanat, 20, of 1253 North Damen avenue; Frank Tracz, 18, of 2536 Haddon avenue; Steve Mondack, 20, of 1051 North Mozart street, and Matt Carson, 23.

JURY AT GENEVA FREES OFFICIAL OF BOND HOUSE

Henry Guy Griffith, vice president and sales manager of the defunct W. W. Armstrong investment company of Aurora, was acquitted of embezzlement yesterday by a jury in Kane county Circuit court at Geneva. The verdict was returned before Judge Charles D. Page.

W. W. Armstrong, founder of the concern, killed himself in May, 1934. The company went into bankruptcy shortly afterward with losses of $500,000. Griffith and three other officials were tried in 1936 but the jury disagreed.

JOBLESS FATHER SLAIN FOR TAKING CHRISTMAS TREE

Wife Seriously Wounded by 'Santa Claus.'

Elyria, O., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—A gray whiskered octogenarian known as "Santa Claus" was in jail here tonight for slaying the unemployed father of two small children and seriously wounding the latter's wife because they chopped down a Christmas tree on his farm.

Map shows location of Elyria and Grafton.

William Rousseau, 37 years old, who lived at nearby Grafton, was killed by a shotgun blast. His wife, Minnie, 29 years old, is in a critical condition at a hospital here with gunshot wounds. She was given an even chance to recover.

The slayer is William Case, 84 years old, a farmer near here whose hobby is raising evergreen trees. A story in a national magazine recently described him as one of the nation's most interesting persons because of his long life as a nursemaid for 1,000 Christmas trees.

On Way from Shopping Trip.

The Rousseaus were shot down early today as they tied a small spruce tree to the rickety automobile in which they were returning home from a Christmas shopping trip to Cleveland. A few minutes before they had cut down the tree near a fence on Case's farm.

"The tree was their's for the asking," the elderly farmer said. "I have never refused to give a tree away. But when people steal them it's different.

"I have lost about 200 Christmas trees to thieves this year. I decided to do something about it. Last night I took my gun and went out to the field. I was there a long time.

Shoots Without a Word.

"Finally a car drove up. Two people got out and went into the field. I saw them dragging a tree across the road. I shot without saying a word. After the first shot one ran in front of the headlights, and I shot again. Later the horn began to blow, so I shot at the headlights."

Prosecutor Howard Butler, who is investigating the shootings, said he had not decided whether Case will be prosecuted.

At the Rousseau home two little girls, Geraldine, 11 years old, and Sarah, 8, waited in vain for the return of their parents. Finally their grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Dahm, had to tell them: "Papa and mama may never come back."

HEINTZ RETURNS TO FACE TRIAL ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Hubert Heintz, member of a prominent Winnetka family, was brought back to Chicago yesterday from Virginia Beach, Va., to stand trial for the $100 robbery of a loan office last Nov. 4.

Heintz was once freed of the charge in Felony court on testimony his hair was blond and the bandit's was dark. Later he was secretly indicted on the evidence of other witnesses who said his hair was darker before the robbery than it is now. At the state's attorney's office yesterday Heintz persisted in asserting he was innocent and said he was the victim of mistaken identity.

2 EX-TREASURERS SUED ON SKARDA RECEIVERSHIPS

An accounting of Skarda act tax receiverships by two former county treasurers was asked yesterday in a suit filed in Superior court. The suit, filed by Attorney Erwin E. Cowen, alleges that Joseph L. Gill and Horace G. Lindheimer, former treasurers, illegally paid out $750,000 to agents named to operate buildings on which taxes were unpaid.

The county treasurer, under the Skarda act, is empowered to act as receiver of properties which have become delinquent in their taxes. The suit asserts that authority of the treasurer to appoint managers and agents was dropped from the Skarda act when it was amended by the legislation on July 8, 1933.

BAIL REDUCED SO MUSICAS CAN GO HOME CHRISTMAS

3 Brothers Are Expected to Leave Jail Today.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The three surviving Musica brothers, who are labeled chief lieutenants in the four million dollar McKesson & Robbins swindle, today pleaded not guilty to an indictment arising from the drug corporation debacle.

Then, hearkening to defense pleas that they be permitted to spend Christmas with their families, Federal Judge William Bondy reduced their bail. Government attorneys contended that only a modicum of the Christmas spirit should apply to the Musicas because of their past frauds and their fake dealings and double identities while connected with the drug firm.

Bail Reduced to $77,000.

Bonds of the three previously had been $100,000. Judge Bondy reduced the bail for George and Arthur Musica to $30,000 each and lowered Robert Musica's to $17,000.

The three had not been able to make the bail late tonight and still were in jail. It was believed they would supply bond tomorrow and be released pending trial.

George, who used the alias of George Dietrich, was assistant treasurer of McKesson & Robbins. Arthur, who assumed the name of George Vernard, was the concern's outside agent. Robert, alias Robert Dietrich, was shipping manager. The fourth brother, Philip Musica, alias F. Donald Coster, was president of the concern and the master mind in the swindle. He killed himself a week ago.

The three surviving Musicas, whom their elder brother attempted to exonerate in a note written before he killed himself, appeared in the federal court to plead on an indictment which superseded an earlier one containing similar charges.

SEC Violations Charged.

This indictment charged the brothers with violating Securities and Exchange regulations. Four counts accused them of filing false financial statements of McKesson & Robbins' assets with the New York Stock exchange. Conviction would carry a total maximum prison sentence of eight years.

Irving Kaufman, assistant United States attorney, announced at the arraignment that the government was willing to reduce the bonds of George and Arthur to $50,000 and that of Robert to $25,000. He said these were the minimum figures to which the government would agree, in view of the family's history.

After arguments by defense attorneys, however, Judge Bondy reduced the bonds below those figures. He said he thought he was showing considerable Christmas spirit in doing so. The judge also told defense attorneys that if the government did not bring the Musicas to trial in a reasonable time he would entertain a motion for a further reduction in bail.

Eight Blackmailers Hunted.

Investigators under the direction of Gregory F. Noonan, acting United States attorney, continued their search for eight blackmailers reported to have extorted huge sums from Coster-Musica. Coster mentioned blackmail in his suicide note.

Noonan denied reports that a prominent New York rackets lawyer was one of those being hunted. He said that several of the alleged blackmailers had criminal records, but refused to reveal their names. Noonan said he wanted to arrest them and take their fingerprints before making known their identities.

All were said to have known Coster during his days as a jailbird and stool pigeon. When he paraded as a respectable business man, clubman, and yachtsman they extracted at least $50,000 a year from him as the price of their silence on his past.

Confesses Threat

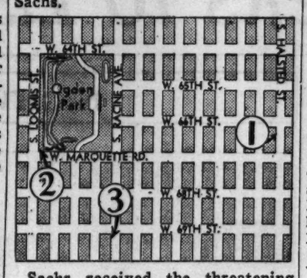
John W. Scherp Jr., who admitted to federal agents that he sent $10,000 extortion letter to Morris B. Sachs.



Sachs received the threatening letter at his store (1) and threw out dummy package at corner of park (2). G-men seized Scherp nearby. The prisoner's home is at 6940 South Racine avenue (3).

'DOUBLE CROSS' BELIEVED MOTIVE OF GANG KILLING

John Minogue, south side gangster and minor gambler, who was shot and fatally wounded in gangland fashion in front of his home at 7145 South Claremont avenue Thursday night, is believed to have been the victim of gang associates whom he double-crossed. That was the theory expressed by the police yesterday after a day's investigation.

Minogue, who had a record of many police arrests, was suspected of having participated in the robbery of the Liquid Carbonic company at 3100 South Kedzie avenue last July 2. Four bandits obtained $3,500 in currency in that hold up. The case has not been solved.

Minogue was questioned by the police in connection with the murder of Eli Daiches, wealthy advertising official, in 1934. He was said to have been working in a handbook recently. An inquest was continued to Jan. 27 to allow the police to investigate further.

Policeman Shot After Row in Home; Wife Arrested

Policeman James Majors, colored, of the Stanton avenue station, was shot near the heart last night in his home at 318 East 56th street. Police arrested his white wife, Margaret, for the shooting. They charged that she shot Majors after a quarrel. Majors is 44 years old and has been on the police force sixteen years. He is in the Provident hospital.

HOPKINS NAMED TO FILL ROPER'S POST IN CABINET

Build-Up as Roosevelt's Successor Suspected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt fulfilled predictions today by elevating Harry L. Hopkins, spender-in-chief for the administrtion, from WPA administrator to the post of secretary of commerce.

Col. F. C. Harrington, Hopkins' successor. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Hopkins succeeds Daniel C. Roper, whose resignation becomes effective tonight at midnight. Roper announced his resignation last week after pressure from the White House to make a place for Hopkins, Presidential adviser No. 1 at present.

Hopkins will be sworn in tomorrow morning in the President's study in the White House. Only a few personal and unnamed friends will be present at the ceremony.

The appointment is generally interpreted as a gesture on the part of the President to build up Hopkins as his possible successor in the White House and to remove him from the searching parties now being organized for digging out scandals of politics and graft in the WPA organization.

Col. Harrington Elevated.

Along with the announcement of Hopkins' appointment the White House announced that Col. F. C. Harrington, now chief engineer for the WPA, will be acting administrator of the WPA. Harrington is a regular army officer and he will not require senate confirmation as acting WPA head. He will draw regular army pay rather than the administrator's salary of $10,000 a year.

At the same time the White House stated that Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator who was passed over in the appointment, has been named administrator of the National Youth administration and will leave the WPA.

Hopkins, as the administration's chief spender, has ladled out nearly 12 billion dollars in public money as head of the WPA, the Federal Emergency Relief administration, and the Civil Works administration. In the present fiscal year to date Hopkins has spent more than 1 billion in WPA dollars.

Political Accusations Made.

There have been repeated accusations that these dollars were planted particularly in the pockets of those who promised an administrative vote in the last election.

The Democratic majority in congress, looking at the returns from the November election, is preparing to investigate New Deal spending. One result of the inquiry may be the abolition of the present WPA setup.

Congressmen arriving for the new session opening Jan. 3 have predicted that WPA and its system of work relief will be sent to the rubbish heap and a new method of distributing funds for unemployment relief will be substituted.

At a press conference this afternoon the new administrator, Harrington, announced that there will be no radical changes in WPA administration this fiscal year.

MILK CO-OP SEEKS TO ESCAPE U. S. ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Asks for Hearing on Marketing Pact.

any other interested parties in the Chicago milk industry.

By way of parallel, the indictment in the anti-trust case charges that the PMA and other defendants "unlawfully have combined and conspired together and engaged with one another to arbitrarily fix, maintain, and control artificial and noncompetitive prices to be paid to all producers by all distributors for all fluid milk produced on approved dairy farms located in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin."

Attack Co-op's Own Agreement.

Among the overt acts charged in the indictment was negotiation of an agreement between the PMA and the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., setting up:

"Provision as to prices.

"Provision as to the basis for computing price.

"Provision as to the classification of milk for the purpose of pricing.

"Provision as to the quantity of milk to be purchased through the Pure Milk association.

"Provision as to time and place of delivery.

"Provision as to time and terms of payment."

It was impossible to learn last evening whether the action of the PMA presages a split in the ranks of the anti-trust defendants. While milk distributors are understood to be far less favorable toward government dictation in the industry than is the farm organization, in private conversations, at least, none of them would discuss the PMA action.

Wait to See What Happens.

Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, said his group had heard of the move, but had remained out of it.

"This is a move by the farmers, and we are not entering into it," Potter said. "We will sit back and see what happens."

It was apparent that all of the agencies and persons concerned in the anti-trust case were aware of the PMA's action. This knowledge also extended to the labor end of the case. Robert G. Fitchie of the milk wagon drivers' union, while admitting that he knew of the move, declined to comment.

The PMA action raised another possibility—that the criminal action may be used as a club to enforce government dictation of the Chicago milk industry through a marketing agreement. Several months ago Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger of Milwaukee dismissed a grand jury considering charges of anti-trust violations against automobile finance companies when he learned that federal attorneys were at the same time dickering with prospective defendants for consent decrees foreswearing the practices complained of.

Indications that other defendants in the milk indictment will wage a vigorous legal fight before going to trial were seen yesterday in the appearance of a group of their lawyers, headed by Frederic Burnham, before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Judge Woodward had given them until Jan. 7 to file preliminary motions, which must be disposed of before trial. The lawyers asked if this meant that they would be limited to a single motion. The court told them that they might file a series, motions, demurrers and pleas in abatement, which will be disposed of in order.

HIS WHISKERS PLAY SANTA CLAUS FALSE; HE TAKES IT ON CHIN

Had they been his own, Santa Claus would not have minded so much yesterday when an impish youngster pulled his chin whiskers at State and Monroe streets. But Santa was James Hogan, 54 years old, a street corner Santa for the Volunteers of America. And the whiskers were false and attached by elastic.

When the youngster let go the whiskers snapped back like a broken garter. Santa stopped swinging his bell for coins and swung it toward the beaver puller. The bell missed the prankster and struck another boy, Frank Bush, 12, of 3347 South Western avenue, gashing his head.

Immediately there was an uproar. Angry Christmas shoppers seized Santa. It was a tight spot for old St. Nick until Trafic Policeman James Mullen rescued him. Then Santa went for a ride in the patrol wagon to the Central station, charged with disorderly conduct. After a few hours in jail, Santa, who lives at 817 South State street, raised $25 bail and was released.

AMERICAS NEAR AGREEMENT ON PACT OF UNITY

Signature of Brazilians Is Awaited in Lima.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 23.—Unanimous agreement on a declaration of solidarity among the twenty-one nations represented in the pan-American conference in Lima seemed near tonight. The delegates of every nation except Brazil had signed the declaration, which was circulated by Dr. Carlos Concha of Peru, president of the conference.

Pending unanimous signature, the text was not released. It was drafted in a series of committee meetings extending over a period of three days.

The Argentine delegation cracked the whip in these sessions, and as a result the declaration calls on American nations to "maintain and defend" their solidarity in the face of a threat to any of them, but omits the promise to spring to arms, which the United States originally sought. The Argentine delegation opposed such a pledge from the first.

Acted to Appease Brazil.

Despite the fact that Argentina's plan is embodied in the final majority draft of the declaration that country held off from signing until this afternoon. In fact, a minority statement had been made in telephonic conferences among Brazil, Argentina, and Uruguay, and the Argentine delegation was committed for a time to sign that.

This was a move, apparently, to overcome Brazil's hesitation to sign the majority declaration because it had been introduced under the name of Argentina. During a plenary session of the conference this afternoon, however, the Argentine delegation was instructed to sign the majority declaration. The signature of Uruguay's delegation followed soon after.

Approve Immigration Proposal.

Afranio Mello Franco, leader of the Brazilian delegation, was reported on good authority to be expecting authorization from Rio de Janeiro to sign the declaration.

During the plenary session the conference voted to recommend that American governments restrict the political activities of foreigners living within their borders. This was interpreted as a move against Nazi and Fascist propaganda.

The plenary session was devoted largely to approving the actions of committees, many of which met today. Outstanding among the committee discussions was that of the economics committee, which aired thoroughly the problem of immigration.

Approval was given a Colombian proposal that nations of the Americas make no distinction as to origin, race, creed, or color in legislation on immigration. This, it was believed, may make it easier for Jewish refugees from Germany to enter American nations.

O. K. Finance Parleys.

The economics committee also gave its O. K. to a proposal for informal meetings of secretaries of treasury or finance ministers of the American nations. The first will be in Guatemala City not later than June 1, 1939.

A spokesman of the United States delegation said in answer to questions this afternoon that the United States government is considering a plan for enlarging its South American staff. The purpose, he asserted, will be to make production surveys. He said the United States probably will loan money in South America for development purposes, since private capital is not available because of the insecurity.

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF VOLIVA FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Julian Emanuelson, brother-in-law of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, the overseer of Zion, filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday from Mrs. Selma Emanuelson. He charged misconduct. Last Dec. 6, according to the bill, Mrs. Emanuelson and Clyde W. Ester were found asleep in a flat at 7854 Ellis avenue in a raid by Emanuelson, Ester's wife and police. Emanuelson seeks custody of two children, Laurette, 8 years old, and Julian, 14 months old. The Emanuelsons were married in 1929 and separated last March. The bill was filed by Attorney J. A. Miller.

SEIZE HOUSEMAID AS A SHOPLIFTER, FIND BANK BANDIT

Name Woman Fugitive in Home Thefts.

A mild looking woman seized as a shoplifter was found yesterday to be a bank robber, fugitive from prison, and the woman who has looted many Chicago and suburban homes posing as a maid. Police said she has been identified in at least a dozen home thefts. She has a long criminal record.

Mrs. Margaret Makaron.

The prisoner, held at the detective bureau, is Mrs. Margaret Makaron, alias Margaret Allen, 38 years old. According to the police, she has used more than twenty other names.

Mrs. Makaron was arrested by Detectives Charles O'Regan, Martin Duffy, and John Griffith after she had stolen a woman's purse worth $18 from a State street department store.

Detective O'Regan estimated that her loot from homes will total nearly $30,000 when the police have finished their investigation. Her system, he said, was to hire out as a maid and then after a day or two, when she was left alone, carry out clothing and valuables.

She was arrested in Detroit, Mich., in July, 1936, for aiding five bandits in the robbery of a Detroit bank. She admitted that she made a survey of the bank before the robbery and hid part of the loot. She was sentenced to serve two years in a woman's workhouse and escaped from a federal marshal while being taken to the woman's reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., on Dec. 2, 1936.

Mrs. Makaron was rearrested on Aug. 23, 1937, and taken to the federal prison at Milan, Mich. She was transferred to the Cincinnati workhouse last Feb. 1. She escaped from there three months later.

FLAMING OIL BURNS 9 AS EXPLOSION SHAKES BIG AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Nine men were burned, one seriously, when a high pressure catapult oil line aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise gave way today, causing an explosion that shook the huge vessel from stem to stern.

John A. McGuire, a technician from the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia, was seriously burned by flaming oil. Eight civilian employés of the Norfolk navy yard were less seriously burned. One civilian employé was thrown into the water.

It was revealed that yard police arrested a suspicious character yesterday and that he was charged with "theft and trespassing." Yard authorities said he had been removed to a jail. They did not mention sabotage.

CRITICALLY ILL, BUT BOY THINKS OF CHRISTMAS

Gets 11th Transfusion in Hospital.

Raymond Potter Jr. smiled and carried on lively conversations with his nurses yesterday in the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital. The boy, 14 years old, has been ill with the deadly staphylococcus meningitis. Medical records show only about a dozen survivors of this disease.

Raymond Potter Jr.

Raymond was given his eleventh blood transfusion yesterday. The donor was a person who had recovered from some form of infection by staphylococcus bacteria, which are the cause of most common infections.

Lots of Rest Ordered.

The blood transfusions are the only treatment being given Raymond at present. Otherwise his physician, Dr. Luther M. Lorance, has ordered that he be given the maximum amount of rest and be kept on a soft diet.

The boy's parents, who live at 11347 Church street, called at the hospital during the day. They did not see their son, but carried on a conversation with him through his nurse. They told him that the wristwatch he had asked for Christmas was awaiting his return home. A hospital rule forbids delivery of any presents to child patients.

Wants to Go Home.

Raymond told his nurses that he wanted to go home for Christmas. When one of them assured him that it was several days until the holiday he retorted:

"O, no. This is Friday, and Christmas is on Sunday."

Raymond's principal danger at present, Dr. Lorance said, is from small abscesses which have developed as a secondary result of his infection. He has had them on his hip, ankle, and shoulder. Formation of one on some delicate organ might prove fatal, the physician said.

Gets 2 Years for Trying to Sell Military Secrets

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Karl Allen Drummond, 21 years old, convicted of trying to sell stolen plans and pictures of American military planes to Japan, received the maximum sentence of two years' imprisonment from Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich today. The young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Drummond; his brother Vee Dee, and his sweetheart, Vivian Stukey, were in court.

ROOSEVELT ELEVATES VENEZUELAN LEGATION TO EMBASSY STATUS

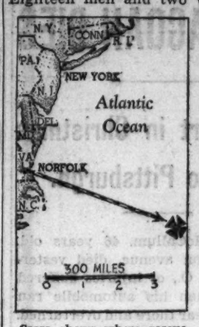
Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—United States diplomatic ties with Latin America were strengthened today when President Roosevelt elevated the American legation in Venezuela to an embassy. Venezuela also will open an embassy here.

The action emphasized friendly relations with the world's third largest oil producing country, which European nations have courted assiduously in recent years. A reciprocal trade agreement with Venezuela, which has been in process of negotiation since March, is expected to be announced soon.

President Roosevelt appointed Frank P. Corrigan of Cleveland, now minister to Panama, as the first ambassador to Venezuela. He succeeds Antonio C. Gonzalez of New York, whose resignation as minister to Caracas was accepted effective Feb. 1. Elevation of a legation to an embassy is considered a signal honor emphasizing the growing importance of the country concerned. Ambassadors are the President's personal envoys, while ministers represent only the secretary of state. A minister receives $10,000 a year; an ambassador $17,500.

20 ARE RESCUED FROM DISABLED VESSEL IN GALE

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Eighteen men and two women were rescued from the disabled Norwegian freighter Smaragd in the gale lashed Atlantic some 600 miles southeast of New York today by a boat's crew of the Maritime commission's freighter Schodack.



Cross shows where rescue was effected.

An instant after last members of the crew of the Smaragd were taken aboard the life boat in which they were transferred was hurled against the side of the Schodack and crushed.

Those rescued included the captain of the Norwegian vessel, his wife and daughter and seventeen members of the crew. After the rescue the Schodack resumed her voyage for New York. The ship is due Monday.

The Smaragd, which had sailed out of Norfolk for Fort William Scotland with a cargo of oil in cases, developed engine trouble and then sprang a leak.

SAVE 60 ITALIAN SAILORS FROM A MOB IN URUGUAY

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Sixty Italian sailors from the cruiser Duca d'Aosta fought with café crowds who had jeered at them today and had to have protection of troops to get back to their ship.

The sailors, on a world "prestige" cruise, left the cruiser in three buses, singing Fascist hymns and saluting pedestrians with outstretched arms. Uruguayans seated at a sidewalk café jeered. The sailors halted the buses and rushed to the attack. After the fight the sailors started down the street again.

At another corner, crowds at two cafés shouted taunts. The sailors again halted and rushed the café patrons. This time, however, the Italians were chased to Plaza Independencia, where police rescued them. The police took the sailors, most of whom were bruised, to a station house. Later troops escorted them to their ship.

GOOD FELLOWS CARRY BASKETS TO 2,100 HOMES

Warmth of Welcome Is Their Reward.

carried Good Fellow baskets yesterday described their visits as follows:

HAPPINESS FOR SEVEN

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Down a flight of dark stairs a Good Fellow gropingly made his way, and into the three room basement home of the G—— family on West Adams street.

Five wan children, barefoot and wearing makeshift cotton garments, watched the stranger set the basket on the kitchen table. Mary, 10 years old, the eldest, looked up at him with a radiant smile.

Hitching up her old pair of long cotton pants and a boy's shirt, she ran across the room and in an ecstatic movement snatched her baby brother from the bed and hugged him to her. Holding him up, she said softly:

"See, honey, autos and toys like rich children have."

The blue eyed baby stared solemnly at the festive basket. The other children timidly asked whether there were presents for every one. The mother, who is 25 years old, set about the practical business of unpacking the turkey and putting away vegetables and fruits. Her husband was laid off by the Works Progress administration and they had not yet been certified for relief.

FAITH IS FULFILLED

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

You can't describe a Good Fellow visit. There are the usual broken stairs that lead to cold, forlorn rooms where a poor mother and father shelter their children. "Merry Christmas!" you shout vigorously. "We're Good Fellows!" And that, somehow, falls a little flat on unbelieving ears.

This is what you cannot tell: The simple wonder in the eyes of a tattered child when she sees a sturdy, round toy panda and learns it is her own; the low and breathless sound of her joyful cry, the tenderness with which she presses it to her breast.

But a sweet-faced Irishwoman in West Monroe street expressed it when she shooed her 10 year old son from the basket of toys.

"Go along with you, Joseph," she said kindly, her blue eyes shining, "'Tis Christmas! Haven't you got any faith?"

SANTA CLAUS ARRIVES

BY JUANITA DALY.

Pushing back her bobbed hair, a young colored mother turned from her ironing to scatter five excited youngsters who were stumbling over the Good Fellow basket. The four room flat was hot and crowded.

"But, mama, you said Santa Claus wasn't coming this year," said Samanthia, scratching at the cellophane on her box of colored beads. By this time the toddling 1 year old baby had climbed on the couch and was examining a tin tea set and clinking the pieces together.

With few supplies in the cupboard, the mother had been wondering how to fix up a Christmas dinner, but under her careful management this basket of food would mean real feasting for several days.

GREETED WITH WONDER

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

The H—— family in a barren basement in Adams street didn't expect Christmas. It came, however, today and found among them a picture of amazement.

As the car drew up to the curb a little girl jumped from the steps and scurried into the basement, to reappear with her neatly aproned mother, infant sister, and two brothers. All stared, one boy in toothless wonder, as the Good Fellow approached the door laden with food, toys, and candy.

It was the little girl who broke the silence. "Are you bringing all that for us? You'd better save some for other folks."

When the Good Fellow assured her others would be taken care of too the little group surged around her. Out came a toy panda, hugged in the arms of the baby girl. The boys took soldier ten pins with shouts of thanks.

Mrs. H—— reached a taut veined hand into the basket and felt hesitantly of the fat turkey. "They don't know what it tastes like," she said uncertainly. "Perhaps now I can get them to believe in Santa Claus."

OFFERS TO REPAY GIFT

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

"We had a good living once, and we will have it again."

This was Mr. Jones of North State street, the father of three, whose self-respect had only this half embarrassed statement for a shield. His wife [and she, too, was proud] had other words for the Good Fellows and their basket of food and toys.

"We'll repay you somehow," she said, glancing at her oldest son, "John can run errands and I can knit!"

Good Fellows, Mrs. Jones was told, need no repayment. Their payment comes from the nameless joy of helping when help is most needed.

AUTO RUNS OFF OHIO HIGHWAY; CHICAGOAN DIES

Wife Hurt in Christmas Trip to Pittsburgh.

Allen G. McCallum, 46 years old, 4642 Clarendon avenue, died yesterday in Lima, O., of injuries suffered Thursday when his automobile ran off the road near there and overturned. His wife, Agnes, was injured. McCallum was credit manager of a wire and cable company here. He and his wife had planned to spend Christmas at Pittsburgh.

Michael Dwyer, 66 years old, died yesterday of injuries suffered Sept. 18 when he was struck by an automobile at 66th and Halsted streets. He lived at 718 West 48th street. Sherman Tarver, colored, of 411 West 56th street was the driver.

Hit and Run Victim.

Edward Wojciechowski, 40 years old, 2224 Palmer street, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a hit and run automobile in Western avenue at Charleston street. He died in the County hospital. A witness gave police a license number as that of the car. Police traced this to Thomas Devlin, 34, of 2619 West 55th street. He and his brother, John, 28, of 7134 South Campbell avenue, were arrested. The Devlins said they had been motoring on the north side, but denied striking any one.

Leo Leis, 36 years old, 1244 South Springfield avenue, started out last night with his wife Julia to buy a Christmas tree. Their automobile stalled in front of 5007 Roosevelt road. Leis stepped out to inspect it and was struck by a hit and run car. He suffered a skull fracture.

Train Hits Auto.

Seventy passengers on a Chicago bound Burlington suburban train were shaken yesterday when the train struck a stalled automobile at the Park avenue crossing in Hinsdale. F. C. Gibson, colored, of 3159 Giles avenue, driver of the car, leaped to safety before the crash.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 881 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 676 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 20,126 persons were injured in accidents within the city.

Stabs Himself in Remorse After Car Hits Pedestrian

Oscar Lemcke, 64 years old, a tool maker, was driving south in Clark street last night when, at Winnemac avenue, his car struck Levi Benson, 33, of 870 Buckingham place. Lemcke abandoned his car and ran. Then, in remorse, he stabbed himself five times in the abdomen with a small knife, but he was able to make his way to his home at 936 Irving Park road. Police traced him there. Both Lemcke and Benson are expected to recover.

A Mother's Dying Wish Will Be Fulfilled Today

A dying mother's wish will be fulfilled today and her four children will have a Christmas celebration. Before the mother, Mrs. Blanche Zmeico, 2048 Harrison street, died last week she expressed one concern; that her children should have a good Christmas. So Miss Loree Wolf, nurse supervisor, and several young nurses who attended Mrs. Zmeico spent yesterday arranging a tree, gifts, and toys for the family.

Mayor Frees 80 Bridewell Prisoners for Christmas

Eighty prisoners at the Bridewell were given their freedom yesterday by Mayor Kelly so they could spend Christmas with their families. Those released were married men with children. The prisoners had been sent to jail on minor charges.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DEATH CHEATS AGED ZOO TIGER OF CHRISTMAS

Christmas is coming two days too late for Rajah, the prize tiger of the Lincoln Park zoo. Weighted down by his thirty-one years, which were about eleven more than the average life span for his species, Rajah died yesterday.

He weighed 600 pounds, and had lived in the zoo since 1925, when he was purchased in Hamburg, Germany. Children liked him.

The monkeys, baboon, gorilla, and other apes in the small animal house at the park held their Christmas party yesterday, with Skippy, the chimpanzee, in the rôle of Santa Claus.

The Chicago Humane Education society played Santa to loop pigeons, with a grain banquet spread outside the Edison building. Today the Anti-Cruelty society's attendants will sally forth with gifts of oats, blankets, and new shoes for the city's underprivileged horses.

SEEK TO DELIVER ALL CHRISTMAS MAIL BY TONIGHT

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said yesterday that postal crews would seek to complete delivery of all Christmas mail by tonight. Only package and special delivery services will be operated Christmas day and Monday.

Outgoing parcel post so far has totaled 168,046 mail sacks as compared with 123,511 in the same period last year, the postmaster reported. Outgoing first class mail has totaled 22,234,373 pieces, an increase of 3.2 per cent over the 21,555,005 pieces mailed last year.

The postmaster said 56,116 pieces of Christmas mail by Chicagoans to suburban friends have been delayed for lack of postage. Three cent stamps, he explained, are required for all suburban mail, with the exception of Cicero.

Killed by Gun After Putting Gift Under Christmas Tree

William C. Boers, 1943 West 19th street, placed a Christmas package under the Christmas tree in the living room of his home last night, and then went into his bedroom. A few minutes later relatives heard a shot. They ran into the bedroom and found young Boers dead, and a shotgun on the floor. Police, investigating the Christmas tragedy, said Boers, who was 23 years old, might have killed himself accidentally.

MAYOR TO OPEN VOTE CAMPAIGN AFTER HOLIDAYS

Plans for Growth of City Win Praise.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A holiday lull descended upon Democratic politics yesterday. About the only activities following Mayor Kelly's announcement that he is a candidate for renomination in the Feb. 28 primaries, were preparations to open campaign activities soon after Christmas. Speechmaking is not expected to start until the early weeks of January.

An independent committee known as the All-Chicago Committee for the Re-election of Mayor Kelly has already arranged to open headquarters in the Conway building across from the city hall. This committee is headed by Col. A. A. Sprague. Chairman of the women's division is Mrs. Bertha Van Wakeman, president of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs. Headquarters will be opened next week, and a formal housewarming will be held after New Year's.

Responds to Many Requests.

Mayor Kelly's declaration that he will run for another four year term was made Thursday night in a radio address. It was a response to the requests of forty or more civic, labor, and business groups and of the Democratic organization that he become a candidate to succeed himself. Guests representing labor, women's organizations, civic bodies, nationality groups, and the American Legion crowded the broadcasting studio. Most of the aldermen and Democratic ward committeemen were present.

Yesterday the mayor's office was flooded with telegrams and messages. These applauded particularly the specific goals for Chicago's future growth which were emphasized by the mayor.

After dwelling in detail on the accomplishments of his administration and the projects of past years in the building of Chicago, the mayor outlined plans to spur the city's growth.

Wants to Finish Job.

"There is still much work to be done for Chicago," he said, "much unfinished business, vital to the well ordered city that grows about us. I feel as would any other individual, whether he be in business or public life. Once he starts a job he likes to see it finished.

"Chicago's welfare is greater than the personal ambition of any man, greater than any single group, greater than partisan politics. There is an All-Chicago welfare. And again I offer my hands and my heart to sustain that welfare. Let's go, Chicago."

Of the fifty ward committeemen, forty-three were on deck for the mayor's announcement of his candidacy. Those now listed at headquarters as doubtful or in opposition are Clayton F. Smith [33d], president of the county board; Horace G. Lindheimer [5th], Martin J. O'Brien [29th], John J. Touhy [27th], Joseph H. Donahue [47th], and Peter J. Brady [18th].

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney remained silent yesterday on his plans. He is expected shortly to announce whether or not he will run for mayor.

A Christmas Carol in pictures

REMEMBER Bob Cratchit, Marley's ghost and Old Scrooge—immortal characters in Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol"?

Tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune will bring you this celebrated story in 12 full color pictures by Arthur Rackham, famous English illustrator. Each picture depicts one of the incidents in the story. In the Color Graphic section there will be a special article telling how Dickens came to write "A Christmas Carol" and how Arthur Rackham illustrated it.

You will find this Christmas feature in the Color Graphic section of tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

GREEN'S BACKERS GO TO WORK; WILL ORGANIZE WARDS

G. O. P. Plans Early and Aggressive Drive.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The regular Republican organization supporting Dwight H. Green for mayor is preparing for an intensive campaign in every section of the city. It is ready to set up headquarters in all fifty wards next week.

Green, former United States district attorney, already has lined up forty-eight of the ward committeemen for the come-back fight of the G. O. P. in Chicago. Edward F. Moore, chairman of the county central committee, said new organizations will be established in the remaining two wards, the 3d and 14th. Green will attend the opening of each ward headquarters.

Plans for opening central headquarters in the La Salle hotel on Tuesday also were announced yesterday. After New Year's day these headquarters will be enlarged to campaign size.

Will Organize War Veterans.

Moore is hurrying the work of founding divisions of Green's supporters. There will be units for world war veterans and lawyers and several other groups. Green, who is 41 years old, is the first world war veteran to run for mayor of Chicago. He is an active member of the Chicago, Illinois and American Bar associations.

Petitions for Green's candidacy are being signed at a rate that indicates the total number of names will exceed the goal of 300,000, Moore said.

The task of selecting candidates for city clerk and city treasurer will be completed at a meeting of the ward committeemen Tuesday.

All in all, the Republicans are showing that they have their eyes not only on the city campaign of 1939 but the presidential election of 1940. By backing candidates of high merit and waging an aggressive campaign now, they are building up an organization that will be prepared for the larger jobs ahead.

Answers Christmas Appeal.

Friends of Green disclosed yesterday that he has been playing Santa Claus to as many persons as possible of those who have sent him letters appealing for aid. Green admitted that he has sent out many Christmas baskets anonymously and delivered others personally.

"Cases such as one I ran across must be relieved," Green said. "It was a man with ten children. His last job was truck driving. He's willing to do any kind of work, yet is unable to find a way to make a living. His home is unlighted and the gas is turned off.

"We cannot avoid our responsibility. The issue of stopping political stalling and taking out the bunk and ballyhoo so that constructive relief can be afforded is one we are going to face and solve."

DEMAND INQUIRY INTO BAY STATE GOVERNOR'S ACTS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Statewide protests over the pardon granted last Wednesday by Gov. Charles F. Hurley and his executive council to Raymond Partiarca, notorious gunman, who had served only 120 days of a long term sentence for armed robbery, today brought a demand by State Representative Roland Sawyer, veteran Democratic member of the legislature, for an investigation of all activities of the governor and his council since the September primaries.

In his demand for an investigation Sawyer charged that the governor, lieutenant governor, and executive council have disgraced the name of the state, squandered the money of the people and menaced public safety.

The proposed investigation group would consist of four senators and eight representatives, equally divided as to party affiliations.

2 GUNMEN SEIZE $1,900 CHRISTMAS BONUS PAY ROLL

Two bandits late yesterday took $1,900 from Bernard Nathanson, a clerk for S. Buchsbaum & Co., jewelry manufacturers, 243 East Huron street. Nathanson was on his way from the Lake Shore bank to the company offices, where the money was to have been distributed in Christmas bonuses to fifty-five employés. Officers of the concern said the bonuses would be given despite the robbery. Nathanson was stopped at Huron and St. Clair streets and forced into a car at the point of a gun. He was robbed, then thrown from the car a few blocks away. Nathanson lives at 3402 Polk street.

Play in Snow

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Elaine Bell, 5, and her dog, Play Girl, with big snowball in Lincoln park yesterday.

Warm temperatures today will threaten Chicago's first chance of a white Christmas since 1935, Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said yesterday. He predicted the mercury would reach 35 degrees and that the sun probably would shine brightly.

This may melt the remaining snow left from the 1.5 inch fall Thursday night. Temperatures just above freezing yesterday melted some of it, but the melting process was stopped in the evening.

The snow spread north over Illinois from Bloomington. In some places rain and sleet followed, making driving hazardous. Through Wisconsin and upper Michigan a blizzard raged, but major highways were kept open.

HORNER ILLNESS UPSETS PLANS FOR LEGISLATURE

Predict Harmony at Opening Jan. 4.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Preparations for the opening of the legislature on Jan. 4 went forward uncertainly in Springfield yesterday because of the probability that Gov. Horner will not be present when the gavels fall. The governor is recuperating from an illness in Florida.

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, who has been handling administrative matters in Mr. Horner's absence, will continue as acting governor throughout the early part of the session. The governor is not expected back in the capitol until Jan. 15.

Because of past political differences between Horner and Stelle, a somewhat delicate situation has arisen. This seemed on the way to solution last night, however.

Expected to State Position.

Mr. Stelle is expected to make his position clear today. What he will say was not learned. But it is believed complete harmony will prevail.

The lieutenant governor was said to have told Horner leaders that he had no desire to "rock the boat." This was interpreted to mean that the governor's message to the legislature would be of joint authorship by Stelle and Horner's political advisors. "The message will be satisfactory to every one," a statehouse source said.

Should an emergency like a disaster or a serious strike arise in the governor's absence, many think Stelle would consult with men like James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, and Charles K. Schwartz of the tax commission, on the best course to be followed.

Sales Tax Action Necessary.

About the only emergency legislative matter that will face the general assembly in its early stage is the question of continuing the diversion of one cent of the sales tax for relief purposes. If the diversion is not voted, the levy will drop to two cents early in February. Democratic leaders, however, will seek to obtain approval for its continued use for the jobless.

Bills to this end are expected to be introduced during the first week of the new session. Tentative plans call for action within two weeks, after which the legislature is likely to recess until about Feb. 1.

Sessions are likely to be infrequent in February and March because municipal primaries will occupy the attention of many members.

Courtney Works on 44th Birthday; Staf Gives Roses

State's Attorney Courtney celebrated his forty-fourth birthday yesterday in his office in the Criminal Courts building. His staf presented him with forty-four roses. In reply the state's attorney told his staf they could expect substantial pay raises for the coming year.

ASSAIL INTERNAL FIGHT OF G. O. P. FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Downstate Group Blasts Tactics of Cross.

The Republican tug of war between a Chicagoan and a downstate candidate for speaker of the Illinois house of representatives continued on two fronts yesterday in Chicago.

Apparently in behalf of the Chicagoan, Elmer J. Schnackenberg, seven downstaters aimed a new blast at supporters of the downstater, Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville. They said a meeting designed to boom Cross had failed to advance his candidacy to any great degree.

Cross, meanwhile, was meeting with a handful of Chicagoans in the La Salle hotel. Those conferring with him are anti-Schnackenberg. Cross is counting on their support at the house caucus Jan. 3 in Springfield.

Denies Sectionalism Issue.

Informed of the attack from the Schnackenberg downstate leaders, Cross denied that his supporters had raised the issue of sectionalism, as was charged by the opposition.

"When I came to Chicago today," he added, "I was assured of the support of 43 Republicans [40 votes will control the caucus]. Since being here and talking to members from Cook county, I am fairly convinced that the votes I now have will total more than 50. I am satisfied that I will be the choice of the caucus for speaker and I wish every one a very Merry Christmas."

The Cross forces take great satisfaction in the Springfield meeting last Tuesday of downstate house members and one Chicagoan. They claimed twenty-seven votes were present for Cross and written pledges of support were received from sixteen other downstaters.

This was the meeting attacked by Schnackenberg's downstate allies. The seven signed a statement terming the meeting a mistake because it tended to array downstate against Chicago.

The signers were Representatives John C. Friedland, Elgin; Calistus A. Bruer, Pontiac; Dan Dineen, Decatur; Nick Keller, Waukegan; Franklin U. Stransky, Savanna; Claude R. Thomas, Carthage, and James E. Davis, Galesburg.

Call Meeting a Mistake.

"We did not attend the meeting in Springfield," their statement read, "but we are informed there were only twenty-four members present. We are also informed that this meeting did not unanimously bind those present to vote for Representative Cross for speaker; that on the contrary several of those present are not favorable either to raising the downstate issue or to Mr. Cross' candidacy.

"We can think of no graver mistake than for downstate Republicans to attempt to discriminate against Republicans from Chicago and Cook county, which contains half the voters of the state. We do not believe that the Republican members of the house, irrespective of their residence in Chicago or downstate, should be swept off their feet by false claims of support in an attempt to create a band wagon influence."

"As downstate members of the legislature, we resent this attempt to raise the issue of sectionalism and we urge all other members who feel as we do—and we believe that is the large majority of the present Republican membership—to join with us."

EXHIBIT A, WEIGHING 2,190 POUNDS, SWINGS DAMAGE SUIT VERDICT

John Whyte lost his $10,000 damage suit yesterday against Nicholas Goedert, owner of the Aurora Monument Works. Whyte contended that a tombstone he was examining in Goedert's showroom fell off its base and broke his leg.

Goedert argued that Whyte rocked the monument. A jury in the Kane county Circuit court of Judge Frank W. Shepherd agreed with Goedert after the jurors viewed exhibit A. It was the grave marker, weighing 2,190 pounds.

RESCUES WIFE FROM FIRE, DIES HUNTING FOR SON

Columbus, Ind., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Forrest Sconce, 30 years old, an insurance salesman died today in a fire which destroyed his home here and seriously burned his wife, Eunice, 28. Sconce was burned to death after he carried his wife to safety when he returned in search of his son, 4 years old, who had saved himself by climbing through a window.

THE STAR
By CALEB

BEDOUINS, settling for the night by yellow campfires in the still darkness of deserts, speak often of it among their kind—quietly, and with the instinctive reverence of those who draw closer to the Infinite as they travel farther from their fellows.

Tenement dwellers, crowded in great cities—weary mothers and fretful infants; anxious fathers and restless sons; daughters with their dreams; old men with their rememberings—implicitly turn to it, finding its light tenfold clearer and brighter than do the fortunate tenants of fine homes.

On each December's twenty-fourth night, lost and lonely ones, the brotherhood of the Open Road, men of defeated aims and abandoned hope, are prompted to search the heavens for it once more. And always, in reward of their search, it shines on them a promise of final rest from long journeys; of a lighted inn, not far off, where refuge and comradeship still wait.

Tall and important cathedrals receive its benediction. Passengers in ships on deserted oceans, kneelers at shrines hidden by mountain paths, little children at play, mechanics in roaring mills, worshipers at altars, shepherds among their flocks, pilots winging through space, scholars by their lamps—renew their innermost lives at its light. For wheresoever are human habitudes and habitations, there stands the Star overhead, for all to see.

We said "for all." And yet—let the victims of self-pity, intolerance, cruelty, hyprocrisy or dishonor seek it, and its unfailing beauty sometimes becomes very dim; indeed, invisible. In consequence, millions swear the Star is verily not to be seen, and mock loudly the credulity of other millions who walk with its radiance all round them.

But so it has always been—and so it will always be. Happily, the majority of men have discovered it to be a star that never sets; that is ever in sight of all who are faithful, honorable and selfless——and can be held in the heart of the humblest toiler, yet gloriously give inspiration to the proudest ruler. Astronomers may pronounce it a legend; may say its only sky is the human soul. But the Star itself laughs at such distinctions, and basks in the knowledge that it has no rival in any heaven. For its establishing was of Eternity and not of Time . . . and its name, in the annals of men, is "the Star of Bethlehem."

GERMANS LACK GEESE, BUTTER FOR YULE TABLE

Without Oranges, Too; Shortage of Coal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—Germany is facing the Christmas holidays with a serious shortage of butter and other fats, geese and apples, an almost complete lack of oranges and an inadequate supply of coal and Christmas trees.

The authorities are making a last minute effort to supply the Pan-German population with at least part of these goods. Heavy snowfall, cold and resultant train delays are partly blamed for the inadequate Christmas supplies.

Except for the world war years and the period immediately following, this is the first time that the German population has lacked sufficient butter for Christmas.

Annexations Fail to Help.

The fact that the Nazi authorities failed to provide enough butter to go around appears to indicate that the annexation of Austria and the Sudetenland—especially the latter with its predominantly industrial population—is no asset for Germany as far as the food problem is concerned.

The shortage of geese may find its explanation in the fact that heretofore Poland was Germany's main source of supply of this palatable bird—the mainstay of the German Christmas table. Poland now is sulking because Germany would not let Poland have a common frontier with Hungary at the cost of Ruthenia.

Apple Production Falls Off.

Germany's lack of apples is explained by her exceptionally short crop this year. The yield was only one-sixth of last year's crop. The German press goes to great length to explain away the lack of oranges. It is pointed out that Germany reached an agreement with rebel Spain providing for large supplies of oranges to Germany. It is added that Generalissimo Francisco Franco only recently succeeded in conquering the main orange groves in Castillon province. The Pan-German people therefore may anticipate a generous supply of this fruit in the coming year.

The coal shortage, of course, is due entirely to a certain derangement of transportation facilities since Germany abounds in coal.

Railroads Hard Hit.

German train delays are not entirely the result of the recent cold wave, but must be partly ascribed to a lack of raw materials. This has prevented renewal of railroad rolling stock which suffered during the building of the western fortifications.

Berlin coal merchants were ordered by the police to remove placards inscribed "Sold out!" The slowing up of Germany's transportation system also is responsible for the shortage of Christmas trees.

Notwithstanding these shortcomings, Germany today celebrated "People's Christmas" with a bang. This is a name given to the annual distribution of gifts and Christmas trees to the needy by the Nazi welfare organization.

Gifts for 120,000 Poor Children.

Acting for Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, who is ill with intestinal influenza, the Nazi welfare leader, Erich Hilgenfeldt and his aides, distributed toys and sweets to 120,000 poor children in Berlin, while their parents and other needy persons received 300,000 parcels of foodstuffs. Similar Christmas celebrations took place all over the reich, with millions of needy children being presented with gifts.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler today departed for Munich where he is accustomed to stay on Christmas eve. While his aids are all on leave only a few members of his bodyguard share with the Fuehrer his small Munich flat on this night. Hitler, however, will remain in a room by himself, passing the time by reading newspapers and books. Early the following morning he will go to his Alpine residence in Berchtesgaden.

POLAND FEARS NAZI GRAB IN UKRAINE; SEEKS FRENCH HELP

PARIS, Dec., 23.—(AP)—A discussion by the foreign ministers of France and Poland of Germany's reported designs on Poland's Ukrainian-inhabited provinces was said in informed circles today to be scheduled to be held shortly in Paris.

Col. Joseph Beck left Warsaw this morning for France and conferences with Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet were understood to be in prospect.

Beck visits France each year at Christmas time, but this visit was considered especially important in view of recent demands of Ukrainians in Poland for autonomy.

Many observers have seen this as a first step in plans of Adolf Hitler to split off the Polish and Russian Ukraines to be merged into one Ukrainian state under German domination.

GEORGETOWN 'U' CLUB DINNER TO HONOR 3 JUDGES

The Georgetown university club will honor three graduates of the university law school, who attained the bench in Illinois, at a reception and dinner Thursday. The dinner will be given in the Merchants and Manufacturers club in the Merchandise Mart.

Justice Ross C. Hall of the Illinois Appellate court, 1st district; Judge Michael L. Igoe, of the United States District court for Northern Illinois, and former Judge Thomas B. Lantry, of the Municipal court, are to be the guests at the banquet. Father Francis Lucey and other officials of the university will attend.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D. Wyo.], chairman of the United States senate committee investigating monopolies, will speak. The banquet will follow the opening sessions of the three day meeting of the Association of American Law Schools.

NEW PRINCIPAL APPOINTED FOR OSWEGO SCHOOL

Clarence G. Salter, known as a strict disciplinarian, has been chosen to head the Community High school in Oswego, Kendall county. This was announced yesterday by Bert Kellogg, president of the high school board.

Salter will take the place of Melvin G. Attig, who was killed by a train near Warrenville, in Du Page county, on Dec. 14. An inquest resulted in a suicide verdict. Later investigation indicated that Supt. Attig had been bullied by school rowdies. The theory was that he was driven to distraction and suicide.

The new superintendent is 50 years old. At present he is taking advanced studies at the University of Chicago. He formerly held school positions in Ohio. He will take office Jan. 3.

BRITAIN'S BOWING TO DICTATORSHIP MAY BE NEAR END

Chamberlain's Trip to Rome to Be Test.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's visit to Rome next month may see the end of his policy of appeasing dictators, diplomatic circles in London predicted tonight. Chamberlain has pursued that policy since the Munich conference, in which Britain, France, and Italy agreed with Germany on German annexation of the Czecho-Slovakian Sudetenland.

The dismal results of the four power accord reached in Munich, Britain's stronger armaments position, and domestic dissatisfaction over the foreign policy may stiffen the prime minister's attitude when he talks with Premier Mussolini.

Demands Rouse Londoners.

Il Duce's extravagant demands on France for African colonies are causing consternation in London circles, as is the continued Italian intervention in Spain. The withdrawal of Italian infantry men from the Spanish rebel forces is considered unimportant when compared with the fact that the rebels still have Italian planes.

Germany's penetration in eastern and southeastern Europe, which is endangering Britain's financial stake in the Balkans, and the tremendous British reaction to the repression of Jews and other critics of the Nazi régime, are shattering the Munich good will.

The British armaments program has been speeded up by an intense recruiting drive, a $10,000,000 order for air raid shelters, and Anglo-French military coördination. The export trade subsidy has been increased by $125,000,000 to protect British trade. Further Italian strength in Africa menaces Egypt and Iraq, which are vital to Great Britain.

Expected to Reject Demands.

Chamberlain is expected to reject Mussolini's demands for control in the Suez canal and Djibouti, port in French Somaliland and terminus of the railway into Ethiopia. The prime minister, it is predicted, also will refuse to grant belligerent rights to Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel commander in chief. Chamberlain's conciliatory attitude, which has been the object of criticism and ridicule for a year, will be dropped, it is expected.

Formation of a cabinet with wider representation, and including his former critic, Anthony Eden, as defense minister, has been mentioned for the new year. This would present a united Britain ready for action. Eden resigned as foreign minister after disagreeing with Chamberlain's policies.

COMPLETE RESCUE OF 16 SURVIVORS OF WRECKED MOTORSHIP

Juneau, Alaska, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Coast guardsmen and navy pilots completed rescue today of 16 survivors of the motorship Patterson, wrecked 12 days ago in a storm on the bleak Alaskan coast.

Two navy planes from the Sitka base took seven seamen there late today after the coast guard cutter Haida took aboard the other nine survivors.

Both groups were picked up at Lituaya bay, where the seamen hiked through rain, snow and wind this week from the scene of the Patterson's mishap, 30 miles away. One man was lost in the wreck and another drowned later.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

ARMY PREPARES FOR DEFENSE OF ALL AMERICAS

Seeks Increase in Every Arm of Service.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—A month ago the general staf of the army was satisfied that it had perfected an ideal program for the development of the American army to a minimum effective strength for the protection of the nation. The plan was based on the traditional American policy that the army would fight only on American soil and would not again go overseas to battle.

President Roosevelt knocked the plan haywire in a few sentences when he promulgated a defense policy based upon the broadest interpretation that has been given the Monroe Doctrin in years. Defense has ceased to be a national problem, the chief executive said, and has become a continental problem, embracing the western hemisphere from Hudson bay to Cape Horn.

The commander-in-chief's pronouncement forced an entire restudy of the defense program. In increasing the scope of defense to a point where the army may be called from the country's shores to enforce a "hands off" policy in the new world, sizable increases are demanded in every branch of the service.

Needs Stressed by Craig.

The needs stressed by Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf, before congressional committees at the last session become more imperative than they were before such a thing is possible considering that the army is by far the weakest numerically and in weapons of any major power.

At the time Gen. Craig called for 300 million dollars in additional funds as a minimum and suggested 500 millions additional as desirable. The study of the needs in the light of the revamping of policy has not been completed, but it is expected the minimum will soar far above what it was.

Because there is a decided lack in material now, it follows that the lack will be more acute if the United States is to take the rôle of protector of the western hemisphere. Personnel increases will be necessary because a "continental solidarity" program can not be a reality without a potential expeditionary force.

For an expeditionary force bases are necessary. The army high command envisions an entire overhauling of the military system from the Philippines to the Virgin Islands and the Panama Canal Zone. The army revamping is related to that also enforced on the navy and the combined air fleets of the two arms of the service.

The needs of the army under the new program, as seen by the army high command for the various services, are as follows:

Calvary.

Funds for the development of fast, hard hitting mechanized cavalry divisions, such as was tested during the year. Sufficient scout cars, semi-automatic rifles, 37 millimeter anti-tank guns, .30 and .50 caliber machine guns, pack howitzers and other items of material.

Field Artillery.

The most pressing need is for modern heavy artillery weapons, which now are almost entirely lacking, such as the modern 105 m. m. howitzer [only two in service]; the 135 m. m. field gun [only four in service], and the modern 8 inch howitzer modernization of the 75 m. m. field gun. The army has 3,000 of these French guns of which the tubes and recuperators are deemed satisfactory for modern warfare. However, the modern carriage which permit high speed towing and the modern train and mount which gives a greater range and wider angle of fire, is lacking. Only 140 of the guns have been modernized.

The field artillery service also needs 75 m. m. howitzers of which only 50 are now available. There is also need for field anti-aircraft weapons and field communication development, particularly field radio sets.

Coast Artillery.

Although 338 3 inch anti-aircraft guns have been ordered [the army has less than 40], more still will be needed to give a minimum defense to the country. Also are needed the 105 m. m. gun, the big Berthas of air defense which fire 33 pound shells eight miles up and the 37 m. m. anti-aircraft guns.

In heavy coast artillery, the army is almost hopelessly deficient. Most of the weapons on hand are models built before 1910, which could be silenced without danger by enemy naval guns. The army needs, 8, 12, 14 and 16 inch guns for its coasts and particularly for the Atlantic coast, Hawaii and the Panama canal.

Infantry.

In addition to personnel, the most crying need of the infantry is for the Garand semi-automatic rifle, which makes each soldier the equal of five armed with the old Springfield rifle. There is also a heavy need for the 37 m. m. anti-tank gun of which the army has only one and for the 81 m. m. mortar, of which six are allotted for each regiment and the army has only an average of one and a half for each regiment. There is also a need for .30 and .50 caliber machine guns.

Quartermaster Corps.

The quartermaster corps needs increased supplies of all categories. An outstanding need is motor equipment. The army lacks 7,000 trucks and the National Guard is short half of its required 17,266.

Medical Corps.

Increased personnel is needed by the medical corps; also stores and supplies to care for expeditionary forces. Funds also are desired for research work.

Corps of Engineers.

The engineers need virtually every item of combat material, particularly searchlight for anti-aircraft units, air mapping material, engineering instruments, water purification equipment, and supplies and personnel for its own troops, such as bridge builders, road makers, and mappers.

Ordnance Department.

Upon the ordnance department falls the work of designing, proving, manufacturing or providing for the manufacture of all new weapons and special vehicles. Already the peace time organization is hopelessly bogged down with work. An acceleration will require a smart increase in personnel.

A prime necessity is the procurement of dies, gages, and jigs to be put in reserves so that industry could get to work speedily with the production of war material in time of emergency. Ammunition reserves for six months of war are essential. Research funds are highly desirable.

The present lack of facilities for manufacture is demonstrated by the fact that the army has but 7,500 semi-automatic rifles for 400,000 men it would put into the field on "M" day. Only 2,500 a year are being manufactured, at which rate it will take more than 1,000 years to supply the needed arms. A semi-automatic rifle has been developed which would employ the barrel of the discarded Springfield, but this is considered an inferior weapon to the Garand.

The situation is similar to other desired weapons up to the 16 inch coast defense rifles. Production at present is hopelessly behind the demand and little hope is in sight for speeding up.

Signal Corps.

Like the ordnance department and the engineering corps, the signal corps needs additional equipment and personnel not only for its own use but to aid other arms of the service. Research funds are also desired.

Chemical Warfare Service.

The most pressing need of the chemical warfare service is for gas masks for combat troops. There are now on hand only one mask for every four soldiers and these are for the most part out of date. The service also has a dire need for 4.2 inch chemical mortars.

The National Guard.

The National Guard is greatly in need of increased personnel and modern equipment. The last congress authorized an increase of 5,000 men which the President held back for the first six months of the present fiscal year, but is expected to press forward by July 1. The army high command had planned to ask for an additional 5,000 in the coming fiscal year, but may ask for more in view of the new defense theory.

These are the needs that will be set before the administration and congress during the next few months. Whether they will be voted upon or whether the defense program will be turned into a disguised relief program lies in the laps of the legislative gods.

JEWS INFLUENCE ROOSEVELT, NAZI PRESS CHARGES

Award of Hebrew Medal Cited as Proof.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—German officials today expressed "pained surprise" at the "rude and aggressive manner" with which the United States refused yesterday to apologize for the anti-Nazi speech made by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes last Sunday at Cleveland. Ickes, speaking before the Cleveland Zionist society, called the Nazi treatment of the Jews "bestial."

It was indicated here that as a result of the American government's attitude Germany may delay the return of Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff to Washington, D. C. It was added, however, that the final decision is up to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Apparently the German press is under orders to ignore the incident until further notice. To vent their anger the Nazi papers seized upon the award of the 1938 American Hebrew medal to President Roosevelt.

Charges War Agitation.

Headlining its front page with the words: "Pan-Judah Presents Roosevelt with the Hebrew Medal," the official Voelkischer Beobachter stressed that the President was awarded this decoration "at a moment when Judah tried to agitate the American nation into a war psychosis against Germany and to exploit it for Jewish dreams of world mastery."

The Lokalanzeiger remarked that "nobody will envy the recipient of the medal. It shows the influence of Jewry in North America and how far Roosevelt is under Jewish influence." The paper added that Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York also wears this decoration.

The Berliner Boersenzeitung said the award was evidence of "everything which has been said so far in the German press regarding the connection between the American government and international Jewry, by whom the murderer Grynszpan is celebrated as a martyr."

Says Others Deserve Award.

The reference was to young Herschel Grynszpan, whose slaying of Ernest von Rath, German diplomat in Paris, touched off the November anti-Jewish wave in Germany.

"We marvel that only Roosevelt received the medal," Boersenzeitung continued. "We know many members of the Washington government who are just as worthy of a Hebrew medal as the President."

The newspaper Nachtausgabe said: "The question remains open whether Roosevelt really feels honored by the Hebrew medal and how the American public, which in no way is to be identified with Jewish machinations in the United States, will receive this newest demonstration of Jewry; for in the end the American suffers considerably under circumstances manufactured by Jewish gangsterdom, which repeatedly deals the reputation of the United States the heaviest blows."

Nachtausgabe published a cartoon showing Secretary Ickes throwing dirt at Germany while behind his back F. Donald Coster [Philip Musica] sneaks away with a bag marked $40,000,000."

Threatens to Break Ties.

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The controled Nazi press warned tonight that Secretary of Interior Ickes' course might lead to a break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany.

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt, influential businessmen's newspaper, joined the widely-read Berlin Lokalanzeiger in declaring that the aim of Ickes and his group was to lead the way to rupture between the two governments.

Ickes, the Hamburger Fremdenblatt declared, "only fulfills the program of his Weltanschaulichen friends [meaning Jews and Marxists] when he obviously wants to force by his course of action a diplomatic break between the United States and the German reich."

Senator Key Pittman also was accused by the Nazi press of belonging to a group of "war instigators." Lokalanzeiger said the aim of the group was to "let matters come to a breaking off of diplomatic relations" between Washington and the Berlin and Tokio governments.

The newspaper referred to a "beneficial statement of facts" issued yesterday by Pittman to express, as he said, his personal view that the American people "do not like" the governments of Japan and Germany.

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Martha Stephenson, the blonde debutante who has been a night club singer and who has been given a Hollywood screen test, will be married next month to Hal Kemp, the band leader, her mother, Mrs. Paul Forester, said today.

Kemp has just left to fill an engagement in Cincinnati and will not be back until Jan. 20. He and Miss Stephenson want to be married immediately on his return, but the seventy-two hour law may delay their plans for a few days.

Last summer Kemp and his first wife, the former Margaret Elizabeth Slaughter, of Dallas, Tex., were divorced.

MARQUESS HANDS OVER HALF A CITY AFTER HUGE SALE

CARDIFF, Wales, Dec. 23.—(AP)—"Half of Cardiff" was delivered by the marquess of Bute to new owners today.

Estimates of the price involved in the mammoth sale made last May 17 by the marquess have ranged from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000. It involved, among other things, 20,000 houses and 250 saloons.

The marquess signed a great stack of documents while a representative of Western Ground Rents Ltd. watched. The company, controled by three insurance companies, was formed to acquire the real estate in this seaport of 225,000 population.

CHARGES ARMS ARE GIVEN RIVAL MEXICAN UNIONS

Mexico City, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Eucario Leon, head of the Confederation of Regional Workers [C. R. O. M.], today charged the department of communications and public works had been supplying truckloads of arms to rival labor and political organizations.

Leon said his charges had been placed before President Lazaro Cardenas and the war department. There was no comment immediately from the chief executive or the two government departments.

The C. R. O. M. leader said the arms were supplied members of the Confederation of Mexican Workers [C. T. M.] and the Mexican revolutionary party, controling political party in Mexico.

He said they were for the purpose of attacks on members of the C. R. O. M., the General Confederation of Workers [C. G. T.], and other groups opposing communism.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 23.—Pope Pius XI will leave the Vatican for a long sojourn at Castel Gandolfo on or about Jan. 15. The pope's physician believes the altitude and quiet at Castel Gandolfo more suitable for the pope's weakened heart and asthmatic condition. Vatican City is about 150 feet above sea level. Castel Gandolfo is about 1,200 feet.

SPANISH REBELS LAUNCH ATTACK NEAR BARCELONA

Claim Moroccans Advance Over Six Miles.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Spanish government announced tonight that insurgents had launched a long awaited general offensive against Catalonia, northeastern section of government Spain.

A communique from Barcelona, government capital, said Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops, backed by heavy artillery and airplane bombardments, had attacked in the Tremp sector, northwest of Barcelona.

Take 1,000 Prisoners.

Insurgent dispatches reported that Franco's forces had advanced an average of six and one-fourth miles by nightfall and had taken more than 1,000 prisoners as well as a huge quantity of arms, munitions, and tanks.

A violent battle in the drive with which insurgents hoped to end the thirty month old civil war continued tonight. Earlier dispatches from both sides had agreed that there had been a series of insurgent attacks along the east bank of the Segre river, near Tremp, the government's first line of defense against a drive from the northwest.

The long-awaited insurgent drive, in which Franco was said to be using a number of Moroccan troops, apparently had been delayed by an espionage investigation in insurgent ranks.

Loyalist Report Differs.

The government communique said the attackers had been repulsed with heavy losses, but insurgent advices asserted Catalan defenses had been broken at several points.

Insurgents who attempted to cross the Segre near Lerida were said by government reports to have been driven back. Several divisions described as Italian were reported in government dispatches as having lost heights near Seros in a government counterattack.

The extent of operations indicated that insurgents had only started their drive.

15 UNEMPLOYED MEN DEMAND TO SEE KING GEORGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Another of a series of spectacular stunts to call the attention of King George VI. to the plight of Britain's 2,000,000 unemployed took place today at the gate to Buckingham palace.

Fifteen idle men assembled at the gate and demanded of a guard that they be permitted to present a petition for winter relief to the king. Police reënforcements were called. The men retreated only after a promise that the petition would be given to an aide of the king, who is spending the Christmas season at his country home, Sandringham. The men were told the message would be telephoned to the king.

On Thursday a group of fifty shabbily dressed men and women went to the fashionable Ritz hotel to take tea, but they were routed by the police.

BABY BURNED BY CANDLE.

Glenn Burton, 1 month old, was slightly burned on the head yesterday when a candle fell to the floor and set fire to the basket in which he was sleeping. The family home at 2332 North Central Park avenue is lighted by candles since the electricity was turned off, Shakespeare avenue police said.

ATLANTIC FLEET IS ESTABLISHED BY NAVY ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The navy announced today that a permanent Atlantic fleet will be established, effective Jan. 6. The Atlantic fleet of thirty-five warships has been operating on a temporary basis for several months.

The decision to make the fleet permanent was timed with the present delicate international situation and came on the heels of the announcement last Saturday that the navy's annual war games would be switched to the Atlantic for the first time since world war days.

The shifting of the war games from the Pacific was seen as serving the double purpose of giving a demonstration of the nation's armed might to European aggressor nations and of showing Latin American countries that the United States is well able to stand behind its good neighbor policy.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Sterling, Ill., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Cecil Waddell, 37 years old, died today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident earlier in the week. Amos Garland, driver of the automobile in which Waddell was riding, is serving a drunken driving sentence in the County jail.

UP TO DATE TRANSPORTATION.

In 1938 Chicago has made some progress toward the realization of the fifth goal listed in the platform at the head of this page. The digging of the first subway has been started.

It is true, of course, that when the subways now contemplated have been completed and are in use, Chicago will still fall far short of having the up-to-date local transportation which the platform demands. But a start will have been made and the long period of lethargy is ended. The people of Chicago will have before them evidence that improvements can be made, and once that lesson has been learned there is reason to believe that they will demand further advances.

There is reason to hope, also, that the managers of the lines will be stimulated to raise the standards of service to the public. Under the most favorable conditions we shall have to rely largely upon the present equipment for a number of years to come. If the trains and cars can be speeded up and overcrowding reduced, the competition of private automobiles may be held in check more successfully than at present. As it is, the impartial observer would be justified in suspecting that the companies are deliberately engaged in a conspiracy to drive their customers away.

The principal local transportation companies have been in receivership for many years but at last it looks as if the court proceedings are drawing to a close. The surface and elevated companies, if present plans are carried into effect, will be merged. The expectation is that unified management will result eventually in a well coördinated system as well as in operating economies. Whether these highly desirable ends are achieved will depend in large measure upon the degree of wisdom displayed by the city council and the representatives of the company in drafting a franchise ordinance. The preparation of that contract will be the most important task confronting the city government in the months just ahead.

Chicago's growth in population and wealth has been gravely retarded by its antiquated transportation facilities. The people of the city have been subjected to needless discomfort and inconvenience. The remedy lies in well planned expenditures for new equipment. The most useful provisions of the new ordinance will be those which will establish the credit of the company on a basis which will enable it to adopt improvements as they are made available by engineers, inventors, and manufacturers.

THE ROOT GROWTH OF AMERICAN COMMUNISTS.

American concerns which have a thousand or more employés represent only two-tenths of one per cent of the 531,000 American corporations filing income tax returns, but they account for 38 per cent of the total number of employés. These percentages were submitted to the temporary national economic committee as illustrative of economic trends under the anti-trust laws. They have a political significance aside from their economic meaning.

Russia was supposed to be a backward industrial country, but before the revolution it had made a great leap which covered many generations of evolution in other lands. One result of the Russian development was that it had proportionately a great many more companies employing a thousand or more men than were existent in the countries behind which it had lagged for a century or more. When industry did spring up in Russia it tended toward greater consolidations and more rather than fewer great plants.

In consequence the new Russian working class drawn from the peasant stock was organized in great units. Many of these units were strategically located, as in the industrial suburb of St. Petersburg, Vyborg. In 1904, when the bolsheviists used the soviet form for the organization of the militant proletariat, they penetrated the highly consolidated ranks of workers and found that the process was facilitated because Russian industry was not widely diversified and scattered, but was compactly built up not only in the great companies but in industrial sections.

It was from such regions as Vyborg that the revolution of February, 1917, poured into the streets of St. Petersburg and, by winning over the guard regiments of the city, was able to place control of government in the hands of the bewildered liberals of the dumas.

Until recent years the American communist party was an illegal, alien transplantation committed to violent overthrow of government and terrorist disturbances. Its boring from within was secretive and its organization was by cells. It had no root growth. It was not associated with anything which could be regarded as a native American program until its management, slowly, to be sure, recognizing the trends of the Roosevelt administration, saw a new opportunity.

Under the leadership of Earl Browder as general secretary the communists domesticated themselves. They adopted American origins and made governmental connections. Without divorcing themselves from Stalin they added Jefferson to the galaxy of Marxist democratic statesmen along with Lenin, and began speaking the popular front lingo with a Yankee twang. They endeavored to get the missing root growth. They were successful in making governmental connections, principally through the C. I. O.

Also through the C. I. O. they were able to penetrate into the workers' ranks in the great industrial concerns, applying here the tactics which the bolsheviks had used in their organizing days in Russia. A widely scattered industrial organization presents difficulties not encountered when consolidations have produced strategic centers such as the steel and automobile towns. It is easier for government to take control of highly centralized industry. It is easier for revolution to get into the ranks. That explains the continuing disturbances which strike particularly at the automobile industry. John Lewis presented the communists with the C. I. O. supported by Mr. Roosevelt's administration. It was made to their order.

NEARING A BREAK WITH GERMANY.

The government at Washington is apparently anxious to have a cause, if not of war but at least of open hostility, against Nazi Germany. While the British government fairly strains itself to remain on tolerable terms with Hitler, the American government is determined to bring relations to the breaking point. The recall of the ambassadors, disguised at first under pretense of consultation, is now frankly the next thing to an open break.

The Nazis are a vituperative breed of politicians who must keep their people excited by fomenting hatreds. The controled German press is forever breaking out into vicious language about any one or anything Hitler's aids desire to smear. The state of public opinion in the United States is against present day Germany, and press criticism and individual criticism is nearly always severe. This cannot be avoided.

American officials have allowed themselves the same privileges which private citizens exercise. They take advantage of the prevailing state of public opinion to gain approval for themselves by making comments officially upon the German government, and that leads to retaliation in Germany.

If Mr. Roosevelt or one of his subordinates cares to express his detestation of the Nazi government and its practices, it is certain that the response here will be for the most part gratifying to the speaker. It may be that the United States does not need, as certainly the British do, to consider what might be the consequences of an official interchange of hard names. The British had a great scare cooked up by scare mongers. There were several days in which the people watched the sky, wondering what darkness might bring them. The British and their government, faced with what might become reality at any time, have considered their prospects in deadly earnestness.

Our government relies upon the Atlantic ocean and obviously thinks that it can play with a war scare and make use of it in domestic politics without being confronted by the demand of the American people to know exactly what is the purpose of all this. If the American people were looking over the sea with the same apprehensions which filled England the Rooseveltians might not so carelessly aggravate the consequence of every incident arising with Nazi Germany.

Mr. Sumner Welles handled the dispute over Mr. Ickes' talk not with a view to appeasement but with a desire to get the greatest possible irritation in both countries out of the whole affair. This does not help the persecuted in Germany. It limits the usefulness of the United States. It diminishes the ability of the nation to protect its own nationals. It invites not only more hard words but retaliation in acts. Nazi Germany needs controversy to keep up steam and to take the minds of Germans off their own hard luck. Does the New Deal need the same internal disturbance?

Just when it could be anticipated that federal expenditures would be investigated as soon as congress met in the January session Mr. Roosevelt switched the direction of the spending, picking up armament as the way out of the New Deal hard times. The frauds in government spending, the political corruption, and the trafic in destitution are due to be disclosed. The government therefore starts down a new street. The armament program needs a scare. It requires the imminence of a danger. The danger if it can be conjured might distract public attention from the domestic issues which resulted in the November election reverses.

A quarrel picked with Germany would be used to boost the armament program and to keep congress from going after the New Deal. If the country could be thrown into a high state of excitement Mr. Roosevelt might avoid the domestic issues. If Germany could be harangued into doing some high handed things to American citizens the state of excitement might be provoked. Back of it all is the proposed war mobilization bill which would establish a dictatorship in time of emergency.

The people must see through this stratagem. It is the last resort of rulers who do not know the answers to questions which will be asked them.

ILLINOIS' MANY COLLEGES.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Higher education is a major enterprise in Illinois, according to Dr. Arthur C. Willard, president of the Universty of Illinois. In a radio address Dr. Willard listed these facts about the 102 colleges, junior colleges and universities in this state:

Their enrollment in regular session is 75,000 students and 22,000 more enroll for summer sessions, making a total equal to the population of Peoria. Their property holdings and endowments equal a quarter of a billion dollars. They spend about $30,000,000 yearly, employ 6,000 people for instructional purposes alone, and draw upon library facilities in excess of 4,000,000 volumes.

One out of every four students enrolled in higher education attends an institution supported by the state, either one of the five teacher training institutions or the University of Illinois. But the burden of furnishing college training falls on the private institutions. In 1936-'37 they provided instruction for more than 33,000 students, or in excess of two out of each five in the state. The remainder [7,000 students in 1936-'37] enrolled in schools operated by cities or townships.

Without dwelling on the particular excellences of any specific institutions, Dr. Willard has martialed an impressive set of statistics on the educational opportunities offered in this state. Citizens of Illinois think of it as a great agricultural state, a leader in coal mining, a manufacturing state. They need to remember it has also a variety of excellent colleges and universities.

SONG FOR CHRISTMAS EVE.

O Jesu, Baby, show us now the light
That long ago illumined Bethlehem's plain;
Turn our hearts backward on this holy night
And let us hear the olden tales again.
On Christmas eve, the ancient legends say,
The beasts knelt down to worship in their stalls,
Remembering a little child who lay
Asleep within a manger. In their halls
Good men burnt candles through the night to guide
Belated travelers, for—who could tell?—
Perhaps along their own dark roads might ride
Sweet Mary and her Son. The age-old spell
Falls gently now, and carols sound afar,
And easterly we hail a shining star.

In Memory of Schumann-Heink.

After all, it will not be quite perfect without Mother Schumann-Heink to sing "Silent Night, Holy Night," for us on Christmas eve, in the voice that gained in beauty as she grew older. I think she would like us to remember her a moment, amid our happiness, even though she's in the highest heaven of all, where the children are. She must be there, for God is good, and she wouldn't be content anywhere else, she whose love was great enough to embrace the sons in both trenches during the years of our conflict. It was only during her last few years here that the miracle of the radio gave us all the privilege of hearing her voice; perhaps she is looking down now, wistfully wishing some greater miracle might allow her to sing for us again, and with her song somehow reconcile her greater family, the sons of every mother, still childishly busy in the foolish conflict she could never understand.

Quizzicuss.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

This day I'd fill your hands with loveliness:
Music that lifts your heart on beating wings
To heaven's heights; the roguish wind's caress,
And autumn's rains; gay songs a kettle sings
Over an outdoor fire; the smell of lether
And ink exuded by an ancient book;
Fragrance of wind-tossed hair, of rain-swept heather.
And clear, grave eyes of children, eyes that look
On all of life in judgment. Lifting seas,
And shabby cargo tramps coming to port;
Far, shartless trail to learn. O, all of these
I'd give you on this day! And other sort:
Colors: the shining blue of skies; sun-yellow
Of wheat and jonquils, and the startled green
Of grass; colors of words; the restrained, mellow
Ivory of old piano keys; and keen
And sharp, the black of branches on the moon,
Gray rocks, gray mist, all the colors of rain!
And I would give you laughter, and the croon
Of mother-voices; wisdom fraught with pain
To temper too much beauty; clouds blowing,
And shapes of clouds dissolving like old dreams;
And children, and puppies, and flowers growing.
Fragments of song, like unexpected beams
Of sunlight; velvet of a young colt's mouth;
Cool linen, and the friendliness of wool;
And humble things: brown bread and, after drouth,
Good water; apples; and the rhythmic pull
Of muscles intimate with toil. A bright
Swift sword for faith I'd give to you; and love,
Most blessed of all; and grace to see, this night,
The holy star that's shining from above.

Lauretta Hogan.

Snow: Master Etcher.

Snow is the master etcher! It transforms a sometimes too dreary city into a rich collection of "wood cuts" and "engravings," leaves bits of enchanting shadow lace here and there, draws lines of nobility and cunning about bulks whose proportions normally are almost entirely obscured, and transforms vines and trees into abodes of witchery.

Snow is like the revealing dust used in detecting finger prints. It exposes architectural details all but hidden by dirt and grime and in so doing reveals the hand and sometimes the soul of architects and artisans who toiled diligently, if not always successfully, to capture beauty in stone and steel. Snow is a kindly critic, hiding some of the worst architectural atrocities under mantles of magnificence. Again, it is a sharp reminder, calling attention to rare bits of beauty we too frequently overlook even in the brilliant light of summer.

Does the city dweller think he is familiar with towers, entrances, cornices, roofs, and casements of the town's best known buildings? Let him study them after a clean and not too heavy fall of snow—the kind that clings—and he will be amazed at what nature's master etcher will reveal!

Newcomer.

FIRST-BORN SON.

When Mary held her baby boy,
Could she have really felt
That it was to a King of Kings
The shaggy shepherds knelt?

Did wonder at the angels' song
And the Christmas star's bright shine
Make Mary love her first-born more
Than I tonight love mine?

The Wise Men, there to bring him gifts
Of incense, gold, and myrrh,
Alone could never make a stall
A holy place to her.

My love, like that of Mary, is
A vibrant, holy thing.
I pause by my son's trundle bed
And hear the angels sing!

CHILDHOOD TUBERCULOSIS.

ALTHOUGH sanitation — including better housing and improved living conditions—has made great inroads on the prevalence of the great white plague [tuberculosis], nevertheless the problem is far from solved. We must not forget that the scourge is communicable and may be transmitted from one person to another.

The key to eradication lies in the fact that the disorder is not contracted by a single exposure or association with an active case lasting for an hour, but only when contact covers considerable time. With the great majority, although the malady may blossom in the 20s, it was picked up during childhood.

There are two cardinal principles for prevention. Youngsters must be kept away from those who are afflicted. If there has been exposure we can discover any trouble at an early period before it becomes dangerous to others. By means of X-ray films of the lungs and certain studies, evidence which is practically conclusive may be obtained. We must recall, however, that the infected boy or girl may not cough or exhibit fever, and that all of the ordinary signs of the acute form are absent.

When a child meets tuberculosis the microbes do not lodge in the air sacs, as is customary in grownups. They find their way into the lymph glands which surround the roots of the lungs. As a rule, a slight inflammation ensues, the nodes enlarge, and some may contain pus, although no obvious symptoms will be observed, such as loss of weight or strength. But the invaders are still there, having gone into winter quarters ready to grow and spread should the vitality become depleted. Thus it is that after measles or whooping cough some one of these bacteria storing glands may break down and disseminate the infection to the delicate air cells.

In addition to the X-ray pictures, by means of which a healthy chest may be distinguished from one which is not, tuberculin is employed. Although it is manufactured from the bacteria themselves, no single germ is alive. It is harmless when used as a skin test and will indicate whether or not the little one has been affected. But even if the reaction is positive it may not prove just where the organisms have hidden away, and this is why the X-ray plates are so necessary.

We can all understand that it is essential to discover the illness promptly, as thereby we can surround the patient with adequate defenses so that the ailment will not break out or become active. A few more days in bed with every cold and keeping the general health at a high level are highly desirable. Fortunately, many of the organisms will have died by the time adulthood is reached, although reinfection or new infection must be guarded against. It seems strange that bacteria which are so easily destroyed outside the body should be able to persist for so long within, but that is a situation which we must accept.

If a lad is found to be a suspect, even though no symptoms are present, it is most important for the sake of the family to trace the bacilli to their source, and it may be wise to have a check made of every one about the home, as occasionally a person, although not indisposed, may be playing host to the microbe. If a home spread is found the youngster should be removed immediately, as an "open" [expectorating bacilli] case constitutes a real menace.

It is not safe to look at Johnny or Gretchen and say, "O well, there isn't the slightest danger with my offspring. They are pictures of health." While this is fine and no doubt true, either may harbor diseased glands, which are like bombs waiting explosion should some wasting contagion come along. A cold that hangs on, a chronic cough, loss of weight, a rise in temperature in the afternoon, one and all should be regarded not as alarming but as significant, and the explanation should be forthcoming.

The protective remedies are food, rest, play, and fresh air. A goodly store of reserve strength is needed. So far there is no specific cure for the disease once it has become manifest. The best rule is not to waste one's energies on useless things and to observe within reason the standards of healthful living.

GAINING WEIGHT SLOWLY.

Mrs. W. writes:

1. Is there anything which will promote the growth of a child? My 18 month old son is a slow gainer. He is healthy and active and has a good appetite.

2. I have heard about vitamin B. What foods contain it?

REPLY.

1. If physical examination does not reveal any cause for underweight, increasing the caloric content of the diet will usually bring about a gain in weight.

2. It helps the body by restoring or improving appetite and preventing neuritis. It may be found in whole grain breads and cereals, liver, leafy vegetables, and yeast.

THEY WON'T SMOTHER.

Mrs. E. C. B. writes: Why are newborn babies placed on their stomachs while sleeping? I have heard of babies being smothered because of this position.

REPLY.

Babies are allowed to sleep in whatever position they wish to assume. There is no advantage in the "breast stroke" swimming position. If the baby assumes the posture naturally it is quite all right and no tot will smother unless other factors interfere, such as too much or too tight clothing. Make certain that the sleeping suit cannot constrict the throat, regardless of the twisting and turning of the infant.

SEVERAL CAUSES POSSIBLE.

Mrs. M. writes: 1. What is the cause of closure of the salivary ducts? 2. Is it serious? 3. Can it be cured? 4. What is the treatment?

REPLY.

1. The tube or duct leading from the gland may become plugged by lime deposits, thickening of the secretion, or by pressure from without.

2. Occasionally a slight operation may be necessary to remove the obstruction.

3. As a rule, yes.

4. Good mouth hygiene, drinking of more fluids, and removal of the cause. Drugs may be employed to relax the tube and alter the consistency of the secretion.

YES.

G. E. M. writes: Should a patient with bronchial asthma stop smoking?

REPLY.

On general principles, yes, although tobacco may bear no relationship to the cause.

MORE LIGHT ON RELIEF.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—I am a WPA worker. I want to congratulate you for your editorial, "More Light on Relief." It is the most sensible criticism of the WPA I ever read. Persons who are not in need of relief are not only being certified for WPA employment but they are given the best positions with the highest salaries! It is a well known fact to every WPA worker that there appears to be an unwritten law against giving a good position with a higher pay to a certified person in need of relief, regardless of education, experience, or ability. The higher paid positions are all monopolized by noncertified people and by certified people who are not in need of relief. The "qualification" necessary to get one of those higher positions is either to have a political "drag" or to know personally a WPA official or one of his immediate associates. For the above reasons many persons with a good education, experience, and ability are forced to work for $55 to $85 per month. The $108 and $200 positions are denied to them. That is why the WPA cannot honestly be called a relief body.

QUESTION.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Why, if the federal government considers itself so competent in the care of venereal diseases that it is capable of telling the medical profession how to manage the venereal disease problem, especially syphilis, did it not treat Alphonse Capone effectively during the first five years of his incarceration in the Alcatraz prison, so he would not have developed paresis during his sixth year? Why?

IN THE SAME BOAT.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—In view of the indictment of the American Medical society by the Washington government, God help all trade associations, lodges, unions, churches, and the American Legion. All of them throw out members for nonconformity. None have higher motives than the A. M. A.

MERRY CHRISTMAS FOR JAWN.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—We have been reading much about the Linebook and the Wakebook. Why can't we have an Encyclopedia McCutcheon, a collection of the art and comment of the dean of American cartoonists? A well selected collection covering the eventful years of his work would be a history of world events from Purdue to Brookfield, where the animals face the wall to avoid looking at the funny folks all day.

Injun Summer and that fast traveling man, the Restless Rover, are two for the book. May I purchase the first copy off the press? Who wants the second?

HOOSIER.

HE GOT WHAT HE WANTED.

Le Mars, Ia., Dec. 19.—Just a note as to why we have been a long time subscriber to the old TRIBUNE. We searched our largest Iowa dailies for a tip on what kind of a letter Coster of McKesson & Robbins wrote to his many stockholders. We found it in the Saturday issue of the W. G. N. This has happened many times.

WHO REMEMBERS THIS ONE?

Chicago, Dec. 16.—I would appreciate it very much if any of the readers of the Voice of the People could supply the remaining part of the poem, "Teddy." The poem starts:

"Mother, Teddy's sleeping yet
And the chickens say it's day—"

MARGARET FINK.

ANTIDOTE FOR HISTORY.

Alameda, Cal., Dec. 20.—We hear often the verdict of history as though it were conclusive. But is it? Napoleon said, "History is a lie agreed upon," while Henry Ford more bluntly called it bunk. History in the main is a record of international conflicts and the victors tell the story in their own way which is not the way of the vanquished if they ever survived to tell it. Who ever heard of history from the viewpoint of Troy or Carthage?

If both sides survive each gives its own version so that in spite of the honest intentions of its authors, history is largely fictional.

Geography, on the other hand, is wholly factual. Thus, while history feeds and perpetuates that "exaggerated nationalism" so deplored by Einstein and the pope as the real cause of all wars, the study of geography acts as an antidote to this arrogant patriotism, since no matter how big, strong, and wealthy any one nation is, the rest of the world is far bigger, far stronger and far wealthier. In other words, the teaching of history creates a war atmosphere while geography shows the value of international conciliation and so paves the way for peace.

B. J. S. CAHILL.

OLD HOME WEEK.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Next week most of us will be taking a moral inventory with a view to New Year's resolutions. Would it not be a good idea to also take an inventory of our bookcases, tool chests, and basements in search of borrowed articles which should be returned to their rightful owners? What practice could be more conducive to neighborhood amity and good feeling than to start the New Year at peace with those who were kind hearted enough to aid us when we needed it?

Personally, I never borrow, but am one of those harassed individuals who is almost afraid to buy necessary articles, knowing that as soon as they come under the eye of the neighborhood "borrow-maniac" they will be gently but firmly carried away, perhaps never to be returned.

FAIR PLAY.

FAMILY HONOR.

Garrison, Md., Dec. 20.—President Hutchin's resignation from the board of the New York Stock exchange has raised discussion of the attitude of members of the exchange in the Richard Whitney debacle. It seems to me that one very noteworthy act has never been commented upon although it was almost the only unselfish and idealistic deed of the whole affair. That was the repayment of the entire gratuity fund by George Whitney. This generous restitution for another's wrongs has been brought home to me by its effect upon a member of my own family, whose husband recently died leaving as practically the sole support of his wife and children his seat upon the exchange and their share of the gratuity fund. Had Mr. Whitney been willing merely to expose his brother instead of repaying the money, they would have been left in a much worse position, and would have been dependent in part upon charity instead of as now able to provide for themselves. I feel it is right and fitting that I, as a beneficiary of his high sense of honor and integrity, should make public recognition of it, particularly at this time.

S. M. C.

WPA PROCESSES.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Answering "Single Woman's" letter of Friday concerning WPA employment, the usual way of getting a WPA job is to be certified at your local relief station. But even if she needs a job as badly as I did she won't enjoy spending day after day sitting in a stuffy relief station waiting to hear her number called.

A. E.

LOTS OF POSTMASTERSHIPS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Now that all the adult members of the Roosevelt clan are established in soft berths, do any of your contributors know of any vacancies in which the grandchildren can be placed?

J. C. D.

PRO-HOUND.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—The dog has very little to do with the filth in Chicago. Why not clean up the alley first? Think this over.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

ADOPTION PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I signed an agreement for adoption of my baby daughter, 1 year old, a short while back. It was done by a notary public. I was 20 years of age at the time. Is my signature held binding, as I was without legal aid?

2. My child was born in Chicago and the adoption proceedings took place in Detroit. Agreement papers were signed in Cook county, where I have lived for the last two years.

3. Is it legal for adoption proceedings to take place in Michigan? Previously, before adoption, I appeared before a Cook county judge for signing adoption agreement and he informed me that parties seeking adoption must secure same from Cook county courts and not Michigan court and refused to notarize agreement. Adoption party was my husband's sister and brother-in-law. He, my husband, fourteen years older than I [4] coerced me into signing papers.

5. What recourse in law have I?

H. R.

1. Girls are of legal age at 18. The controling consideration is the apparent best interest of the child. Your chances of setting the agreement aside would depend in part on how much time has elapsed, whether other parties have become attached to the child, how good a home you can offer, and other facts that are not before us.

2. The fact that there have been adoption proceedings is more serious than the mere signing of the agreement.

3. We would consider it more appropriate to handle the proceedings here, but you would experience some difficulty in setting aside the court order.

4. You do not give us the facts on this point.

5. If you wish to try to force matter, the first step would be to go over all of your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

Happy Holiday Season Opens; Buds Are Busy

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS will be a merry week-end for all ages, but especially for the debutantes, for in addition to the usual Christmas merry-making they will have parties galore to which to go.

Once upon a time Christmas was a family day, but now it is not exclusively that, and tomorrow will see two young women making their formal bows to society. There will be a Christmas eve bud, too, for this afternoon Miss Sarah Catherine Mosser is being presented by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stacy Carroll Mosser, at a tea at their home in Winnetka. Miss Gene Manning and Miss Priscilla Payne are the Christmas day debutantes.

In deference to the tradition that Christmas eve is a time when every one who has a home wants to be in it, the Ballet Russe is not having a performance tonight. The dancers, most of whom are hundreds of miles from their homes, will be entertained by various Chicago balletomanes. Tomorrow night it again will be the dancers' turn to entertain Chicagoans and there will be a gala program, including "L'Epreuve d'Amour," "St. Francis," and "Le Beau Danube," in the Auditorium theater.

Christmas Party for Ballet Troupe.

Following tomorrow night's performance M. Hurok, impresario of the American tour, will give a supper party in the Gold room of the Congress hotel for the ballet artists and his wife, whose birthday is on Christmas. The Potter Palmers, the Charles B. Goodspeeds, the Clay Judsons, the William H. Mitchells, and Mrs. Robert C. Orr are among those who are having guests at the ballet tomorrow night.

Sonja Henie's opening tomorrow night will attract many to the Stadium, and on Monday night there will be even more attractions to draw people from their homes. Sir. Cedric Hardwicke will be opening that night in "Shadow and Substance" at the Selwyn, and the Lunts will be reopening in "Amphitryon 38" at the Erlanger. Next door to the Selwyn in the Harris, Gertrude Lawrence and her company will start their last week in "Susan and God" with a special matinée on Monday.

Argentinita, who delighted those who saw her at the Arts club a few weeks ago, will give her first public program in Chicago at Orchestra hall Monday afternoon.

Mansure-Carroll Nuptials Today.

Christmas eve will be of especial significance in the Edmund Forsman Mansure family henceforth, for this afternoon Mr. Mansure is taking as his bride Miss Julia Carroll. The wedding will be a very quiet one at 4 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's church, with the Rev. Dudley Stark officiating. The bridegroom's brother, John F. Mansure, has come from his home in Philadelphia to be best man. The bride will be attended by Mrs. Walter Neff of Riverside.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell Carroll of Vinita, Okla., were unable to come north for the wedding. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Edmund L. Mansure, will give a dinner in her Lincoln Park West apartment following the ceremony. Her son and his bride will occupy Mrs. Mansure's apartment. Mr. Mansure is a graduate of Harvard and of the Kent College of Law. His bride attended the Kansas City Art institute.

Mosser Reception Starts at 4 o'Clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosser and their daughter will receive from 4 until 7 o'clock today. Miss Payne and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Payne, will be at home in Hubbard Woods after 5 tomorrow afternoon and Miss Manning and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius B. Manning, will receive at the same time in the Fortnightly club.

The tea is not the only party Mr. and Mrs. Payne are giving for their daughter tomorrow. They have invited 100 of the debutante set for a dance in the evening, also at home. Among Miss Payne's assistants will be her two house guests, Miss Helen Harrison of Rye, N. Y., who arrives today to spend the holidays; and Miss Kathleen Carey of Cedar Rapids, Ia., who comes tomorrow morning for a three day visit.

Both were classmates of Miss Payne's at the Madeira school in Washington. Another former classmate, Miss Josephine Sullivan of New York, who is spending the holidays with her uncle and aunt, the Harry Sullivans, in Winnetka, also will assist. Miss Nancy Wilcox may be another assistant. She is coming from Detroit with her parents, the Wendell G. Wilcoxes, and William Wilcox, to

Betty Is All Ready for Santa Claus

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Early this evening just before she goes to bed two year old Betty Wirtz, like all the other children of Christendom, will hang up her stocking in a convenient place for Santa Claus to fill it when he pays his annual visit. Betty is the youngest of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Wirtz of Lake Shore drive.

Gentle Reminder.

An art director who lives on the near north side found the following note from the colored maid waiting for him when he got home the other evening:

It to clost to Xmas to be forgetting things.

Irish Tale.

There is a tradition in the Barony of Erris, County Mayo, Ireland, as in many other localities, that domestic animals are given the power of speech on Christmas eve just at midnight. If a human should happen to overhear their talk, then great good fortune will be his. If, however, he deliberately plans to hear the discourse of the animals, ill luck will surely befall him.

A certain Jack Haggerty was curious to know if there was any truth in this statement, according to Uncle Charlie Gallagher, south side philosopher. So he hid himself in the barn and waited patiently for midnight. On the stroke of twelve one of the horses took a mouthful of straw and said, as to justify himself for so doing, between munches:

"We've a hard week before us."

"We have that," replied the horse in the next stall.

"The road to Kilmuire [the burial ground of the Haggertys] is a long, hard road."

"Aye, faith, and Jack Haggerty is a big, heavy man."

The eavesdropper went home and took to his bed. He was buried in Kilmuire on New Year's eve.

Shirley Temple for the fourth time is No. 1 box office attraction of America, according to the recent survey of Motion Picture Exhibitors. Yet in a recent survey made among children from 4 to 10 at the morning movies at Esquire theater, with which the Woman's exchange is coöperating, Shirley was thirteenth, Mickey Mouse was first, Donald Duck, second, and Dopey third in favor. Adult actors, including Clark Gable and Loretta Young, came ahead of Shirley with the youngsters.

Good Morning!

Radio audiences, I have discovered, belong to two schools of thought. They're either crazy about Jack Benny or they can't abide him.

To both may I say that never has the genial kidder been Jack-Bennier than he is in "Artists and Models Abroad." So, hotfoot to or from the Chicago as desire prompts.

Mr. Benny's present vehicle transports himself and members of his theatrical troupe to Paris. Here, "broke," they encounter the most surprising and ridiculous adventures.

Not the least of these is Jack's error in mistaking the fourth richest girl in the world for a lady of the streets and her moneyed dad for a bum.

His efforts to save the poor child from herself and her supposedly unworthy parent—the while daughter and dad twinkingly and unknown to the savior, abet his missionary activities—provide merriment for the observer and lead up to a decidedly happy ending.

The show is lavishly staged. . . . One sequence presents gorgeous girls in ravishing creations from the salons of famous French dressmakers.

Acting is carefree and pleasing. . . . Dialog—not bad.

As for the story—you don't believe a word of it. But then some folks don't believe in Santa Claus either.

S'long.

See you next Christmas.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Merry Christmas

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 23.—From the movie lots of Hollywood, to all of you wherever the day finds you, or whatever the circumstances, a Merry Christmas. . . . Perhaps some of you who read this are down on your luck; perhaps you are stranded in strange cities far from home; perhaps the extent of your Christmas will be a cheap meal in a Bowery flophouse, with Regret sitting at the head of the table and Discouragement sitting at your right; perhaps you will read this propped up on a hospital pillow, but wherever you are and regardless of circumstances, may the day carry with it a message of good cheer and encouragement, and may the lights on the Christmas trees force their warmth right into your hearts.

Tomorrow hate takes a holiday. That is the one day on the calendar that is dedicated to peace on earth. Men can walk abroad without fear in their hearts and guns in their hands. Even the stone walls of Alcatraz cannot hold out the spirit of Christmas. It is a stowaway on the prison ships heading for Devil's Island; it pries locks, it overcomes dimensions of time and space, it is a moratorium on malice, it is public opinion that has gained momentum and power and trajectory since it was generated in a stable at Bethlehem. It comes rolling down the years and it explodes in a shout of "Merry Christmas."

In Hollywood it seems that the entire countryside is a flame of color, because homes and streets and even bushes are sparkling with electric lights. Beverly Hills is a fairyland of electric light, and if you drive out Sunset boulevard to Bel-Air or Westwood, the hillsides are dotted with lighted Christmas trees. Within those homes the movie stars aren't acting; Christmas needs no script, no director, no rehersals. A few hours ago a group of those movie stars traveled 150 miles north to Shafter, to bring some Christmas cheer into the lives of the 5,000 children of the migratory workers. They took with them food, clothing, toys. The children of the migratory workers can be pardoned if from now on they picture Santa Claus as a composite of Melvyn Douglas' mustache, Edward G. Robinson's cigar, Patricia Killarn's smile, Helen Gahagan's clear eyes, because they are the ones who brought Christmas to Shafter. It is a great day.

It is the one day of the year on which those of us who don't believe in Santa Claus look back regretfully to the days when we did. We thought, absurdly, that we were pretty smart when we learned that there was no Santa Claus. On that day we had grown up, we had become sophisticates, not realizing that to reach sophistication we had to cross a toll bridge that asked us to expel faith from our hearts and substitute skepticism. It seemed a good swap at the time, skepticism for faith, but the years teach you that the toll gate keeper drove a sharp bargain, and the world has been paying off ever since.

Today, under the spell of the holiday, memory goes plunging back, racing desperately against time to reach the scenes of childhood before "25" slides from the calendar. Again we are kids, listening through locked doors to the rustle of paper from the parlor and wondering if St. Nicholas already is at work. Again we are straining to hear the tinkle of sleighbells in the sky, to hear a genial voice calling out to a team of reindeer galloping down a beam of moonlight. Year after year I tried to stay awake, but not even fierce curiosity was a match for drowsiness and I never heard the sleighbells or saw the reindeer silhouetted against the moon.

There are 8,760 hours to a year. It is tragic that only twenty-four hours can be spared for Christmas. Perhaps Dec. 24 and Dec. 26, the next door neighbors of Dec. 25 on the calendar, could be persuaded to yield their identity or agree to a merger. As it is, one is only a foyer to Christmas and the other an exit from it, so they have no great prestige to maintain. I think I shall write a letter to my congressman.

Before the 24 hour deadline has been crossed, let me wish you the oldest wish, and quite the nicest—Merry Christmas. Let's propose a toast to all the kids of the world—a toast that carries with it the pledge that those to whom we drink forever will believe in Santa Claus and reindeer and tinkling midnight bells. Let's blend with that a toast to all the derelicts of the world, a toast that carries with it the hope that the New Year will be kinder to them.

Right here in Hollywood a Merry Christmas to all the youngsters who are trying to crash the movies, and a Merrier Christmas to the veterans who have seen the parade go by and yet have courage enough to tag along on the outskirts of a procession which they once led. To all of them and to all of you the telegraph wires speed the season's greetings.

Three North Suburbs Will Hold Carol Sings Tonight

Community Christmas carol singing will be a part of Christmas eve celebrations in three north shore suburbs. Glencoe will sing carols at 4:45 o'clock around lighted Christmas trees at Glencoe road and Tudor court. Winnetka citizens will gather at 5:30 o'clock on the village common, where Herbert Hyde, an organist, will lead the chorals. In Wilmette the singing will be at 7:30 o'clock outside the village hall.

Shirley Temple Leads at Box Office for the 4th Straight Year

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Shirley Temple, the little song-and-dance girl, was elected today as box office queen of the movies for the fourth straight year.

American theater owners, polled by the Motion Picture Herald, declared she drew more fans than any other star.

Clark Gable, ranked No. 2 since 1936, retained his place.

Although the voting was limited to human players, hundreds of exhibitors sent in separate ballots for Walt Disney's cartoon characters.

The leaders:

1—Shirley Temple, 2—Clark Gable, 3—Sonja Henie, 4—Mickey Rooney, 5—Spencer Tracy, 6—Robert Taylor, 7—Myrna Loy, 8—Jane Withers, 9—Alice Faye, and 10—Tyrone Power.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

From the note book:

A Chicago shop is having slight jitters as they await their supply of the new preparations for the "hangover bath" about which New York is pretty excited. This, to be tossed into the tub on mornings-after, is said to help clear the head and give the sufferer strength to go on. The shop hopes to have it for the New Year's demand.

One of the most effective hair ornaments of the week was the strand of small, brilliant Christmas tree balls a vivacious dark haired girl tucked right on the crown of her head, letting her upswept curls tumble over them. If you want to try something giddy you might play with the idea yourself. It's very gay and really very pretty.

Did you see the Christmas card, a colored Helen Hokinson drawing, showing Santa Claus in the beauty shop? He's asking an attentive operator whether he should wear his long hair and beard up or down. This card ran a close second to another that came our way—of a Santa endowed with seductive artificial eyelashes that fluttered like a movie star's when he rolled his eyes as the card was opened and closed.

The Looking Glass hopes you find everything you want under the tree tomorrow morning. Lots of perfumes and powders and pretties—and maybe a few checks with which to buy what Santa forgot. A merry and beautiful Christmas!

ELEANOR NANGLE.

YOU'LL REALLY HEAR THE JINGLE BELLS THAT CHILDREN DREAM OF!

IN A COMMUNITY AS BIG AS THIS it will take Santa Claus a long time to fill all the stockings that are hung, for he'll try not to miss a single one.

And so, very late in the night, he'll be starting back north . . . with a jingle of bells . . . as Donder and Blitzen and the rest of the celebrated reindeer team go prancing away.

Children always hear those bells in their Christmas dreams. But, this year, they will really hear them. So will you . . . and quite clearly . . . if you get up early with the children. Or later, you'll hear them faintly in the distance.

Really and truly you'll hear jingle bells. They'll be on every Bowman steed . . . on all the many routes of Bowman.

Their merry music may recall other Christmases when Santa came down the chimney to fill your stocking. But what we intend them to do is to bring an extra thrill to youngsters all over town. Quite likely they'll do that.

You see, many little children have never heard jingle bells on Christmas morning . . . never really heard them!

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

(Copyright, 1938, By Elizabeth York Miller.)

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from India from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Cissy Longton tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Nora dismisses the housekeeper when she finds her conspiring with Mrs. Almy. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double-crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. He tells Bob he is investigating Mrs. Almy, Bob's suspected mistress. Nora hears him. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Nora dances with Jim and relives the illusion of her old love. Later Bob misses Nora from the room.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

AN ARTIFICIAL FAINT.

Under the table Pearl opened her handbag, felt about in it, and then conveyed something to her mouth under cover of her hand. It was something she hardly needed, in fact, to produce the effect she desired, for she felt almost sick and giddy enough as it was to faint without artificial inducement.

In the little capsule she had swallowed there was something in the nature of heart drops. Perfectly safe, the agent had told her, but she would lose consciousness for perhaps as long as half an hour.

She was obliged to take his word that they were safe, but as that capsule slipped down her throat, Pearl Almy, for all her hardihood, felt like a person deliberately staging a suicide act.

Bob intercepted Beals in the passage.

"Have you seen Mrs. Matherson?" he asked.

The butler, poised on flying feet with a tray in his hands, couldn't exactly remember. He thought he might have seen her a few moments ago leaving the drawing room. No, he hadn't noticed her in the dining room, come to think of it. Should he inquire?

"No, I'll find her," Bob said.

Why on earth was she hiding? At this moment he felt savage towards Nora. She had made a fool of him in front of everybody. He felt he would like to shake her until her teeth rattled. Couldn't she at least play up—the lovesick little idiot!

He looked into her boudoir, and there she was, sitting bolt upright at the pretty painted writing table he had given her.

Nora's attitude suggested that she was listening, expecting some one. Bob supposed she had made a rendezvous with Jim; he did not realize that she had heard and recognized his step as he came along the hall.

As he entered she thrust something into a half opened drawer, closed it, and got to her feet. Her eyes were swollen, her face intensely pale.

"Sorry to disappoint you," Bob said acidly, "but your young man seems to have forgotten his appointment. At this present moment he is stuffing himself at the buffet. Would you like me to remind him?"

Nora looked at him in a blank bewildered way and shook her head without speaking.

"Now will you kindly give me an explanation as to what all this is about?" he demanded. "Do you think it was necessary for you to make such a show of yourself? Can't you carry on your lovemaking with that cad without an audience?"

She put her hands to her ears.

"Stop—I can't bear any more. I—I haven't done anything . . . willfully. I could explain to you—but I won't. You've made it impossible. Please go away. I'll come in a moment—just as soon as I've pulled myself together."

He shrugged his shoulders and turned towards the door. He didn't want to look at her, for her attitude of helpless woe called for consolation. She didn't look guilty; she looked lonely and forlorn.

As he left the room he came face to face with the man who was at the bottom of his trouble—all his troubles, if only Bob had known it. Jim Murdock had his overcoat and scarf on and his hat under his arm.

"O, there you are. I was looking for you and Nora to say good-night."

"Going so soon?" Bob asked coldly. "Good-night, then. I'll tell Nora."

Jim Murdock did not offer his hand, which perhaps was a wise thing, but made a little gesture of salute.

Bob opened the door for him to be sure that he went.

"Night-night," Jim called back as he disappeared into the blanket of snow.

Gatty came running along the hall, the picture of distress.

"O, sir—O, sir!" she cried. "Will you come quick, please?"

"What is it?" Bob asked sharply.

"Mrs. Almy—she's been taken bad—fainted, I think."

He followed the girl back to the dining room where chaos reigned.

Pearl lay on the floor with a cushion under her head.

At first sight of her Bob thought she was dead. Her eyes were half open and had a glazed look, the line of her teeth showed in a fixed sort of grin and her skin was waxy white.

Capt. Grew was on his knees beside her, and everybody else was standing around, looking terrified and completely witless.

Capt. Grew shook his head.

"No, she's not dead. I can feel her pulse, but it's very faint."

Where was Beals?

"He's gone to telephone for the doctor," somebody said.

How did it happen—when?

"Just a minute ago," said the captain. "She said she wasn't feeling very well and I brought her a glass of champagne. She drank it, said she felt a little better—although I didn't think she looked it—when suddenly she put her hand to her heart, gave a cry, and collapsed. I managed to catch her just as she was sliding off the chair."

Cissy Longton was looking around for Nora, and so was Mrs. Callender. Now Robert Matherson was gathering up the unconscious woman in his arms, with Capt. Grew helping him, and here was Beals to say that the doctor would be along as soon as he could, but meanwhile to keep her warm, loosen her clothing, and try smelling salts.

In the midst of it Nora appeared. Aunt Dorothy went to get her wraps, and seeing Capt. Grew buttonholed him.

"You're staying at the Hand and Flower, aren't you, young man?"

"Yes, I am, Mrs. Callender. I'm sorry, but—er——"

"There's no 'but' about it," said Aunt Dorothy. "You can come a bit further and see that I get safely home."

"I'd be delighted," he said. "Do you want to go, now?"

"No, I shall wait until after the doctor comes, unless you are in a hurry."

"I am at your service," said Capt. Grew.

"Very well, young man. Then you'll find me in the lounge hall."

It was peaceful enough there, quite deserted, in fact. Aunt Dorothy settled herself near the big fireplace.

Just opposite was the little door set in the oak paneling, out of which Jim Murdock had appeared so inopportunely on Nora's wedding day.

Mrs. Callender's brows drew together in an effort to recollect, if indeed she had ever known, where that door led to.

Just like Jim Murdock to . . . she gave a violent start and then sat rigid, a chill at the back of her neck setting her hair all a-prickle.

Slowly, O, very slowly, that door was opening at this very moment. There was a ghost at Fairways. Lord Knowlton's crazy sister, Angela, had often seen it, and this was the old part of the house where it might reasonably be expected to show itself.

She had always wanted to see a ghost, but she didn't want to see one now, and she very nearly shrieked when a slender, long fingered hand appeared, gripping the side of the door.

The next minute she snorted indignantly.

For instead of the Fairways ghost it was Jim Murdock again.

Apparently he had a passion for popping out of that door.

And now that he was out he popped so fast that he didn't even see anybody was there. He simply streaked it towards the baize door that led indirectly to what had been Mrs. Cooper's sitting room, and from which there was a door into the side garden. He had completely vanished by the time the little door in the paneling closed behind him.

A New Ballet Tells Charming Story of China

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo last night plucked another novelty from its generous sleeve. The fifth evening of the troupe's eighteen day stand at the Auditorium opened with a first Chicago performance of "L'Epreuve d'Amour."

Choreography and music are by Fokine and Mozart, respectively. Derain did settings and costumes. The trifling and charming little story concerns a Chinese mandarin's attempt to marry his daughter to a rich man and ends with the triumph of true love over cupidity.

In this highly stylized China, folks mince about in the approved eastern manner and display to the best advantage the highly colored silks of their nation. The spirit of mythology has been nicely caught, and monkeys and a butterfly compete with the human characters for the attention of the audience. The choreography does not try too hard to be Chinese, but deals for the most part with universally understood emotional states.

The music is superlatively lovely, and contents itself with being Mozartean rather than Chinese. It dates from the last year of the composer's life [1791] and is said to have been written for a pseudo-Chinese production at Leopold's court in Vienna.

Nathalie Krassovska gave a distinguished and imaginative performance as Chung-Yang, the young girl of the story. Her lover was Michel Panieff, an adept at catching the very essence of legendry and making it thoroughly convincing to an audience.

Flowers Claim a Full Share in Holiday Giving

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Christmas flowers are as exciting as anything else in the holiday loot. Pure white roses or the butter yellow ones are unusual enough to please any one. This year you can also find pale spicy pink cyclamen or the fuchsia tints as well as the white. White and rosy pink azaleas come in the dwarf varieties and the fabulously beautiful large trees in decorative pots. Gardenia plants are also popular, so are the flaming red poinsettias.

Pine trees in pots tied with a half dozen red bows make living room plants unequaled for decoration being especially good finds for a busy hostess. Three or a half dozen small white pots of ivy make another gift that any one would like or that any one could send. The same is true of the philodendron plants, those light green accents for home life. All of these are amateur gardener proof, so they'll last surprisingly long with ordinary care. Copper pots are new and especially attractive for such gifts.

A real gift idea is the fifty-two week service to some special person. The lucky one can then trot to the florist once a week for a year, order a corsage for suit or party gown or flowers for the home. This service can be ordered for a month or any other period, depending upon the whim of the donor.

Single lapel boutonnières can be ordered in the same way . . . the lady wears one made to dramatize her suit or dress of the day. The flowers are mixed to accent the colors of the costume, or to contrast them.

Flowers for those long mysterious gift boxes include the old favorites, deep clove-spiced red carnations, equally deep red roses, all the pale pink beauties, and orange calendulas.

Baby orchids, in pale green or the lovely heart breakers in all white with magenta lips [these are rare] and the amethyst colored honeys are luxury items that go out fast.

See the florist about your last minute shopping. They have presents for the most exacting people.

Protestant Leaders Use Good Will in Christmas Messages

Leaders of three Protestant church groups yesterday made public their Christmas eve messages. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist area of Chicago asked members of his church to conserve the spirit of Christmas good will throughout the entire year.

"Christmas," said Bishop Waldorf, "is based on the fact that God knows and loves and cares for the people of the earth, and that he sympathizes with them in their joys and sorrows."

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese declared that the present world disorder could not kill the Christmas spirit.

"Hundreds of thousands of faithful Christians will keep the feast, with joy triumphant over sorrow, with hope undaunted by tyranny, with faith victor over fears," said Bishop Stewart.

Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago church federation, urged Christians to begin to work for world peace beginning with themselves as individuals.

"You and I if we will, can give a forward thrust to the spirit of understanding and good will this season," Dr. Palmer declared.

Milwaukee Road Club.

The Union Station chapter of the Milwaukee Road Women's club will entertain officers and employés of the railroad at its annual Christmas party from 11:30 until 2 o'clock today in the Union Station clubrooms.

Knitted Sweater Departs from the Usual Neckline

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Our college girls are favoring the wide, high, sailor necked sweaters like the one illustrated for a change from the popular crew neck or "sweat shirt" variety. The pattern is simple and the sleeves are long with a tight cuff of ribbing. Lightweight cashmere is one of the favorites which has been giving angora strenuous competition.

For instructions for knitting the sailor neck sweater, No. X-159, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Happy Holiday Season Opens; Buds Are Busy

spend the Christmas week-end with Mrs. Wilcox's sister, Mrs. Oliver M. Knode, in Hubbard Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Knode, whose son and daughter-in-law, the junior Knodes, have come from Springfield, Mass., for Christmas, are planning a cocktail party for Miss Payne next Thursday afternoon. Miss Payne is giving a dinner for Miss Harrison and Miss Carey preceding the Mask and Wig show next Wednesday at the Civic Opera House.

Louise Herron Will Assist at Mosser Tea.

A number of the other twenty young women who are to assist Miss Payne tomorrow will take turns pouring at the Mossers' this afternoon. Among those assisting Miss Mosser, who is at home from Bryn Mawr, is Miss Louise Herron of Hawaii. Miss Herron, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Charles Douglas Herron, formerly of Chicago, who now are in Honolulu, is a classmate of Miss Mosser at Bryn Mawr, and is staying with Miss Mary Wood and her parents, the Rollin D. Woods. Miss Herron will go to Crawfordsville, Ind., to spend some of the holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. William P. Herron.

Miss Manning, who was graduated from the Westover school last year, is the eldest of the Mannings' three daughters. Although she is taking part in all of the debutante festivities, she is not able to do any dancing because of a broken foot, about the saddest accident that could befall a debutante.

Good sport that she is, Miss Manning, her cast hidden under hooped skirts, will go right ahead and receive at her party. Next year she will be able to dance at her next younger sister Meredith's, debut. Meredith, who is a student at the Madeira school, will be among the assistants tomorrow.

Mrs. Shepard Roberts of Winnetka is giving a dinner in the Pump room of the Ambassador East hotel on Monday night for Miss Manning. Miss Manning will give a dinner there next Friday night for Miss Thompson and her fiancé, Edward C. Nicholson.

Woodwards Will Give Tea-Dance

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward are giving a tea dance in their south side home tomorrow afternoon for their daughters, Miss Emmy Lou Freund and Miss Jean Woodward. The party is an informal one and not a debut.

Another daughter, Miss Nancy Freund, who has been at Sarah Lawrence college for the last three years, leaves on Monday for Stanford university. She is going to California with her grandfather, Lyman A. Walton, who spends his winters in Del Monte.

Tavern club members and their guests will gather around the wassail bowl this afternoon. There will be no Sunday breakfast parties at the club on Christmas or on New Year's day.

Miss Mary and Miss Dorothy Warner and their brother, Rawleigh Warner Jr., are entertaining at an eggnog party this afternoon for four debutantes, Miss Sara Peace, Miss Jane Zimmerman, Miss Elizabeth Crawford, and Miss Georgette Hill.

Friends of the Charles Daniel Freys have been invited to drop in at the Frey home in State parkway tomorrow between 11 and 2 to drink a Christmas toast in Tom and Jerries.

The H. Foster Straws, as usual, will serve eggnog to their friends tomorrow from 12 to 2:30 o'clock at their home in Lake Forest.

The Ayres Boal family will be at home in Winnetka tomorrow afternoon, according to a custom of long standing.

Freeman Hinckleys to Hold At Home

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and their daughter, Miss Eleanor McClurg, will be at home tomorrow afternoon from 4 until 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Bull are giving a sleigh ride or a hay ride party, according to the weather, tomorrow night for their daughter, Sally. Miss Bull is at home in Winnetka from Smith college.

The Chauncey McCormicks are going to have three Christmas celebrations. At noon tomorrow they will have their family, including his nephew, Herbert S. Stone, and his wife and mother, Mrs. Stone Sr., for dinner in the McCormicks' Lake View avenue apartment. Tomorrow night the McCormicks will dine with the Robert R. McCormicks in Wheaton and on Monday the Chauncey McCormicks will give a Christmas party for the farmers and their children on the McCormicks' Naperville farm.

The Frederick Haucks and their baby are arriving from New York today to spend the Christmas holiday with Mrs. Hauck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, in Lake Forest. The Chases' granddaughter, Miss Mary Boyden, is arriving today from Truro, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr. are having a family party tomorrow. Her brother and sister-in-law, the Eugene McVoys, have come from New York for the holidays. Mrs. Gorham's brother-in-law and sister, the junior Walter Kohlers of Kohler, Wis., are coming for Christmas dinner with the family.

Ralph H. Poole Jr. and his bride, the former Kitty Wickes of New York, are in Lake Forest to spend Christmas with Mr. Poole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole.

There will be a large family dinner in the Poole home tomorrow.

As she has for many years past, Mrs. Charles H. Worcester again will spend Christmas at the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children.

Either Trim or Dressy

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME ENSEMBLE.

You can look as trim as a nurse or as dressy as a play heroine in this home ensemble, depending upon the type of fabric you use and the details of trimming you employ. The pattern includes both dress and apron, both of which are styled with an upcurved waistline that is tremendously flattering to waist and hips. The V neckline may have either of two types of collars. One is plain, pointed and rather wide, and the other is scalloped. The sleeves of the frock, which may be either long or short, are puffed. If short, they may have cuffs to match the collar.

The apron may be quite plain or be given a pocket and hemline trimming made from the same material as that of the dress.

This is a costume that won't cost you much money, and which will give you many hours of comfort and chic.

Style No. 2152 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of 35 inch contrasting for scalloped collar, cuffs, and apron.

Home Training Gets Child Off on Right Foot

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"More good, old fashioned spanking," announced a well known psychiatrist, as reported in the papers not long ago, "would decrease the number of delinquent children brought into our juvenile courts."

I don't know the gentlemen, but I can't help feeling there's a great, big gap somewhere in his preparation for his profession. Perhaps he hasn't any children of his own—but whatever the gap is, it certainly has given him a most limited comprehension of the process of character-training in the home, and of the real causes of delinquency.

There are a dozen possible reasons for delinquency, and among them may be, often, lack of the right home environment and day-by-day training and understanding. But to say that lack of spanking accounts for delinquency is outrageously and absurdly untrue. And it's statements like this that confuse certain conscientious and inexperienced mothers.

"In today's paper," writes a correspondent of ours, "I read some advice by a lecturer to the effect that a little child who takes apples in a grocery store should not be reprimanded, or it will destroy the confidence between him and his mother. And on the same page was an account of some boys who had been brought before the Juvenile court for stealing. The two items seem to me to contradict each other. Can you explain?"

I'll try. The young child can be trained in truthfulness, in obedience, and in respect for the property of others without a loss of confidential and friendly relations between him and his mother. All these qualities develop gradually and naturally as the child grows and develops, if he is normal and has a normal home life. One does not lay down for him rules of conduct, but simply explains as each situation arises. And he has always the good example of others at home before him.

On the other hand, the lads who are brought before the juvenile courts have not been, as a rule, fortunate enough to come from surroundings such as we have just been describing. Poverty, lack of home training, living on the streets, undesirable companions, subnormal mentality account, as a rule, for the plight they find themselves in.

Australian Swans Keep Old Habit of December Eggs

The black swans at the Chicago Zoological park gave themselves a Christmas gift—four eggs. The swans are from Australia, and they won't let Director Edward H. Bean forget it. When it's springtime in the southern hemisphere the swans have spring in their hearts. Zoo officials hope the next generation will adjust mating habits to the climate of the northern hemisphere.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: During my recent trip through several countries in Europe I played a good deal of duplicate bridge, winning several tournaments.

"From my observations and experience I found that the best bridge generally is played in Norway and Sweden. There may be a few stronger experts in England and other countries, but generally sounder bidding and better play, particularly dummy play, were found in the northern countries. The players, who include what we may call the 'average' players, were more technically correct in those countries than anywhere else, not barring America.

"Whenever I sat down to play with strangers the first question was this: 'What system do you play?' And what may be gratifying to you, nine out of ten played the Culbertson system.

"The following hand, which I played in a tournament in Oslo, Norway, will, I think, interest you. It was largely instrumental in the victory of my partner and myself.

"South, dealer.
"Match-point scoring.
"North-South vulnerable.

"The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 diamond | Pass | 2 no trump | Pass |
| 5 no trump | Pass | 7 diamonds | Double |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

"I was South. My partner and I had figured that we were about tied for first place, and that there was a big gap between the first, second, and third pairs. Therefore we bid strongly, but I did not expect the jump to seven diamonds. At most tables the bidding ended at six diamonds. Some players even stopped at three no trump. Play at our table went as follows:

"West opened the five of clubs. My blank ace won and I led a low diamond to the queen. The diamond king then was cashed [West discarding a club] and I then led the jack of hearts. East gave me a bad moment when he did not cover, but, of course, I had to let it ride. I then led the club six and ruffed with the five of diamonds. I cashed the heart ace, after which I led the six of diamonds to dummy's ten. [West discarded the spade deuce.] The heart nine then was led to my king. The diamond ace drew East's last trump, and I entered dummy with a spade to the ace. The lead of dummy's established heart now put East out of the running. He had to discard from his holding of three cards: the spade Q-J and the club king. Whichever he chose, of course, he was a goner. Since he actually could see that the discard of the club king would establish the queen and was not sure about the spade situation, he properly let go the spade jack. I then led a spade to my king and cashed the ten for the fulfilling trick.

"Conrad N. Howard, Chicago."

Undoubtedly the hand was well played, although the bidding was definitly on the optimistic side. Not only was a successful heart finesse necessary, but, in addition, the heart suit had to break 3-3 [unless the queen were doubleton], and after that a squeeze had to be developed. In other words, declarer needed a very lucky lay of cards. But at least he knew what to do with a "break" when he got it!

After Wedding Poor Time for Money Facts

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I have been keeping company with a man for the last six years and we think a great deal of each other. But the circumstances have me worried as to what to do.

"He was married a first time. His wife died and left him a daughter who is now grown up. He remarried and had another daughter by the second wife, who divorced him. He now supports his daughter by the first wife, and also pays alimony to the second and pays for his second daughter's support. This makes considerable inroads on an income that, at best, is none too big. There are other complications, including a difference in religion and in nationality. Also, there is considerable age difference, I being the younger. What is your opinion? WORRIED."

We are glad to see you studying this matter of finances before marriage. Too many women today smile indulgently before marriage upon the alimony payments. But the thing assumes ominous proportions after marriage. Time and again we have observed that women who have urged men to get their divorces or be divorced by their wives are most resentful when it comes to fulfilling the bargain they made. They seem to expect their marriage to wipe out indebtedness created by the law and sometimes pursued avidly by the divorced woman.

It isn't sensible to take this after marriage stand.

The day before Christmas is almost more exciting than Christmas day itself. There is so much to be done in the kitchen, so many last little details to attend to in making sure that everything is in order for tomorrow's feast.

Even if the goose or turkey already has been stuffed and cold stored, even if the refrigerator holds a bowlful of dough which will be baked into fluffy hot rolls tomorrow—yes, even if a jellied or frozen salad has been prepared and the dessert stands ready and waiting, there still are plenty of little jobs to do. The house must be spic and span, the centerpiece for the table prepared, to say nothing of dusting off the extra leaves for the table and seeing that linens, nutcups, china, glassware, and silver are ready. But it's all a lot of fun, and most of us wouldn't for the world delegate these little tasks to any one else.

Pineapple curry sauce is excellent with cold slices of leftover turkey. Here's how it is made:

Pineapple Curry Sauce for Cold Turkey.

1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup canned unsweetened pineapple juice
¾ teaspoon curry powder

Cook cornstarch and pineapple juice [mix cornstarch to a paste first with a little of the juice] until thickened. Add curry powder which has been mixed with a teaspoon of cold water. Beat thoroughly and chill quickly. If the sauce is too thick, add a little more pineapple juice. Mayonnaise may be added before serving.

CHURCH SERVICES TO HAIL BIRTH OF THE SON OF MAN

Chicago Begins Two Days of Song and Prayer.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The devout silence of Holy Night will be broken at midnight tonight when the Mass of the Christ-child—or Christ-mass—will be offered before a million altars throughout the world. This marks the beginning of the religious festival of Christ's nativity, which, by decree of hoary tradition, is to last eight days.

Announcements from a thousand Chicago churches outline three general kinds of special services in celebration of the event on which the world's Christian era is based. While the Catholic church formally recognizes midnight as the moment for the first Christ mass this will be celebrated privately in Chicago by dignitaries, with public masses beginning in most Catholic churches at 3 or 4 a. m. and continuing hourly until noon tomorrow.

Midnight Episcopal Services.

Similarly Episcopal eucharists begin in nearly all churches at midnight. Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese will preside at tonight's service in St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston. This will be the first public service at which he has officiated since his illness last June.

The other two popular types of services are the traditional Julatta and early morning services of the three hundred Lutheran churches of the city, and the 11 o'clock services of Lutheran and other Protestant churches when the Christmas sermon and great Christmas chorales are features. Many Protestant churches announce Christmas eve cantatas, carol services, and parties tonight.

Sing Mass First Time.

"The Mass of the Holy Family," composed by the Rev. Dr. Edwin V. Hoover of Holy Name cathedral and dedicated to Cardinal Mundelein, will be sung for the first time at the solemn pontifical mass at noon. Pontifical masses will also be offered at 3 a. m. in St. John's basilica, 18th and Clark streets, Bishop William D. O'Brien celebrant, and in St. Andrew's church, 3646 North Paulina street, with Bishop Bernard J. Sheil presiding.

Announcements from other churches follow:

CATHOLIC.

Holy Name cathedral, 730 N. Wabash-av. The Rt. Rev. Joseph P. Morrison. Low masses 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11 a. m. Tomorrow: Solemn high mass at noon, Cardinal George Mundelein.

St. James, 2942 S. Wabash-av. The Rev. James P. O'Donoghue. Masses 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 9, 10:30 a. m., and noon tomorrow.

Old St. John's, 1800 S. Clark-st. The Most Rev. William D. O'Brien. Pontifical high mass 4 a. m. tomorrow.

Lost and Lucky

Jimmy Ryan with some of the gifts that drug store customers showered upon him while he was lost.

Little Jimmy Ryan, 6 years old, had a grand time yesterday. At the time, however, that he was found by Policeman Herman Rosenthal at Clark and Schiller streets he didn't seem so happy. He was lost. All he could remember was that he had just seen Santa Claus.

Policeman Rosenthal took Jimmy into a corner drug store to wait for a squad car to take him to the Hudson avenue station. Jimmy had to wait twenty minutes—but what a rich twenty minutes. Customers coming into the store found out he was lost, and so they hastened to be kindly fellows. They bought him candy, ice cream, and toys, and gave him change amounting to $1.05.

Jimmy's mother, Mrs. Mary Ryan, 1500 Orleans street, claimed him last night. She said Jimmy had been to a Christmas party given at the Plaza hotel for 200 boys by the Chicago Lake Shore post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Jimmy had strayed away.

Books on Food Have Delicious Literary Flavor

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

With tonight and tomorrow dedicated to gay packages and luscious meals, this seems the moment destined for a consideration of those especially alluring books about food. This year there have been some unusually interesting ones, some with real literary flavor and others with all the spices of India in their pages. Some of them are just crying to be bought with those Christmas checks you will find in stocking toes.

Books About Food

All the Year Round, by Page Cooper [Stackpole, $2.50]. This is as amusing as a novel, written with a delicate taste in humor, a subtle one in food, and a lusty one in gardens. A day by day book for a suburban housewife with delicious quips about the family and hints as to their comfort, menus now and then for special occasions, and recipes that make your mouth water just to read them, obviously from a very private stock, and garden activities brightening the pages.

Cheddar Gorge, edited by Sir John Squire [Macmillan, $3]. A series of essays on the great local English cheeses, very swanky, written by some of England's best literary gourmands.

Through the Kitchen Door, by Grace and Beverly Smith and Charles Morrow Wilson [Stackpole, $2.50]. The Smiths took a little more than a year to make an eating tour of the United States [amusing idea, if the digestion holds out]. They ate, in each section of the country, the native output and, when it was good, wheedled the recipe from the cook. With Mr. Wilson's help they have made a unique Cook's tour of America. Interspersed with the log of the journey are regional recipes.

Adventures in Good Eating and Lodging for a Night, by Duncan Hines [Hines, $1.50 each]. And speaking of motoring, Duncan Hines, a Chicagoan who likes good food and likes his travel comfort, is the parent of the most useful guides ever published for motorists, two little volumes which tell you where you can eat and sleep happily as you trundle over the country's magnificent roadways.

Biographies of Chefs

Biographies of two great chefs have been published recently. They do not contain recipes or even discuss food at much length, but their heroes would never have been sung if it hadn't been for food.

Cesar Ritz, by Marie Louise Ritz [Lippincott, $3.50]. This is a success story which began, as all of the most exciting tales of the heights do, in the depths. From a little Swiss hotel Cesar Ritz, at the age of 15, was dismissed in 1865 because, according to its manager, he lacked the special knack to be a success in the hotel business. Thus was the great Ritz started on his career, with a kick. How that career became the most famous in the hotel business is the plot of this interesting life story.

Portrait of a Chef, by Helen Morris [Macmillan, $3]. A fantastic soul is the hero of this biography, which comes from England. His name was Alexis Soyer. He was born in France in 1809. He lived most of his life in England and was the most famous chef of his day in London. He wrote poems and cookery books [one of them sold over a quarter of a million copies] and a ballet and innumerable letters to the Times. He invented, among hundreds of other things, sauces, drinks, patent pots and pans, an appliance for rescuing the drowning, pantomime illusions, naval kitchens, a device for keeping money in the heels of dress boots, and a stove which has been used in the British army for more than eighty years. He was caricatured by Thackeray as Miroblolant in "Pendennis," and, amazingly, this is the first biography ever to have been written of him.

Books of Recipes

The American Woman's Cook Book, edited and revised by Ruth Berolzheimer, director of the Culinary Arts institute [Consolidated Book Publishers, $2.50]. Here are 800 pages of words AND pictures—photographs, some in color, of how your masterpiece should look when it comes to the table and descriptions of how it gets that way. A comprehensive cook book, including some unique features—recipes for cooking in high altitudes, for instance.

Of Cabbages and Kings, by William Rhode [Stackpole, $2]. It is a cook book for people who like to eat well and in an assortment of languages. It tells how to cook in various European traditions, but does so in plain American. Mr. Rhode is a great amateur cook himself and a hoarder of recipes which he has collected from famous chefs dead, via their records, and alive, via their performances.

Cooking at Home in Chinese, by Henry Low [Macmillan, $2.50]. A unique and exotic cook book which will turn the view from a Chicago dining room window into a peep into a Peiping courtyard. Lin Yutang, author of "The Importance of Living," in which he so often extols Chinese food, writes a very short foreword telling us that this is a perfectly practical book, designed for Americans.

Food for Beauty, by Helena Rubinstein [Washburn, $2.50]. Propounds the principle of the Zurich diet which is said to whittle one down with amazing and beneficial results. Food is taken raw, mostly, in this régime, but this book explains why, what combinations to use for best results, and how to dress up the menus.

Short Cuts and Leftovers, by Hannah W. Schloss [Barrows, $1.50]. A simple, practical explanation of how to cut expenses lusciously.

Junior Classics Offered in 10 Volume Collection for Child's Book Shelf

A beautiful, luxurious "shelf of books" for fortunate children is The New Junior Classics [P. F. Collier, 10 vol., $39]. It contains 4,830 pages and 2,000,000 words. There are 606 stories and poems, more than a thousand pictures in color by 127 famous artists, a reading guide to children's literature, a bibliography of the leading books for children, and a source list of stories for teachers and librarians. These volumes carry forward the first edition planned by Dr. Charles W. Eliot of the "Five Foot Shelf" and have been supervised by Dr. William Allan Neilson, president of Smith college. They are edited by Miss Mabel Williams, superintendent of work with schools in the New York Public library, and Miss Marcia Dalphin, librarian of the Rye, N. Y., Public library. Each volume is devoted to one type of story: fairy tales and fables [for the youngest], stories of wonder and magic, poetry, etc., up to sport and adventure for older boys and girls. They form a graded reading list.

Literary Gems Found in This Odd Lot Group

BY LLOYD WENDT.

It is cheering to find that an odd lot selection of books over a brief period will yield several that a book lover might very well treasure. Five volumes, taken from a comparatively small reading list, offer: a fine dissertation on modern Europe, three novels, and a commentary on America that is both beautiful in literary execution and deep in understanding of American life.

Conscript Europe, by Randolph Leigh [Putnam, $3]. From an economic and sociologic analysis of modern Europe, Randolph Leigh early in 1938 forecast the probable developments. So far, he has been amazingly right. The book is authoritative, timely, and intensely interesting.

The Mandrake Root, by Martha Ostenso [Dodd Mead, $2.50]. Against the northwestern scene she portrays so ably, the author of "Wild Geese" sets a dramatic plot on the "Strange Interlude" pattern. As usual Miss Ostenso develops her characters and captures the spirit of the rural area with telling effect.

To the Market Place, by Berry Fleming [Harcourt, Brace, $2.75]. Mr. Fleming tells of the modern pioneer, the uprooted sons and daughters of rural folk who find their way back to the city, mostly to lose their identity and sense of values. Full of fine, nostalgic yerning and facile writing.

Wind over Wisconsin, by August Derleth [Scribners, $2.50]. This saga of early Wisconsin has much of the flavor of the "Leatherstocking Tales," and is, at the same time, swift, moving, and dramatic. Derleth's feeling for the raw, vigorous days of the wilderness commends the work.

Green Worlds, by Maurice Hindus [Doubleday Doran, $3]. A native American can obtain a new appreciation of his country from this book, which contrasts the changing old and new worlds beautifully and is tenderly written.

If It's Humor You Like, Try This Collection

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

What we need after worrying about the Japanese in China, the Germans in Czechoslovakia, and the Martians in New Jersey, is a bit of humor. This may be obtained in a group of books now on the counters.

"Dithers and Jitters," by Cornelia Otis Skinner. [Dodd-Mead, $2.]

Since the appearance of "Excuse It Please," Cornelia Otis Skinner, America's No. 1 monologist, has emerged as America's No. 1 feminine humorist. Her specialty is uncomfortable situations, some of them embarrassing, others merely boring. Only he who has never suffered an inappropriate itch while sitting on a stage before a large audience, or endured the silent agony of waiting in a nose and throat specialist's office, or tried to be nonchalant in a safety deposit vault, will finish "Dithers and Jitters" with a straight face.

"A Pearl in Every Oyster," by Frank Sullivan. [Little, Brown, $2.]

Mr. Sullivan is the fellow who writes interviews with a cliche expert for the New Yorker magazine. This collection of thirty-five pearls includes the best of his cliche exposés and many another hilarious disquisition. His "Week-end with Lady Astor," in which he helps the Cliveden set influence British history, is one of the best.

"Daily Except Sundays," by Ed Streeter. [Simon & Schuster, $1.25.]

In the years since Ed Streeter wrote "Dere Mable" he has commuted 216,000 miles. He feels he is an expert on the finer points of how to avoid bores, how to get a seat alone, and what to do about small boys on trains and single ladies wanting windows opened. Any fun that Mr. Streeter may miss Gluyas Williams points up in his illustrations.

"Roaring Guns," by David Statler. [Simon & Schuster, $1.]

When the publishers got the manuscript for "Roaring Guns" they recognized it as a saga almost medieval in ferocity. Without giving away any of the plot, we can assure you that the hero, Tom, is a bold fellow, and the villain, Bill, is shot full of holes with gratifying frequency. The author, David Statler, was 8 years old when the book was written. He has published no previous works.

"Gone for the Day," by John Coleman. [Putnam, $1.50.]

Mr. Coleman is a conscientious objector in the struggle for existence. He decided one day that there really wasn't much he could do about the business cycle, and retired. Now he tells what he did with himself at home all day, and how his family is standing up under the strain. A most agreeable book, with more than a touch of sardonic humor.

"We Married an Englishman," by Ruth and Helen Hoffman. [Carrick & Evans, $2.75.]

When Ruth, one of the well known painting Hoffman twins, decided to go to Iraq to marry an Englishman, Helen went along. For two years the twins struggled with the intricacies of housekeeping in a desert. Then they wrote a gay and comically illustrated account of their experiences, not so bigamous as the title.

"Mr. Dooley at His Best," by Finley Peter Dunne. [Scribner's, $2.50.]

Admirers of Mr. Dunne's work will want to have this fine collection, and the younger generation should be required to read it. Mr. Dooley was the court jester of his day, and almost forty years later many of his jests still go straight to their mark. The New Deal has needed the advice of Mr. Dooley.

"The Captain Needs a Mate," by Eric Hatch. [Lothrop, Lee & Shepard, $2.]

This little novel concerns the antics of an oddly assorted cast of characters who find themselves flat broke on a luxury yacht in mid-Atlantic. Recommended for people who are tired of books with a social theme.

SILVER SKATES RACES OPEN TO ALL AMATEURS

Jan. 7 Is Deadline for Entries.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Silver Skates Derbies, which will be held Jan. 14 and 15 in Garfield park, are open to all amateur skaters. These contests, sponsored since 1917 by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, are held to encourage speed skating. To gain this end there are no entry fees and the list of awards, all purchased by THE TRIBUNE, exceeds those offered by any other competition.

Many Silver Skates winners went on to take national championships. Thousands never received any prize except the souvenir bronze buttons awarded each contestant who reports for his first race. But these buttons are evidence of ability and with the introduction of the system of qualifying medals the inexperienced skaters have more opportunity to win a major prize.

Award 265 Medals.

Two hundred and sixty-five gold medals were awarded last year in the twenty-first Silver Skates races. Each went to a boy or girl who had won his first race.

These medals, of course, are in addition to nearly 4,500 buttons and the five prizes given in each of the eight derby championships.

If you wish to enter this year's races you must:

1. File your individual entry on the blank printed daily in this newspaper before midnight Jan. 7, or have your coach or instructor send in your name and age.

2. If you are 16 years of age when you report for your preliminary you must join the Illinois Skating association. Most experienced skaters probably will have become members before Jan. 15, for membership is required for competition in any skating event in this territory.

Hold Preliminaries Jan. 14.

The Illinois Skating association always has cooperated in encouraging younger skaters. No skater under 16 years of age is required to have a membership card for the Silver Skates derbies. The association sanctions all meets in this territory and is affiliated with the national organization.

Three of the five age classifications for boys are under the 16 year old limit. They are the Boys' midget class, under 12 years of age; Boys' juvenile, 12 and 13 years of age, and boys' junior, 14 and 15 years of age. The Girls' junior class, under 16 years of age, also may be added to this list.

Four Preliminaries Jan. 14.

The preliminaries in these four derbies will be held on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 14. Preliminaries in the other four derbies and all championships will be held Jan. 15. The popularity of these races is best shown by the 2,878 registrations in these four derbies in comparison with the total registration of 4,426.

Four hundred and fifteen girls competed in the junior derby. The largest class of boys was the junior race for those 14 and 15 years old and the registration was 982. There were 197 races on the first day of the meet last year in these four derbies. However, since all are contested at the shorter qualifying distances, they were completed in three hours, the same length of time required the following day for the 68 qualifying races in the other age classes and the eight championships.

MYATT, GIANTS' OLD BASEMAN, HAS APPENDECTOMY

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The New York Giants' office announced late today that word had been received from Oakland, Cal., that George Myatt, third baseman late in the 1938 campaign, had undergone an emergency appendicitis operation. The report said that the infielder, who batted .308 for the partial season, was in no immediate danger and was expected to be sufficiently recovered to see action before the giants open spring training late in February at Baton Rouge, La.

Any football coach you could name—a quarter back like Walter Eckersall or Frank Carideo.

The Wake—a continuation of the loyal support it has received from its indispensable contributors. . . . That underprivileged kid down the street—that toy, sweater or cap you could have bought him with the small change you spent for cigars this morning.

Good Fellows.

It was a week before Christmas when my son came to me; a command appearance to deliver Christmas baskets . . . it wasn't a plea. My boy made all the arrangements—meet him at school . . . his committee would be ready . . . also the baskets. . . . We started, two boys and two girls [age about 10] . . . of good homes and plenty. . . . Hunger, cold, and privation to these kids were unknown. Lack of food, proper home life to them was just seen in movietone. So I watched their reactions. . . I made it a note to watch their happy faces as our goodwill baskets we gave. . . . To a family so poor that our hearts went out at a bound. To kiddies so cold and so shabby . . . so thin . . . and so poor . . . that my committee of four . . . looked aghast . . . their eyes fixed on the floor. Here was life and reality . . . that they never thought existed . . . not even in verse. We were good fellows for one day. . . . We made those other kids gay. So why not now . . . let's all unite . . . fall in line. . . . Be a Good Fellow . . . now's the time! Yes, and remember, "Peace on earth—good will toward men." Thank God . . . we were born American.

The Wake Depends Upon Its Friends

Joseph and Mary.

When they went down to Bethlehem,
The little stars shone bright,
As if to cheer and welcome them
Upon that lonely night.

And Joseph looked in Mary's eyes,
And Mary softly smiled,
Feeling again with new surprise
The heartbeat of her Child.

When they went down to Bethlehem,
They found no place to stay;
The hostel would not shelter them
But sent them on their way.

Where snowy currents whirled
The holy mother, Mary, gave
Her Infant to the world.

O, make your heart a crib today,
And warm it with your prayer,
That Mary trustingly may lay
Her Holy Infant there. —T. E. B.

* *

Remember.

Christmas isn't just giving gifts
Or getting them in return,
It isn't the holly or mistletoe
Or the lights that softly burn
Upon the yuletide pine tree—
These things are but a part,
Your Christmas entirely depends upon
"What have you in your heart?"

The lasting joys of the Christmastide
Are not the baubles rare
All wrapped up in tissue
And tied with ribbons fair;
These things are but a symbol,
Their meaning is quite apart,
Your Christmas happiness depends
On "What you have in your heart."

If you have kindly tenderness
And pity for those in woe,
The spirit to help and lend a hand
As on your way you go,
Forgiveness, justice, sympathy—
If these of your soul are a part,
Then your Christmas indeed is a happy one
For—you have LOVE in your heart.

CUBS' ACCURATE FIELDING GIVES THEM A TITLE

Herman and Collins Lead at Their Positions.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[RECORDS ON NEXT PAGE.]

The Cubs, as put together during the 1938 race, from which they extracted the National league pennant, were pretty fair country boys as fielders. The circuit's official averages covering this particular feature of the so-called national pastime were released yesterday and at the top of the defensive heap was the team which was managed by Charley Grimm until July 20 and thereafter by Gabby Hartnett.

The Chicagoans finished with a fielding percentage of .978, four points higher than the Pirates, who landed in second place both as fielders and pennant seekers. The total chances handled by the Pirates, however, exceeded those of the Cubs, but the Cubs were more particular about flawless work. The Boston Bees also handled the ball oftener than the Cubs but in percentage finished fifth because of a staggering total of errors.

Herman Has Good Average.

Two of the Cubs conducted themselves especially well defensively. Billy Herman was a disappointment as a hitter but he showed no appreciable decline in his ability to guard the second base sector. He was tops at his position. Rip Collins, whose fielding talent has been scoffed at since he deserted the St. Louis Gas House gang for the Cubs, set the pace for all first basemen except those involved in too few games to draw a rating.

Herman was in 151 of the games played by the Cubs, handled 939 chances, and was involved in an imposing total of 111 double plays. Capt. Billy was charged with only eighteen errors. Floyd Young of the Pirates excelled Herman's total chances as well as double plays, but his percentage was cut down by the commission of twenty-six errors.

Collins was only a fraction of a point above Frank McCormick, the Cincinnati freshman, who was in more games, handled more chances, was in more double plays, and perpetrated one more error than the Cubs' front door guardian.

Hartnett Does His Part.

Hartnett, by his catching, contributed his bit toward the team's final No. 1 rating. Gabby wasn't involved in 100 games, the minimum for consideration as a regular, so he had to concede top place among the backstops to Al Todd, the Pirate, who since has been turned into a Bee. Hartnett went through 83 games on two errors and handled 400 chances. Todd was guilty of ten errors, but took care of 673 chances in 132 games.

Stanley Hack, the Cubs' third sacker who experienced the best of his major league seasons, played in more games than any other guardian of the same corner of the diamond. He was the only third baseman to handle more than 500 chances and was tied in double plays with a couple of other fellows, but in percentage he was shaded by both Joe Stripp of St. Louis and Boston and now of Brooklyn and Mel Ott of the Giants. Hack's rating was hurt by 23 errors.

It's a Record, Too.

The Cubs' feat of leading as team fielders was their third of this kind in three consecutive years. Their average in four figures was .9779 and the extra figure created a new league record, the old being .9778 by Boston in 1933. The Cubs also hung up a new mark for errors, 135, thus bettering their own record of 137 in 1934. The Phillies, as might be suspected, committed 201 errors and in this particular line of baseball endeavor were the best in the league.

The entire Pirate infield was involved in record breaking performances of one kind or another. First Baseman Gus Suhr was in 150 double plays. Arky Vaughan and Young tied marks shared by several other shortstops and second basemen when they perpetrated five double plays in a game with the Cubs Aug. 14. Bill Brubaker, the Pirate third baseman, earned mention in the record book with four errors in one game against Cincinnati April 30.

Sonja Henie Skating Troupe Holds Dress Rehersal Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Sonja Henie and the 102 members of her supporting cast in the Hollywood Ice Revue, which opens tomorrow night in Chicago Stadium, could reherse all night tonight without becoming weary. They love skating that much. But the little Norwegian star and her associates aren't going to reherse all night tonight. They aren't going to reherse at all tonight. Sonja is going to toss a big Christmas party for the entire cast tonight in the Medinah Athletic club.

Sonja Henie.

The opening will be preceded by a big dress rehersal, however. The spectacle has played engagements in Hollywood, Houston, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, and Boston without a hitch. You might think there would be no need of a pre-opening drill. Nevertheless this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock, the artists, dressed in their fancy costumes, will go through the production from beginning to end. Mostly for the benefit of the musicians' and electricians' unions, perhaps.

Skate on White Ice.

And speaking of these two noble unions, it might be said right here they are doing all right for themselves in Miss Henie's show. The band boys will sit around the peak of a Swiss Alp which will rise high above the ice surface at the east end of the Stadium. Looks just like a snowcapped mountain, but don't worry about the musicians, for the Alp is only make-believe and not chilly like the milk-white ice below. As for the electricians they will be working with improved lighting facilities which set back the Stadium $50,000.

The scenic experts haven't forgotten the show will open on Christmas night and run through New Year's eve. Christmas trees are growing all over the place. The whole thing is very wintry, indeed. There are no lily ponds or similar summery scenes like they had at the ice show here several weeks ago.

Schedule Tango Number.

There are several reasons for the fact that Sonja and her associates have milk-white ice over which to glide. Principal among these is the fact that there are several "radium" numbers on the program. The coloring changes thus produced work best over milk-white ice.

Those who have seen the show this season say it is infinitly better than last year's production, not knocking last year's effort unduly. It is longer, has more variety, and still has as much of petite Sonja's artistry as heretofore.

Miss Henie has five solo numbers. In addition she does a tango number with Stewart Reburn, Canadian figure skating champion. It is said she never before found a male skater with whom she cared to skate.

Troupe Includes a Bride.

Among those who will share in the merriment at Sonja's party at the Medinah tonight will be a bridal couple. Mabel Jackson of Kansas City, a member of the cast, and Wallace Clifton Nicholl, a San Francisco business man, will be married at noon today. Before the Ice Revue opened in Hollywood Nov. 1, Miss Jackson was a skating instructress and Mr. Nicholl was one of her pupils. The rest of the story is of ice and romance. Mr. Nicholl will stay here for the performance tomorrow night, then will proceed to New York on business. His bride will remain with the cast.

Seabiscuit Is Going Lame, Report Says

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Columbia State said tonight that Seabiscuit, quartered here, had "gone the way of all handicap horses—the lame way."

"He's through," the newspaper said. "His age and the youth of his two closest competitors, Stagehand and the admiral [War Admiral], have combined with the fates to bring about frustration of his owner's ambition, namely, to make the 'Biscuit the champion money winner of all time.

"He's probably got enough left in him to win a prep race or two, but when it comes to the big time contests, where he has youth, weight, age, and lameness to contend with, he won't make the grade."

Meanwhile Seabiscuit, in winter training quarters here, had his legs swathed in bandages. The fore legs were bound almost to his shoulders.

Trainer Tom Smith would not talk. When asked why his charge's legs were so completely wrapped he replied facetiously that "they're broken, all four of 'em."

June 20 Is Set for Betting Referendum in New Jersey

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The Farley bill, setting June 20 for a referendum on the proposal to legalize pari-mutuel horse race betting and appropriating $400,000 for the expense of the vote, was signed today by Gov. A. Harry Moore. The proposed constitutional amendment permits only the pari-mutuel system at authorized tracks to be operated only on week days.

Armstrong, Arizmendi to Meet for Welter Title

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec., 23.—(AP)—Formal announcement was made today that Henry Armstrong will defend his welterweight championship in a ten round bout here Jan. 10 with Baby Arizmendi, Los Angeles. Arizmendi, a natural lightweight, will come into the ring over the 135 pound mark. Armstrong's lightweight crown will not be at stake.

Babe Didrikson and Wrestler Zaharias Wed

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Mildred [Babe] Didrikson, the versatile Beaumont, Tex., girl who won fame in the 1932 Olympics, and George Zaharias, the wrestler, were married late today.

Their marriage was a culmination of a romance which began on a golf cruise, when they were paired together in the Los Angeles open a year ago. Both shoot in the low 70s.

After a match for the 29 year old bridegroom here next week, the couple will go to Beaumont for a short stay, and then to Australia for a seven month honeymoon. Mildred, who is 24 years old, gained fame on the track, but she since has starred as a football player, a baseball pitcher, basketball trouper, a boxer, and now as a golf pro. Zaharias, whose real name is Theodore Vetoyanis, is from Pueblo, Colo. He has been wrestling professionally for eight years.

BAER FACES NOVA IN NEW YORK IN MAY, JACOBS SAYS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said today agreements had been reached for a match in New York in May between former heavyweight champion Max Baer and Lou Nova, Californian, considered by some a possible challenger to Joe Louis.

"I've got an exclusive contract for Baer and I'll have Nova's Sunday," said Jacobs.

The outdoor battle will take place "on or about" May 25, Jacobs stating he would make details known after both contracts are signed.

Sacramento Club Buys Ankenman from Columbus

Columbus, O., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Fred Norman Ankenman, infielder on the Columbus club of the American Baseball association, today was sold to the Sacramento Pacific Coast league team. In addition to notifying Ankenman of his sale to Sacramento, President Don Beach of the Redbirds also sent him birthday greetings. Ankenman, whose home is in Houston, Tex., was 25 years old today.

TROJANS RESUME STUDY OF WAYS TO SOIL DUKE RECORD

Full Backs To Be Given a Chance To Pass.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Southern California's football team went back to the practice field today to resume the study of ways to soil the unblemished record of Duke university. The Dukes are due to reach Pasadena, home of the Rose Bowl, tomorrow morning.

Dummy scrimmage, kicking, and defense drills gave Southern California's Trojans quite an afternoon.

Special attention was paid to the passing efforts of Full Backs Bill Sangster, Jack Banta, and Oklahoma Bob Peoples. The full backs, who have done little passing so far, will be given an opportunity to throw the ball against Duke.

The Trojans' kicking department was given more work. Quarter Back Grenville Lansdell, recovered from a slightly injured foot which handicapped his punting efforts last week, has shown improvement but he still lacks yardage.

DUKE SEES GRAND CANYON.

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Duke university's Rose Bowl-bound Blue Devils and a special trainload of rooters stopped today at Grand Canyon. Rooters began snow battles the minute they piled from the special train, and Wallace Wade had all he could do to keep his players from joining in the fun.

The special train left at 7 p. m. for Los Angeles, where Duke will spend a week practicing for the Jan. 2 football game with University of Southern California.

EAST, WEST START WORK.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Eastern and western football stars, who will meet in the annual charity game here Jan. 2, settled down to work today after a series of receptions, luncheons, and sightseeing trips.

The western squad took up headquarters in Palo Alto, and the eastern players moved to Berkeley to begin practice on the University of California campus. The east team's workout was delayed until late in the day because of one more luncheon—as guests of the Big Ten club. Coach Andy Kerr described it as "our last appearance on the turkey and dress-circuit. We will practice plenty from here in."

Kerr, Bierman Each Take Team.

A few plays were outlined and the thirty-two players divided into two teams. Kerr took over one eleven which had a back field composed of Cliff Wilson, Harvard, quarter back; John Pingel, Michigan State, left half; Wilbur Moore, Minnesota, right half, and Howard Weiss, Wisconsin, full back.

Co-coach Bernie Bierman instructed a back field which listed George Faust, Minnesota, quarter back; Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh, left half; Bob MacLeod, Dartmouth, right half, and Bill Osmanski, Holy Cross, full back. Harold Stebbins of Pittsburgh alternoted with MacLeod.

ILLINOIS QUINTET DISBANDS FOR A BRIEF VACATION

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—After a final workout today, twelve University of Illinois basketball players dispersed for a brief visit home before reassembling in Chicago Sunday afternoon. They then will leave for New York, where they play Manhattan college Tuesday night.

Coach Doug Mills has selected Capt. Tom Nisbet, Bill Hapac, John Drish, Pick Dehner, Jay Wardley, Joe Frank, Colin Handlon, Bob Richmond, Howard Cronk, Bob O'Neill, Edward Evers and Harold Shapiro for the trip.

Trailing 20 to 16 with ten minutes to play the Marquette university basketball team rallied to defeat Carleton college, 35 to 28, in Elgin last night.

The game, which brought Marquette's fourth victory in five starts, was a feature of the dedication of Elgin High school's new gymnasium. Marquette's forwards, Bob Deneen of Harvard, Ill., and Glenn Adams of Carpentersville, Ill., both near Elgin, led the Hilltoppers' closing attack.

The teams fought to an 8 to 8 tie in a slow first half, with both sides frequently missing long and short shots. Carleton scored four baskets to Marquette's three in this opening period, but free throws by Adams and Deneen tied the score.

INDIANA BEATS BUTLER

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The Indiana university basketball team continued its successful pre-conference campaign tonight by defeating Butler, 46 to 29, before 10,000 spectators. It was the Hoosiers' fifth consecutive triumph and the first loss for Butler in four games. Butler previously had scored victories over two Big Ten teams—Iowa and Wisconsin.

Indiana shot its way to a 17 to 7 lead in the first half and made its attack sufficiently deceptive to lead, 40 to 20, with seven minutes left to play in the second half. Butler, using reserves, more than held its own during the remainder of the game. Indiana had eighty-eight shots, fifteen of which connected for baskets. Butler scored its twelve baskets on eighty-one shots. The Butler reserves won, 54 to 51, over the Indiana B team.

EARL GIBBS BEATS GENE SPENCER IN WHITE CITY BOUT

Earl Gibbs, south side junior lightweight, defeated Gene Spencer, former sectional Golden Gloves flyweight winner, in a hard eight round contest in White City last night. Spencer weighed 130½ pounds; Gibbs, 131½. The attendance was 941 and gross receipts were $989.

BARBARA OPENS RING DRILL FOR BROWN MATCH

Meet in Return Bout in Coliseum Thursday.

Johnny Barbara, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight finalist, will start boxing drills this afternoon in Trafton's gymnasium for his return bout of eight rounds with Harold Brown, lightweight member of the 1934 Golden Gloves intercity team, in the Coliseum next Thursday.

The meeting is one of five matches on the card, which includes ten rounders between Leo Rodak and Leone Efrati, Al Roth and Billy Marquart, and Frankie Covelli and Al Mancini.

In his previous battle with Brown, held in Marigold Gardens, Nov. 29, 1937, Johnny lost a split decision after a hard ten round fight.

After doing loosening up exercises yesterday, Barbara expressed confidence in his ability to even the score.

In the quarterly ratings recently released by the National Boxing association, Barbara was listed among the ten best 147 pounders.

Barbara today will spar with George Mitchell, Detroit middleweight star. He also will work out tomorrow and Monday.

The scoring system for the trophy to be awarded to the team compiling the greatest number of points in the seventh Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing tournament in the club gymnasium Jan. 17, 18, and 25, was announced yesterday. Each winner will earn five points for his club. Each runnerup will be credited with three. The sixteen losing semi-finalists will earn one point each. The meet is open to any athlete registered with the Central Association of the A. A. U. Entry blanks may be obtained at the I. A. C., 112 South Michigan avenue. The Savoy Athletic club is the first team entry received by Athletic Director Johnny Behr.

Eddie Lander, Franklin Park featherweight, boxed three rounds yesterday with Leo Rodak in preparation for a five round event against Frankie Kainrath, 1938 Chicago Golden Gloves bantamweight titleholder, in Marigold Gardens Monday. After the drill Lander said he expects to hand Kainrath his first professional defeat. Frankie has scored eight victories since turning profesional Aug. 8. Eddie, who was eliminated by Kainrath by a narrow margin in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium last February, has engaged in nine pro fights. He won seven decisions and lost two. The match is a preliminary to two eight rounders between Tony Cianciola and Verne Patterson, and Chico Romo and Tito Taylor. Four rounders involve Alex Pug and Pat Murphy, and Tony Motisi and Owen Woods.

Three wrestling bouts will support the double windup featuring Bert Rubi and Fritz Von Schacht, and Jack Hagen and Misteree Mann in White City Monday. Pierre La Bell clashes with Joe Dvorak, Tommy Mix with Babe Kasuboski, and Ken Fenlon with Roy Rickenbacher. . . . Joey Silva, Los Angeles featherweight, who whipped Norment Quarles in Philadelphia Nov. 28, went three rounds with Leone Efrati yesterday for his eight round debut in Chicago against Varias Milling in Park Casino Wednesday. . . . The eight round fight between Jackie Cellura, Detroit junior lightweight, and Joe Law scheduled for White City next Friday has been postponed until Jan. 6. . . . Jimmy O'Grady, manager of Frankie Covelli, is in Garfield park hospital receiving treatment for blood poisoning.

QUASIMODO WINS BY 4 LENGTHS AT TROPICAL PARK

Miami, Fla., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Quasimodo, who had not started since winning his last race at Empire City last summer, today returned to take the Matecumba purse, feature of the Tropical Park program this afternoon.

Thus the veteran sprinter collaborated with the combination of Jocky Eddie Arcaro and Owner B. F. Whitaker which has come to be regarded as one of the most popular teams at the meeting. Proof of this was shown in the betting, wherein $6,014 of the total of $14,812 wagered on the Matecumba was bet on Quasimodo.

The seven year old gelding went to the post a favorite, rewarding his backers with $4.30 for $2, and won in a manner befitting that price. Arcaro, leading all riders at Tropical Park, sent his mount far out in front in the first quarter of a mile and coasted in from there to be home in front of Black River by four lengths. A. G. Tarn's Faust came up for the show money.

Strickland-Knox Bout Completes Jan. 13 Card

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Maurice Strickland of New Zealand today signed to meet Buddy Knox of Dayton, O., in a ten round fight that completes an all-heavyweight card to be held in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 13. In two other ten round bouts Tommy Farr will face Clarence [Red] Burman and Roscoe Toles will fight Gus Dorazio.

Tumavick Quintet Wins 4th League Game in Row

The Tumavicks scored their fourth consecutive victory in the New Century Basketball league last night in the Marigold Gardens. They defeated the Playskool Toys, 48 to 44. The Atlantic Commissions beat North Town Currency, 32 to 29. The Ahepa All-Stars won over the Wood Davis Paints, 42 to 30.

Coaches Will Honor Head of University

The only man ever to rise to the presidency of the school at which he coached will be honored when the American Football Coaches association holds its annual convention in the Sherman hotel Wednesday through Saturday. He is Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, who from 1912 to 1918 was head football coach and athletic director.

In 1905 Dr. Byrd entered Maryland Agricultural college and was graduated in 1908, completing a four year course in engineering in three years. Four years later he returned to the college as an instructor in English and coach, and soon afterwards was made director of athletics.

In 1918 he was made assistant to the president of what was then called Maryland State college. In 1932 he became vice president and in 1935 was appointed president. He was elevated to the presidency on Feb. 21, 1936.

There were only about 120 students in the institution when he joined the faculty in 1912, and due largely to his influence, a hospital costing more than $1,500,000 and other buildings have been added to the campus.

7,000 JEWS SET FREE FROM NAZI PRISON CAMPS

Many Hurt or Suffering from Frostbite.

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Thousands of Jews—many of them suffering from severe frostbite or bandaged for other injuries—have returned home from concentration camps within the last two weeks.

Exactly how many Jews have been released since the raids which followed the synagogue burnings last Nov. 10 was not disclosed. Jewish sources, however, set the figure for all Germany at about 7,000.

Preference for release was given to world war veterans, especially those holding military decorations.

Heads Are Shaven.

All those who left the camps before the beginning of a cold wave on Dec. 18 had their heads shaven. Plaster or bandages on many indicated that they had met with "accidents" in camp. They seemed to recuperate quickly, however.

But the story was different with men released during and after the freezing weather. There were reports of men who had frozen limbs amputated.

The concentration camps were not prepared for the cold, with the result that there not only were hundreds of cases of frozen arms and legs, but also hundreds of pneumonia patients.

Entry Fees Raised.

Emigration possibilities diminished when it was learned that several countries had raised their entry fees beyond the reach of all but rich Jews. Jews who intended to go to Cuba, for example, were told that the fee there had been raised to $2,500.

Emigration of Jewish children to England has been stopped because the Jewish committee there sent word that it lacked a sufficient number of families which would receive the children.

More than 1,000 Jews who had visas for Shanghai have been held up because Manchukuo—Japan's protectorate—suddenly refused to let them pass. [Presumably they had planned to travel by the Trans-Siberian railway.]

Travel offices here in the last two weeks have received many inquiries from Jews regarding two of the most remote places on the globe which might offer havens—Liberia and Siam.

Hungary Wars on Jews.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Hungary confronted Europe with a new Jewish problem today when the government placed before parliament sweeping measures to restrict Jews' participation in the economic and political life of the nation.

The anti-Semitic program was introduced in an eight minute session devoted to reading of a government statement on the Jewish problem.

Hungary was obliged to protect herself "against possible infiltration of Jews" from neighboring countries with a population of 200,000,000 in which sharp anti-Jewish measures are being taken, the government of Premier Bela Imredi explained.

In the lower house some government members shouted, "This is only the beginning."

Outline of Proposals.

As presented last night to the government party of national unity, the projected legislation would provide that Jews vote separately, thirty days after gentiles, although the purpose of such postponement was not clarified; the government would be empowered to regulate Jewish emigration; Jews would be limited to 6 per cent of the total engaged in journalism, engineering, law, medicine, and state employment, and in businesses up to 12 per cent; employers would report at intervals of six months on progress they were making in complying; no Jew could be elected to the upper house of parliament; the interior ministry would be authorized to invalidate citizenship of Jews naturalized after July 1, 1914, and to invalidate any citizenship acquired fraudulently; no Jews would be permitted in leading positions in theaters and motion pictures.

The reaction of Hungarian Nazis, who had been clamoring for anti-Jewish legislation, was one of dissatisfaction. They accused Premier Imredi of "stealing their program."

BUCKNER, UNDER BOND, PERMITTED TO TRAVEL WEST

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—William P. Buckner, close friend of Loretta Young, motion picture actress, obtained permission from Federal Judge William Bondy today to go to Hollywood for two weeks "on business," although he is under $5,000 bail on mail fraud charges.

William Power Maloney, assistant United States attorney, opposed the request on the ground that he feared Buckner intended to flee and that to allow him to get to Hollywood would give him a 3,000 mile head start.

Judge Bondy said Buckner's appearance in court seemed to show his good faith, and that as far as fleeing was concerned a person could start fleeing from New York as easily as from Hollywood.

Manager of Steel Works Found Drowned in Pond

Elwood, Ind., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Lee B. Landon, 57 years old, general superintendent of the American Works, a division of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, was found drowned today in a millpond on the plant property. After interviewing his widow, Mrs. Irene Landon, Dr. Merle Hoppenrath, Madison county coroner, indicated that Landon may have taken his own life. The coroner quoted Mrs. Landon as saying that her husband was ill and had been despondent since he was transferred here ten days ago from Gary, where he had been assistant general superintendent of the Carnegie-Illinois plant in charge of tin mills. He had been with the steel company since 1901.

ICE ON RADIATORS OUSTS FRANCE'S TOUGHEST POLICE

700 Guardsmen Leave Government Flats.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The war ministry pondered today whether it should abandon five modernistic skyscraper apartment houses near Le Bourget flying field. The buildings have proved to be too hot in the summer, to leak in the fall, and to be so cold in the winter that even sturdy mobile guardsmen—military police—could not live in them.

An investigation was started after 700 shivering guardsmen—reputedly the toughest in France's armed forces—moved out. They declared that icicles a foot long hung from radiator taps, and that water froze solid in wash basins.

Too Hot for Workers.

The fifteen story apartments were built two years ago, and stand opposite the flying field at Le Bourget. They were to supply cheap housing for workers, but most of the workers moved out last summer because the apartments were too hot. The rest left in the fall when rain poured through the roofs.

The guardsmen, with their families, were moved in by the government early this winter. They managed until a cold wave hit Paris last week, and water pipes in the building froze. The guardsmen sent their families out, but held on themselves until yesterday.

Mercury Stands at 21.

Finally they decided something would have to be done when the thermometers inside the apartments registered 21 degrees Fahrenheit. A mobile guard report said the last straw for "the toughest of the tough" was when the water pipes burst not only in the cellars but on the top floors as well.

The result, said the report, was that the hallways looked like skating rinks and the staircases like miniature Niagaras covered with ice. Then the elevators froze, and those who lived on the top floors had to clamber up fourteen flights of ice. Coming down, they said, was easy.

ROBERT HERRICK, AUTHOR, DIES IN SERVICE OF U. S.

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The death of Robert Herrick, 71 years old, author and government secretary of the Virgin islands, was announced today. Ernest Gruening, director of the United States division of territories and island possessions, said Herrick died today in Charlotte Amalie, Virgin islands, after a brief illness.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., and a graduate of Harvard in the 1890 class, Herrick was a prolific writer before entering the government service five years ago. Among his books were "The Web of Life," "A Life For a Life," "The Real World," "The Conscript Mother," and "Homely Lilla."

Herrick made his home at York Village, Me. He formerly taught English and rhetoric at the University of Chicago and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MICHAEL PRESS, VIOLINIST, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 23—[Special.]—Michael Press, 67 years old, a noted violinist, died last night after a heart attack. Press, a native of Russia, who retired last spring after being connected with the Michigan State college music school for 11 years, had been living in East Lansing with his second wife, Marjory Hoyt, 25 years old, a former pupil who is head of the violin department of a conservatory.

Press once faced a bolshevik firing squad in Moscow when Red soldiers broke into a barricaded room where he and eight others had secreted themselves for eight days during the revolution. Last minute intervention of a friend who bribed the revolutionists saved the musician from death.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Ellen Frances Touche.

Mrs. Ellen Frances Touche, 96 years old, died yesterday in her home at 7642 Eastlake terrace after a brief illness. Mrs. Touche was the widow of Dr. Edward Touche, staf surgeon with the 83d and 92d Highlanders in Malta and India. He died in 1883 and Mrs. Touche came to Chicago in 1892. She was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, a daughter of Col. Charles Sibley, who served in the British army during the Persian war and the Indian mutiny. Surviving are six daughters and three sons. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today in the residence.

Mrs. Bernard McDevitt.

Mrs. Bernard McDevitt died yesterday in her home at 148 North Central avenue. She was a widow. The daughter of John Dunlap, a member of the city council in 1857, she had lived all her life in Chicago. She was past president of the auxiliary societies of Rosary college, St. Catherine High school and the Oak Park hospital, and a member of a number of other west side clubs. Four children survive. The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday in St. Catherine of Siena church.

G. L. PAYSON, 99, BOYHOOD CHUM OF GRANT, IS DEAD

Funeral services for George L. Payson, a corporal during the civil war and a friend of Ulysses S. Grant in the years immediately preceding the war, will be held at 3 p. m. today in the chapel at Lake street and 2d avenue, Maywood, with a military burial in Forest Home cemetery. Mr. Payson, who was 99 years old, died Thursday in the Hines hospital.

George L. Payson.

He was born near London, Ont., and moved to Iowa when he was 9 years old. He later moved to Galena, Ill., and knew Grant when the latter worked in his father's lether shop. Mr. Payson used to tell of spirited games of seven-up with the future general and President. He also had a clear recollection of the debates between Lincoln and Douglas. He cast his first presidential vote for Lincoln at Galena.

When the civil war broke out he joined an Illinois regiment and later served for three years with Wisconsin volunteers. He fought in the battles of Prairie Run and Vicksburg. He had lived in Chicago for about fifty years, spending his time with two daughters, Mrs. Emma Watson, 10612 Prospect avenue, and Mrs. Laura Adams, 4501 Lake Park avenue.

HENRY H. KOHN, ILLINOIS G. O. P. LEADER, IS DEAD

Anna, Ill., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Henry H. Kohn, Illinois Republican leader and prominent in public life in this state for nearly fifty years, died at his home here today. He was 77 years old.

Gov. John R. Tanner appointed Kohn a trustee of the State hospital at Anna in 1897. He was reappointed by succeeding governors in 1901 and 1905. Kohn served as state superintendent of purchases and supplies, beginning in 1917, in the administration of Gov. Frank O. Lowden. Gov. Len Small reappointed him four years later, but he resigned in 1923.

Kohn was appointed in 1929 by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, one of his closest friends, as director of the state department of purchases and construction. The following year he was sent to Washington to represent the state in the transfer of the Illinois waterway to the federal government.

He is survived by his widow, a stepdaughter, and two granddaughters.

SANTA CLAUS POSTMASTER'S MOTHER DEAD

Santa Claus, Ind., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Josie Philipps, 75 years old, mother of Postmaster Oscar Philipps of Santa Claus, died of pneumonia last night at her home in Troy, south of here, on the Ohio river.

Her illness and death took the postmaster away from his work in his busiest season. Each Christmas season thousands of persons throughout the United States send letters and parcels here to get the Santa Claus postmark and be sent on to friends and relatives.

Mrs. Philipps was the widow of Simon Philipps, southern Indiana farmer, who died several years ago. Her funeral will be held at Troy Saturday afternoon.

Funeral for Robt. Ridgway, Subway Expert, Held in East

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—More than 1,200 persons attended funeral services today for Robert Ridgway, retired chief engineer of the board of transportation and a member of the Chicago PWA subway commission. Among the mourners was Col. Henry M. Waite, chairman of the subway commission. Mr. Ridgway died Monday night in Fort Wayne, Ind., of coronary thrombosis. He became ill aboard a train on which he was returning to New York from Chicago, where he had taken part in the ceremony of starting work on the new subway.

Peruvian Cancer Specialist Dies of Disease He Fought

New York, Dec. 23. — (AP) — Dr. Americo Garibaldi, 45 years old, noted Peruvian authority on cancer, died yesterday, a victim of the disease he had spent his life combating. He had come to New York to pursue his research work and also to undergo treatment for his own illness, which started 14 years ago. He underwent an operation in Lima and another in Paris four years ago.

Surviving are his widow and four children.

WILLIAM F. GRANGER, ACTOR IN STAGE PLAY, 'LIGHTNIN',' DIES AT 84

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 23.—(AP)—William F. Granger, 84 years old, veteran stage and screen actor who created one of the memorable rôles in the Broadway stage play "Lightnin'," died here today.

Born in Philadelphia, Granger began his stage career at an early age. He met Actor Frank Bacon in Chicago while he was appearing in "Fortune Hunter" nearly 25 years ago and was associated with him in theatrical ventures until Bacon's death in 1922.

SCIENTIST DIES IN AN EXPLOSION AT COLUMBIA U.

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—John E. Wertz, 24 years old, Columbia University scientist, died tonight from burns suffered in an explosion in a university laboratory earlier today. Wertz, an assistant in the chemistry department, was experimenting with gas when several retorts exploded and flames spread through the laboratory. Clyde A. Hutchison, a native of Columbus, O., who was assisting Wertz, ran to help him and incurred lacerations.

Nazis Now Ask Foreign Residents 'Are You Jewish?'

BERLIN, Dec. 23. — (AP) — United States citizens applying for new residence permits today found a new question in the application blank furnished by the police, "Are you a member of the Jewish race?" The United States consulate here has advised American residents to seek new permits in compliance with a decree making all permits hitherto issued invalid March 31, 1939, and requiring all foreign residents to file new applications. The decree was said to be to standardize police regulations throughout the reich.

WIFE OF DOCTOR STRANGLED, JURY TELLS CORONER

Canon City, Colo., Dec. 23.—(AP)—A coroner's jury found tonight that Mrs. Nona Atterbury, 31 years old, Canon City church and club woman whose body was discovered in her home Wednesday, was strangled "by a person or persons unknown."

Dr. R. L. Atterbury, a Canon City osteopath, testified he thought his wife of a year and a half died of a broken neck suffered in a plunge down the cellar steps. Police Chief Hugh D. Harper of Colorado Springs, testified he believed the woman was thrown down the stairs after death. He called the jury's attention to what he said were apparently marks of fingers on the woman's throat, and to badly bruised wrists and shoulders.

Dr. R. E. Holmes Jr., coroner, said an autopsy revealed the woman's neck was not broken.

Dr. Atterbury said he found his wife's body at the foot of the stairs when he returned from a call on a patient.

Million Will Drink Milk Toast to Frances Willard

One million Americans, it was predicted yesterday at national headquarters of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Evanston, will drink a toast on New Year's eve to the centennial of Frances E. Willard's birth. The glasses raised to the W. C. T. U. founder, it was added, will be filled with fruit juices or milk.

MORE COMPANIES GRANT BONUSES, WAGE INCREASES

One to Pay Semi-Monthly Profit Sharing Checks.

Bonuses, pay increases, and restorations of the longer work week were announced yesterday by many more companies.

Citrus Products company announced a bonus to all employés, including those in wholly owned subsidiary corporations, amounting to an avérage of more than one month's salary. Employes will receive an extra 1 per cent of their base bonuses for each year of service.

A. C. King, president of the company, said that in 1939 Citrus Products will pay each employé semi-monthly profit-sharing checks based on each individual's "contribution to profits." In announcing the payment of a special dividend of 25 cents a capital share, King said that net profits had risen 70 per cent in 1938.

Get One Week's Salary

J. L. Hanson company, Chicago, manufacturer of scrap book and photo albums, announced a bonus of one week's salary to all employés. To those who have been with the company for many years, the bonus will amount to two or three week's salary, the company said.

Dovenmuehle, Inc., Chicago mortgage banking house, paid a Christmas bonus equivalent to 50 per cent of a month's salary to all employés who had been with the firm for a year or more. In June of this year the firm paid a similar bonus.

For the thirteenth consecutive year, G. R. Leonard & Co. gave a cash bonus of 10 per cent of annual salary to each employé who had been with the company for five or more years. This applied, the company said, to about 75 per cent of the entire staf. The company publishes freight, express, and parcel post rate books.

Distributes Cash Gifts.

In Columbus, O., it was announced that Harry P. Wolfe and his family were distributing $225,000 in cash Christmas gifts to executives and employés of various Wolfe enterprises. These include a shoe company, a radio station, the Columbus Dispatch, the Ohio State Journal, and a number of banks. The family's Christmas distribution was started in 1900 and has been continued since that date without interruption.

Oliver Iron Mining company, Duluth, announced restoration of the 5½ day base week on Jan. 1 for all salaried employés. The order affects several hundred employés in Duluth and division branches in northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan who were placed on a five day week last Feb. 1.

Restores Cut in Pay.

The time reduction in February resulted in a cut of 9.1 per cent in salaries, and the present action restores this cut to those employés whose work will require the full five and one-half days week.

Cleveland Cliffs Iron company announced that effective Jan. 9 working schedules of the soft ore properties of the company will be increased to four days a week. This increase benefits 2,300 men. The average daily wage is $6.25. Salary reductions of the office forces were restored as of Dec. 16.

Barney Johnson & Co., investment firm, announced that it was giving two weeks' salary as a Christmas bonus to employés.

HOLIDAY TRAVEL HEAVIER THAN RAILS EXPECTED

Trains Are Run in Extra Sections or Add Cars.

Travel this Christmas holiday season is exceeding expectations, railroad officials said yesterday. Most of the principal trains are either carrying extra cars or are running extra sections. Air travel for several days exceeded last year's volume, but poor flying conditions yesterday caused the cancellation of a number of flights.

Fred N. Hicks.

F. N. Hicks, passenger trafic manager of the Milwaukee line, said business is exceeding that of last year in an unusually heavy season. The Hiawatha operated in six sections yesterday and today will run in eight sections. This includes sections between Chicago and the Wisconsin northwoods country, as well as between Chicago and the Twin Cities.

North Western Business Heavy.

Robert Thomson, passenger trafic manager of the North Western, said this year's business is comparable to that of more prosperous years. All space on the streamliners is being taken.

W. J. Leahy, passenger trafic manager of the Rock Island, said holiday travel this year is heavier than in a long time. All the Rocket trains are being operated at capacity and extra steam sections are being run.

The Santa Fe's transcontinental trains are doing more business than in any year since 1930, T. B. Gallaher, passenger trafic manager, said. The road currently is carrying more extra fare passengers than in any winter in its history. The Santa Fe expects at least a 5 per cent gain in Christmas travel over last year.

Add Cars and Sections.

Burlington trains are being operated with extra cars and in other sections. Both the Pennsylvania and the New York Central are running trains with extra cars and in extra sections.

United Air Lines reported a 75 per cent increase in pre-Christmas travel over last year. the line has been running extra sections between Chicago and the Pacific coast, according to R. F. Ahrens, regional trafic manager. Service to the east has been interrupted but is expected to be resumed today.

Eastern Air Lines reported its Christmas business is the heaviest in its history.

Air express and mail have been unusually heavy. The United Air Lines brought about 26,000 pieces of air mail from the Pacific coast in the twenty-four hour period ended at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Daily Treasury Statement.

Activities of the United States department of the treasury range from the collection of income taxes and patrol of the North Atlantic for icebergs to operation of the public health service and guarding vast hordes of gold and silver.

As cashier and accountant of the nation, however, it is probably best known to the average citizen. In this rôle the treasury department issues a daily statement of its operations and the financial condition of the nation. Copies are sent to every senator, representative, and department head in the capital. Additional copies are also provided for the nation's press.

The statement is considered the most complete analysis of expenditures and receipts made by any government. The major items listed are the daily receipts from taxation, borrowing and other sources, balances held with the federal reserve and other banks, disbursements, the public debt, and the treasury's gold and silver holdings.

Although the statement gives a comprehensive picture of the vast accounting operations of the treasury, it trails the actual workings of the department by thirty-six hours, being issued at 9:30 a. m. on the second day after the day it covers. This is due to the amount of time required to spare it. It takes one business day to make up the statement and a night to print it.

Investors' Guide

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Standard Brands, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Kindly tell me about Standard Brands common stock. What was the outcome of the law suit by the federal government against the company under the Robinson-Patman act? How do this year's earnings compare with last year's?—S. L. D.

Answer: Standard Brands, Inc., one of the country's leading food producers and distributors, increased its sales steadily from 1933 through 1937, but profits, except in 1936, declined throughout the five year period. Earnings this year have been lower than in 1937.

Keener price competition has reduced the company's margin of profit, particularly on yeast, the output of which was greatly increased by the resumption of brewing in this country. Standard Brands was formed in 1929 as successor to the Fleischmann company, and the production of yeast and other Fleishmann items is still the most important division.

Other products include coffees and teas, baking powder, and spices, pickles, salad dressings, vinegar and gin.

The complaint against the company by the federal trade commission under the Robinson-Patman act is still pending. The commission made the complaint in 1936 charging that the company's quantity discounts on yeast discriminated against the purchasers of small lots.

Sales and earnings of Standard Brands in recent years follow:

| | Net sales. | Net income. | Net inc. per com share. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1937 | $122,517,000 | $ 9,868,000 | $0.73 |
| 1936 | 114,976 000 | 14,777,000 | 1.12 |
| 1935 | 102,040 000 | 12,746,000 | 0.97 |
| 1934 | 100,449,000 | 13,889,000 | 1.06 |
| 1933 | 83,281,000 | 14,674,000 | 1.12 |

In the first nine months of this year net income amounted to $6,154,000, or 43 cents a common share, compared with $8,057,000, or 60 cents a share in the first nine months of 1937.

The company has followed a policy of paying out most of earnings in dividends, and the dividend rate has been reduced in line with lower profits. Payment of 20 cents quarterly were maintained in 1937, but the rate was cut to 15 cents a share for the April and July quarters of this year. The Oct. 1 payment was 12½ cents and one of the same amount will be made Jan. 3.

PLAN TO RELIEVE RAIL ILLS SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

Asks National Policy 'Fair for All.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—The special committee named by President Roosevelt to draft recommendations for legislative rehabilitation of the railroads today sent its report to the White House.

The report urged the adoption of a definite national transportation policy based upon principles which will provide "a fair field for all and special favors for none." The report struck at favoritism in the industry in the important matters of regulation, taxation, and subsidies. It urged that regulation of all kinds of transportation be centered in the interstate commerce commission. The important need, it said, is for the creation of the necessary machinery to insure the effective execution of the declared policy.

Makes 14 Recommendations.

To this end the special committee made fourteen recommendations. They were:

1. Adoption by the government of a definite national transportation policy providing for fair, impartial regulation of all modes of transportation, so administered as to preserve the inherent advantage of each.

2. Responsibility to be placed on the I. C. C. to administer all regulatory provisions with respect to rates, services, valuation, and accounting in all forms of transportation.

3. Repeal of the present provisions of section 15a of the interstate commerce act and substitution therefor of a new rate making rule applicable to all modes of transportation.

Would Repeal Long Haul Clause.

4. Repeal of the so-called long and short haul clause of section 4 of the act. This provides that railroads may not charge less for long freight hauls than the sum of short hauls in the same direction.

5. Amendment of sections 8 and 16 of the act relating to reparation in accordance with recommendations heretofore made by the I. C. C. These would shorten the time within which the I. C. C. could award reparation for unreasonable rates or overcharges.

6. Extension of the power of the commission with respect to intrastate rates in connection with general readjustment of interstate rates.

7. A new and independent agency to be created, charged with the duty of investigating and reporting to congress concerning the relative economy and fitness of the several modes of transportation, and the extent to which any of them is now being subsidized.

8. A fair and reasonable system of tolls for commercial use of certain inland waters; the elimination of the Inland Waterways corporation and disposal of its properties.

Tax Relief Is Sought.

9. Legislation, national and state, relieving the railroads of certain unjust tax burdens and providing that government bear the expense of eliminating grade crossings.

10. Adoption of policy that whenever, in connection with the improvement of navigable waters or the carrying out of flood-control or similar projects, a railroad is required to alter or reconstruct bridges or other facilities, it be reimbursed by the government for all costs in excess of any direct benefit accruing to it.

11. Repeal of the reduced rates provisions of the so-called land-grant statutes.

12. Establishment of a single court vested with exclusive jurisdiction over matters connected with railroad reorganizations and composed of judges selected with especial reference to their experience in and qualifications for this highly specialized service. The federal district courts to retain jurisdiction over all matters not connected with reorganization. The I. C. C. to be relieved of all responsibility in railroad reorganizations.

Proposal on Consolidations.

13. Repeal of provisions of the act which make the commission responsible for the prescription of a general plan of consolidation for railroads, thereby restoring to the carriers all initiative, but requiring approval by the transportation board of any proposed consolidation. Such approval to be granted or withheld in accordance with certain considerations, including protection of the public interest and a fair and equitable arrangement to protect the interest of employés affected.

14. Legislation enlarging the powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase or guarantee obligations of and to make loans to railroads or to receivers or trustees. Modification of the requirements with respect to the approval by the I. C. C. of any such purchase, guarantee, or lien.

No Complete Solution.

"We are under no delusion that our recommendations, if given effect, would dispose of all the problems of the railroads," the committee said. "We do feel, however, that they would remove some of the major causes, and are directly responsive to the principal task assigned to the committee of developing recommendations calculated to be helpful in creating stability in the field of transportation."

Members of the special committee are E. E. Norris, president of the Southern railroad; M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania; Carl R. Gray, vice chairman of the Union Pacific; George M. Harrison, head of the Railway Labor Executives association; D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employés' department of the American Federation of Labor.

Carols Still Clamor of Grain Pits

Members of the Carol club of the Board of Trade sang Christmas carols in the lobby of the Board of Trade building yesterday. Herbert J. Holland, an employe of a brokerage house, led the carolers, whose singing brought a crowd that jammed the building's lobby.

Rail Aid Plan Draws Praise and Criticism

Announcement of the railroad relief program worked out by President Roosevelt's special committee, drew varied comment yesterday. Some railroad leaders said it offered a possibility for helping the railroads in their present acute financial troubles. Others said it was "just another plan." And others were noncommittal.

One of the principal objections to the program was that it failed to include provision for improving relations between management and labor.

Fred W. Sargent, president of the North Western, was among those who approved the program.

"I think the committee's report is very fine," he said. "It is constructive, although it will not do much toward solving the railroad problem unless the legislation suggested in it is enacted."

Carries Rails' Proposals.

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington, said:

"On first reading the plan appears to embody some of the proposals developed by the Association of American Railroads. A departure is the proposal that a board be established to take over some of the powers now held by the interstate commerce commission."

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, assailed the program.

"It is just another smokescreen to tickle the chins of the public, give the railroads a little relief, and possibly take something away from the public as well as the employés," he said. "The committee's proposal that consolidations be worked out by individual roads is so broad and so nebulous that no man who represents labor can concur in it unless there is some provision for the protection of labor that would be displaced."

Whitney has been a critic of George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Labor Executives' association, who is a member of the committee that worked out the program.

For Centralized Control.

Donald D. Conn, executive vice president of the Transportation Association of America, said his organization stood 100 per cent behind the proposal that all forms of transportation be regulated by the interstate commerce commission.

"We do not favor any one group over the others," he said. "Our aim is regulation of all transportation for the best interests of industry, agriculture, transportation, and the general public."

John J. Pelley, Washington, president of the Association of American Railroads, said the program appeared to be the most "comprehensive and constructive that has ever been made as to the transportation problem and proposals for its solution."

F. J. Lisman, New York, a rail investment expert, said that the proposals likely will meet the opposition of "narrow, selfish local interests which in the aggregate certainly will defer action by congress until late in the summer." He was among those who said the program sidesteps the labor problem.

MARKETS OF WORLD TO TAKE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY ON MONDAY

The world's principal commodity and security markets and banks will be closed next Monday, the legal holiday following Christmas. Although some exchanges also will not operate today, American grain and security markets will be open.

Among the markets which will not open today are the Liverpool grain exchange, Savannah naval stores market, and the New York Produce exchange.

Trading will be resumed in the American markets Tuesday morning. Liverpool grain, produce and cotton and the London Stock exchanges will reopen Wednesday morning.

FREIGHT TRAFIC DIPS AS YEAR NEARS END; REMAINS ABOVE 1937

Year-end curtailment of shipments caused freight car loadings in the week ended Dec. 17 to decline from the preceding week's total. However, the decline was not sufficient to drag last week's loadings below those for the comparative week last year.

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that loadings of revenue freight last week totaled 606,314 cars, a decrease of 13,026 cars, or 2.1 per cent, from those of the preceding week, but an increase of 6,031 cars, or 1 per cent, over those of the similar 1937 week. Compared with the volume of rail shipments in the same week in 1936, last week's loadings dropped 123,734 cars.

A severe drop in coal shipments was explained by the rush of orders during the first part of December last year. This followed announcement by the National Bituminous Coal commission that new minimum price schedules would become effective Dec. 16 of that year.

The association's classified report follows:

| Commodity. | Week Ended Dec. 17. | —Change from— Previous Week. | Year Ago. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Misc. freight | 238,669 | —7,092 | +23,433 |

RAILS WILL CUT NEBRASKA RATES TO MEET TRUCKS

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The state railway commission today authorized all Nebraska railroads seeking to strike back at truck competition to establish intrastate freight rates comparable to those charged by motor carriers. The new rates will be effective Jan. 2.

Commission officials estimated the new rates will represent an average reduction of 20 per cent and will affect 90 per cent of the shipments within the state. The railroads under the new arrangement will virtually adopt the airline mileage basis used by truckers.

In an application filed four days ago the railroads said they had been "handicapped" since the state agency established lower rates for trucks last Feb. 14.

New Financing in Week Is Far Above Year Ago

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—New financing this week, $45,589,428, was more than four times the amount of the corresponding period of 1937, Poor's publishing company reported today. Details follow:

U. S. Treasury Receives Pay for Borrowing

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—By selling part of its weekly issue of discount bills above par the United States treasury has set a record for cheap money—a "negative" interest rate. The treasury, in effect, was paid interest to borrow money rather than having to pay interest on the money it borrowed.

It announced today that $100,000 of its 91 day bill offering on Dec. 21 had been sold at a premium of $10, and the rest of it, $100,932,000, at par.

In a number of states and communities taxes are imposed at specific dates upon bank deposits. To avoid these taxes it is worth while for large depositors to buy treasury bills at par or even at a slight premium so as to place their money in tax free securities rather than leaving it on deposit.

Avoid Cash Withdrawals.

Banks in the states which have such taxes make a point of bidding for treasury bills extending over the taxable dates so as to be able to offer them to large depositors and avoid cash withdrawals.

With the approach of the end of the year many banks are desirous of obtaining additional government securities to show in their year-end statements so as to avoid the appearance of holding an unduly large amount of idle cash. These banks may not wish to carry long term government securities, so they are willing to pay a high price for treasury bills which can be disposed of or allowed to mature after the statement date.

High Prices Expected.

In the next two months succeeding issues of treasury bills are expected to attract high tenders because some of the most important tax dates will be included in the ninety day life of the bills being sold in the near future. The Illinois date is April 1.

The highest cost this year to the treasury in its bill financing was 0.146 per cent on April 11. The low record prior to this week was 0.006 per cent, the rate at which last week's issue was sold.

Holiday Season Causes Decline in Auto Output

The Christmas holiday season was responsible for a moderate decline in automobile production this week, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., said yesterday. Production this week totaled 92,890 units, against 102,905 last week and 67,230 in the corresponding 1937 week. Ward's predicted that the seasonal contraction now under way will be less than normal. It said output for the first quarter of 1939 is likely to total 1,000,000 units, or almost 50 per cent higher than the 668,317 assemblies in the first quarter of 1938.

Shippers Predict 33.9% Rise in Lake Area Freight Trafic

Shippers in the region served by the Great Lakes Advisory board yesterday estimated that they will require 33.9 per cent more freight cars to handle the business they expect in the first quarter of 1939 than they used in the first quarter of 1938. The estimate was made to help the railroads to provide for car needs.

Members of the Great Lakes board are shippers located in the strip of territory along the southern shore of Lake Erie from Buffalo through to Toledo and including all of lower Michigan and the northeastern corner of Indiana. The big industrial area of Detroit is included.

The Great Lakes shippers were much more optimistic than the shippers served by the Midwest Shippers Advisory board, which covers Chicago and a large part of the Chicago territory. Earlier this week the midwest shippers predicted that their car requirements for the first quarter would exceed the cars actually used in the first quarter of 1938 by 9.3 per cent.

Officials of the board said, however, that their estimate was extremely conservative.

The estimate of the Great Lakes board was its first quarterly forecast to show an upswing in the last five quarters. Among the products expected to make the largest increases as compared with the first quarter of 1938 are iron and steel loadings, up 32.8 per cent, and automobiles, trucks and parts, up 78.1 per cent.

The forecasts made by the various shippers' advisory boards are rated among the best barometers of business and industrial activity. The reason is that they are based on business either actually in hand or in sight.

STOCKS HIGHER; ADVANCE AGAIN IS LED BY RAILS

Report on Carriers' Needs Anticipated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 23.—With railroad issues setting the pace, stock prices moved moderately higher today. It was the second successive day of firmness after a downward drifting movement earlier in the week.

Volume again passed the million share mark, the day's total being 1,216,637 shares.

The market was firm from the start. Rails and steels took the lead. Pressure on aviations lifted. The buying impetus in the rails was anticipation of a favorable report by the President's committee on transportation. A little more buying came in later when terms of the report were announced.

Rail Equipments Firmer.

This also gave the railroad equipment shares a lift, on hopes that the suggestion for easier loan conditions will start equipment buying.

A few stocks managed to post gains of as much as two points and a fair number of one point advances were scattered through the list. However, most of the changes were held to fractions.

Railroad and rail equipment issues worked ahead for gains of one point or more. Such issues included Santa Fe common and preferred, Chesapeake corporation, Cheaspeake and Ohio common and preferred, Budd Manufacturing, American Brakeshoe, Lima Locomotive, Nickel Plate common and preferred, Westinghouse Airbrake, Pere Marquette preferred, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Gains in Steels Reduced.

Gains in the steel group were trimmed. Although having advances of more than a point at one time, Bethlehem and United States Steel had to be content with net gains of ¾ each.

Motors reacted similarly, with Chrysler finishing ¾ higher and General Motors up ⅝.

Aviations held in a narrow range, with a majority of the group unchanged to fractionally higher.

Oils showed fair strength, with Standard Oil of New Jersey and Sun Oil rising 1⅛ and 2 points, respectively. Others were mostly fractionally higher.

Rubbers ruled fractionally higher. Metals were up minor fractions to a point or more.

Utilities were generally firm, but gains were held in a fractional range.

SEVERAL LARGE UTILITIES SHOW LOWER EARNINGS

Sharply lower net earnings for the twelve months ended Nov. 30 were reported yesterday by several public utility companies.

The Northern Indiana Public Service company reported that net income in the twelve months amounted to $1,834,407, equal to 25 cents a common share. In the preceding twelve months net earnings were $2,241,568, or 48 cents a share.

Net incomes of companies which reported yesterday follow:

MORE CHRISTMAS GIFTS BOUGHT THAN YEAR AGO

The nation bought 2 per cent more Christmas gifts and other goods in the week ended Dec. 17 than in the comparative week last year, it was reported yesterday in the federal reserve board's weekly summary of department store sales.

The improvement in buying is the first in recent weeks. Last week the national turnover was 2 per cent below that for the corresponding week in 1937. In the week ended Dec. 3 the decline from last year was also 2 per cent.

The upturn in sales throughout the nation was reflected in the 7th federal reserve district [Chicago area]. Department store sales in the district rose 2.1 per cent over those of the same week last year. Chicago department store sales, however, continued to slump, dropping 0.6 per cent below those of 1937.

Montana-Idaho Rail Asks to Abandon Whole Line

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—The Gilmore and Pittsburgh Railroad Company, Limited, operating in Montana and Idaho, today asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to abandon its entire road, comprising about 120 miles of main line and eleven miles of yard tracks and sidings. The application said the road had been losing money for many years and that by next May 1 its cash would be exhausted.

Brig. Gen. W. K. Naylor Now Glass Company Head

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec., 23.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. W. K. Naylor, who retired a few days ago as commandant of Fort Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis, today became acting president of the Phoenix Glass company of Rochester, Pa.

Peoples Gas Will Pay $1 on Common Stock

Directors of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company voted yesterday to pay $1 a share on the capital stock Jan. 27 to stockholders of record Jan. 6. The Chicago utility paid $1 a share Sept. 1. Several other Chicago companies also announced dividends.

Last year the Peoples Gas paid $2 on Dec. 10. The dividends declared this year also total $2. The company did not pay any dividends from 1934 through 1936, paid $3.50 in 1933, $6.50 in 1932 and $8 a year from 1925 through 1931.

Corn Products, Wrigley Act.

The Corn Products Refining company announced it will pay the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock on Jan. 20 and $1.75 on the 7 per cent preferred on Jan. 16. The Allen B. Wrisley company, soap and perfume makers, declared a dividend of $5.25 payable Dec. 22 on the $7 preferred. It paid $1.75 on Jan. 3 this year.

The directors of the Continental Casualty company voted to recommend to stockholders at a meeting Feb. 1 that the capital stock be increased from $1,750,000 to $2,000,000 by the issuance of 50,000 additional shares of stock. These shares would be distributed as a stock dividend on the basis of one to each seven shares held.

The Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company announced the payment of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.12 and a special disbursement of 25 cents on Jan. 3.

Day's Dividend Actions.

CIGARET OUTPUT EXPANDS AFTER TWO MONTHS' SAG

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—After two months of decline, cigaret production in the United States turned upward once more in November, setting at the same time a new high for any November. Last month's increase put the total for the first eleven months of the year almost 1,000,000,000 ahead of the like total during 1937.

November withdrawals of cigarets for consumption in the United States totaled 13,505,602,337, against 12,786,229,523 in November last year, an increase of 5.6 per cent, the department of internal revenue reported.

In eleven months the withdrawals were 151,002,515,300, against 150,014,897,310 in the 1937 period, an increase of six-tenths of 1 per cent.

Business Books

"Savings and Loan Principles," by Morton Bodfish and A. D. Theobald. [Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York City. Price, $4.00.]

Growth of savings and loan associations, particularly since 1929, how they operate, and their principles are described in this new volume. Each of the book's twenty-five chapters treats a separate phase of such associations in general. These topics range from types of services offered to texts of federal laws regulating the business.

The authors wrote this book primarily for students, association managers, business men, public officials, and teachers. Its style is simple and direct. Accordingly, the average reader is helped rather than hindered in grasping easily the fundamentals of the business. The volume consists of 700 pages, with many illustrations.

SENATOR GLASS IS HONORED FOR RESERVE WORK

Praised by Roosevelt and Other Officials.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt joined others high in public life today in praising Senator Glass of Virginia for his work in creating and defending the federal reserve system. The occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the signing of the federal reserve act.

Senator Glass.

It was observed by unveiling a bronze plaque, bearing the senator's likeness, in the Federal Reserve Board building. The demonstration brought tears to the senator's eyes. Surrounded by sons and daughters, he said he had "not a thing to say, my heart is too full for words."

Message from Roosevelt.

He had just heard messages from the President and William G. McAdoo, who as secretary of the treasury, was the first ex-officio chairman of the reserve board, and a speech by Representative Steagall [D., Ala.], chairman of the house banking committee.

"It is especially appropriate," Roosevelt wrote, "that you are marking the anniversary by unveiling on the wall opposite the portrait of President Wilson a bas-relief of Senator Glass of Virginia, who as one of the original sponsors of the act, has always been its defender."

Steagall Praises Glass.

Steagall said: "Historians will be amazed at the mass of information brought to the problem by Senator Glass," who as house banking chairman, managed the legislation in that chamber.

"He beat back with devastating facts opposition both in and out of congress," Steagall declared. "Opponents became supporters through his masterly presentation."

LA SALLE STREET BEGINS HOLIDAYS IN SOBER MOOD

Christmas celebrations in La Salle street yesterday were among the quietest in years. Business in the stock exchange houses and the grain brokerage firms was limited this year, so there were few bonuses to inspire galety among the workers. Some of the investment security houses, however, were able to make fair Christmas payments.

There were few evidences of the parties which in former years made the financial district one of the gayest areas in the city just before the Christmas holidays. At the close of trading today a little of the old time celebrating is expected.

Many of the partners of the principal houses closed their desks yesterday and will not return to their offices until Tuesday morning.

At the City National bank Elmer Crabbs led the bank's male chorus of thirty-five members in singing Christmas carols.

ROCK ISLAND'S NET OPERATING INCOME RISES

The Rock Island railroad reported yesterday that its November net operating income was $460,842, against $281,022 in November, 1937. For the eleven months ended Nov. 30 its net operating income was $1,934,100, against $4,043,606 in the like period of 1937. The 1937 period included a $1,220,000 credit resulting from the cancelation of the 1936 railroad retirement act accruals.

U. S. ACTS TO CUT SPECULATION IN GRAIN MARKETS

Puts New Limit on Traders' Holdings.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The Commodity Exchange administration issued an order today placing limits on speculative trading in grain in the nation's futures contracts markets.

Designed to prevent wide fluctuations in grain prices as the result of speculative operations, the order placed the limit on the net long or short position which any trader may hold on a single market at 2,000,000 bushels in any one future or in all futures combined of any one grain.

The order also placed a limit of 3,000,000 bushels on the net position of a trader operating in more than one market, providing no more than 2,000,000 bushels is in any one future.

Old Limit 5 Million Bushels.

The only limit on trading now in effect is 5,000,000 bushels in any grain future. This limit was informally adopted several years ago by the Chicago Board of Trade at the behest of federal officials. The new limits imposed carry the full force of law under the terms of the commodity exchange act.

The new order, which becomes effective on Dec. 31, places the same limits on the amount of purchases or sales that may be made during one business day.

In other words, a trader operating on the long side of the wheat market may not be under contract in a single market to buy more than 2,000,000 bushels in any one or all delivery months, or more than 3,000,000 bushels in more than one market.

Short Selling Restricted.

Likewise, a short trader may not be under contract in a single market to sell more than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, or more than 3,000,000 bushels in more than one market.

Also, a trader operating both long and short must not have a difference of more than 2,000,000 bushels in his two positions in a single market, or more than 3,000,000 bushels in more than one market.

The order covers speculative trading for future delivery in wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, and flaxseed in markets operated at Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Duluth, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

The trading limits do not apply, however, to bona fide hedging transactions or to the trading of futures commission merchants and floor brokers unless such a trading is for their own account.

Commission Explains Purposes.

"The purpose in placing a limit on the speculative holdings or transactions of a trader is to prevent the wide fluctuations or daily changes in price of grain futures which may result from his heavy trading," the commission said. "It has long been recognized that large speculative transactions represent an element of grave danger to the market. It is hoped that these limitations will eliminate those fluctuations that come about by artificial and unnatural means."

The commission said the order was not expected to have any considerable effect upon the markets, inasmuch as the volume of trading now is at an unusually low level. The order was issued under provisions of the commodity exchange act after public hearings were held in Chicago on Dec. 1, last year.

WEATHER LIFTS GRAINS

Lack of moisture in the American southwest, a cold wave in Europe and torrid weather in Argentina combined yesterday to advance wheat and corn prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

May wheat advanced ½ cent to 67¼ cents a bushel. Selling by commission houses on resting orders checked the upturn at that figure. The price was the highest since Dec. 12. Closing trades were at gains of ⅝ cent a bushel.

Closing prices on the May delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

| | Yesterday. | Thursday. | Year ago. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat | $ .67¼ | $ .67 | $ .92¼ |
| Corn | .52¼ | .51¾ | .60¼ |
| Oats | .28¾ | .28¾ | .30¾ |
| Rye | .45¼ | .44¾ | .70¼ |
| Soy beans | .81 | .80½ | .97 |

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation announced that it sold 2,000,000 bushels of domestic wheat for export on Thursday.

Corn showed a strong undertone from the start and closed with gains of ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel.

Estimate on World Wheat Production Is Increased

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—(AP)—The agriculture department reported today that indicated world production of wheat this season would reach 4,448,000,000 bushels. This is 65,000,000 bushels more than expected a month ago. It exceeds last season's production by about 630,000,000 bushels. A larger Argentine crop was mainly responsible for the increase.

RAILROAD LOANS AGAIN LEAD BOND MARKET UPWARD

Entire List Is Benefited; Trading Heavier.

New York, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The entire bond market was benefited today by another demonstration of strength in the rail group. Broad and active buying in the carriers, continuing throughout the session, lifted prices generally to around the top range of the December advance.

The confident demand in the face of the coming Christmas holiday stimulated similar activities in miscellaneous domestic industrial issues over a broad front. Rails were in good stride in the upturn when the recommendation of the President's special committee on railroads were made known around midday.

Report Speeds Advance.

After a hasty examination of the report, traders concluded it contained some constructive proposals from the standpoint of the investors' interests, and the advance in rail bonds was accelerated. The next step awaited is the framing of definite legislative action to help the carriers improve their finances.

Up 1 to 3 or more points at the close were New York Central 4s of '98 at 60⅛; Northern Pacific 6s at 82⅜; Southern Pacific collateral 4s of '49 at 52⅛ and 4½s of '69 at 50⅜; Western Union 5s of '51 at 56 and 5s of '60 at 53⅜; Nickel Plate 5½s at 58¼; Studebaker 6s at 84; Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 57½; Boston and Maine 5s of '67 at 25, and Illinois Central 4¾s at 51¼.

Federal List Is Strong.

United States government loans also participated in the upswing, ending with gains ranging up to 8-32 point.

Some foreign loans were out of step with the major trend. There were sharp dips in obligations of Japan, Italy, and Germany. Issues of Silesia province fell 4 to 5 points in small dealings.

Volume increased to $10,485,400 face value, from $9,391,100 yesterday.

U. S. Will Get More Gold from Holland, England

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported that $1,461,000 of gold was engaged yesterday in Holland and England for shipment to this country. Most of the metal, $1,111,000, was engaged in Holland. Foreign currencies were quoted slightly lower in terms of American dollars. The British pound close dat $4.66⅝, off 3-16 cent from the preceding day. French francs dropped 0.0025 cent to 2.63 cents.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Top light hogs yesterday soared to $8.00, the highest mark in the trade since Nov. 8. This price was paid for a carload of selected 175 pound averages and showed a gain of 25 cents over the top price of the preceding session. Heavier stock dragged on a steady to 10 cents higher basis. The average for the market moved up 10 cents to $7.40.

Practically no change was found in the cattle trade. The supply of killing kinds was limited and quality was poorest of the week.

Slaughter lambs brought steady to strong prices.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

Following talk and entertainment 241 baskets were distributed to unfortunate families in Chicago. Hundreds of members of aviation industry took part.
